IT IS A FINE PLAY.
 London Life an Old Country Spectacular Production.

It Not Only Includes Fine Scenery But a Thrilling Plot—Here Saturday Night.

"London Life," a new drama which won an immediate triumph in New York last season, will receive its first production here on Saturday evening. A happy inspiration was manifested in the choosing of the title, "London Life." It prepares the audience for an atmosphere at once new, strange and fascinating. No city in the world possesses so many elements of dramatic interest as London, where the line between rich and poor, aristocrat and pauper, is more sharply defined than anywhere else on earth. The new play, "London Life," is interesting with diverse and characteristic threads of human interest. Some of the stage pictures portray the life of the English aristocracy whose high breeding and wealth are formed to entail the same poignant sorrows as in the homes of the poor. The play is said to reflect all types of English society as sympathetically and dramatically as in the novels of Charles Dickens. Quite a vein of comedy runs through the play; genuine humor of scene and character; and many pleasant touches of rough and ready fun kept within the bounds which the mainly serious aims of the play necessitate. "London Life" will be presented here with the same costly and lavish scenic equipment which characterized the New York production. The company engaged to present the work is pronounced one of superior excellence, and the interpolated musical features will include special selections by the Newsboys' quartet and the Costers' quartette which are sure to prove entertaining.

AN UNKNOWN LAND
 Dr. Rijnhart Talks About Life in Far-off Thibet.

The People are Extremely Filthy and Never Wash, But are Kind and Hospitable.

The Park Street Methodist church was well filled last night, the occasion being the lecture by Dr. Susie Rijnhart on her thrilling experiences in the interior of Thibet. The Rev. Dr. Hanson occupied the chair. Mr. S. Gardner, president of the W. F. M. S., and Dr. Rijnhart occupied seats on the platform. The meeting opened with the singing of the hymn, "Crown Him Lord of All," followed by prayer by Dr. Hanson. The choir gave an excellent rendering of the anthem, "Hear us, the night is falling." The chairman introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. Susie Rijnhart, who had the sympathy of the audience before she began. She was attired in the native Thibetan costume. The garment is of heavy, dark, red, woolen material, woven in one piece. A girdle is worn round the waist from which hang the chop sticks, a knife used in eating, and a small Thibetan bag. Her shoulders and wide sleeves, enabling the wearer to slip his arms through to the body of the garment and, after loosening the girdle use it for blanket at night. The head dress is a skull cap. In the front of the garment is carried a small wooden bowl used for eating purposes. This garment is worn day and night continuously by the natives of both sexes as long as it will hold together. Dr. Rijnhart brought the garment she wore from the heart of Thibet. She said Thibet was a country north of India almost entirely shut off from intercourse with the rest of the world with the exception of China. The native officials will not give passports through Thibet under any consideration and the Chinese refuse because they fear the ruination of their extensive tea and fancy article trade, consequently those entering the country try to do so at their own risk. In religion it is of the purest Buddhism to be found in the world. The people are very poor, their wealth consisting of a shanty, a few wooden utensils, a sword and spear and flocks and cattle. Yet in spite of this their temples are the most magnificent in the world. Many of the roofs are of gold, the draperies of heavily embroidered satin and gauze, the urns and columns studded with precious stones. The country is full of priests, who are maintained by the people. The people themselves are very dirty, utterly refusing under any consideration to apply water, for the purpose of cleansing to any part of the body. Their food consists of tea boiled with a good deal of butter in it and barley meal also mixed with butter. In making this butter they never strain the milk, never wash the wooden pans. After the butter is made it is put into sacks and hung from the ceiling, be it summer or winter, to be used inside of two months or five years according to the needs of the owner. It takes a great deal of moral courage to drink a cup of tea, containing a liberal supply of this butter, when you know that at the bottom of your bowl you will find hairs and all manner of filth. Yet in spite of these drawbacks, after a residence of five years among these people it was with feelings of real sorrow that I said good-bye to them. They are very hospitable and endeavor themselves to you in many ways.

"We lived on the borders of Thibet for four years," continued Dr. Rijnhart, "and in May, '98, decided to go into the interior. From that time until October 1 I was in the interior of Thibet. When we entered we had twenty-one horses, fourteen of which were pack-horses. Our party consisted of my husband and child, three men, two dogs and myself. Five months later I crossed the border, having lost all the horses and baggage, having left my child buried in the heart of Thibet and my husband in a worse fate. One year ago I buried my husband and I was asleep or rather resting on the banks of one of the streams of Yang-ti-se-Kiang without horses or baggage, having buried our child a few days before, and expecting any moment to have to take to the river and swim for our lives."

"I have not gone into these harrowing details for newspaper notoriety or fame but that interest may be aroused and the work carried on. A young Chinese medical student is going to enter Thibet as a missionary next year. Being a Chinese he will possess the necessary passports and be able to accomplish what no European ever could. I hope to return to take up again hospital and industrial work on the borders. A fund has been started in memory of Baby Rijnhart, the first Christiano to be buried in Thibet, and we hope in his memory to achieve grand results from the work thus begun." The meeting closed with doxology and benediction.

Did you ever
See a Snow Storm in Summer?

We never did; but we have seen the thing at this time of the year so covered with dandruff that it looked as if it had been out in a regular snow-storm.

No need of this snowstorm. As the summer sun would melt the falling snow so will melt these flakes of dandruff in the scalp. It goes further than this; it prevents their formation.

We have still other properties: It will restore color to gray hair in just ten times out of every ten cases. And it does even more: it feeds and nourishes the roots of the hair. Thin hair becomes thick hair; and short hair becomes long hair.

We have a book on the Hair and Scalp. It is yours, for the asking.

If you do not obtain all the benefits which the doctor about it. Probably the best system which may be easily recommended.

A COLUMN TROUBLE.
 Thousands Suffer From It Without Knowing Its Real Character.

No trouble is more common or more misapprehended than nervous dyspepsia. People having it think that their nerves are to blame, are surprised that they are not cured by nerve medicines and spring remedies; the real seat of mischief is lost sight of; the stomach is the organ to be looked after.

Nervous dyspepsia often do not have any gain whatever in the stomach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of it—acid stomach, nervous dyspepsia, bloating, flatulency, indigestion, and so on in nearly every other organ; in some cases the heart palpitates and is irregular; in others, the kidneys are affected; in others, the bowels are troubled, with loss of flesh and appetite, with the accumulation of gas, sour rising and heartburn.

Mr. A. W. Sharper, of No. 61 Prospect St., Indianapolis, Ind., writes as follows: "A number of gentlemen prompt me to write these few lines regarding the new and valuable medicine, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I have been afflicted for the last four years; have used various patent medicines and other remedies without any favorable result. They sometimes give temporary relief until the effects of the medicine were off, I attributed this to my sedentary habits, being a bookkeeper with little physical exercise, but I am glad to state that the tablets have overcome all these obstacles, for I have gained in flesh, sleep better and am better in every way. The above is written, not for notoriety, but is based on actual facts."
 Respectfully yours,
 A. W. Sharper,
 61 Prospect St., Indianapolis, Ind.

It is safe to say that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure any stomach weakness or disease except cancer of the stomach. They cure sour stomach, gas, loss of flesh and appetite, sleeplessness, palpitation, heartburn, constipation and headache.
