FOR A NEW TRIAL.

Mullin Still Fighting for Frank's Life—Appeals to Supreme Court Today.

Mullin, K. C., left for Fredericton tonight. Today before the full of the supreme court he will argue for leave to appeal in the case of crown against Frank Higgins, under sentence to die Dec. 13. The plea will be based on the claim that certain members of the jury were prejudiced against the prisoner and so declared themselves, even though they had sworn in, and that, notably, that of the accused, Goodspeed, was irregularly returned. He will also enter objection to sections of Judge Landry's charge to the jury. He will also ask the court to grant the required leave, the case will be argued in extent at a later date in the present sitting, when a decision as to whether the case will be handed down. Should their decision be in favor of the crown, Mr. Higgins' contentions are not strong enough to allow them to consider an appeal for a new trial. MULLOCK BANQUETED.

ONTARIO, Nov. 7.—Mullock was fetted tonight by the Mullock. The most interesting portion of the banquet was the compulsory act introduced in the last session of parliament, which will be again at the next session. The recent coal strike as he showed that five months have been saved in that case since an act been in force in Pamp. He thought much of the fact already passed upon the act. He pointed out that the present voluntary act of parliament has been able to intervene actively in several disputes, and particularly referred to the coal on Vancouver Island and in Scotia.

DYING LIKE RABBITS.

FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—Thousands of of Hensch Island and along the coast are dying from measles. News was brought by the whaling fleet, which arrived yesterday. "Whaling cruise," Capt. Newell, of the "A. L. Smith," said today: "At least 25 per cent of the crew are dying from measles. They are dying like rabbits. There seems to be nothing to check the rate. The march of civilization crossed the death rate from Nome. Two years ago the devastation began to wear civilization. When the men began to drink white man's whiskey, then their decline."

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—Senator Quay, an issue of the republican committee, issued a statement to the press in which he gave his estimate of the chances for governor tomorrow. The statement is a plurality in the state for republican. Quay's estimate is that the republican candidate but one of the 32 electoral districts to the republican and the republican will have two-thirds in both branches of the legislature.

BRADBURY OF PUNCH

Talked Freely to the Sun, Last Evening.

About the World Famed Paper of which He is Chief Editor, and of His Globe Encircling Tour Now Almost Completed.

Mr. Bradbury, one of the proprietors of Punch, was a visitor in St. John yesterday. He is completing a sort of imperial pilgrimage, having left London in February, and visited Egypt, Australia, New Zealand, India, and crossed Canada from the Pacific entrance. Mr. Bradbury is not an observer of the times and seasons. He was in India about midsummer, visited Banff and the other resorts in the mountains after the tourist season closed, passed over the prairie country after the close of the harvest, and is seeing Eastern Canada at the approach of the winter season.

Though this arrangement of dates was not altogether of malice aforethought, Mr. Bradbury found it worth while to discover how hot India could be, and has enjoyed the quiet of a Canadian tour when tourists are not abundant. Mr. Bradbury considers Australia an interesting country to visit at the present time. The struggle of the several states and of the people generally to adjust themselves to the condition of the new commonwealth government is worth studying on the ground. The Australian problem is complicated by a drought which has caused great loss to cattle and sheep owners. Australia is a great country, but so vast that one can learn little about it in an ordinary visit. New Zealand is more like England, in climate, in landscape and in the manner and character of its people.

The Sun spared Mr. Bradbury the question how he liked Canada. He seems to have met that inquiry already. To one interviewer he expressed his inability to appreciate all the elements of the American joke, and the modest traveler was rather surprised when he read in startling headlines "Punch disapproves of American humor." That statement did not represent his frame of mind, and he did not speak for Punch, which, of course, appreciates all humor.

Mr. Bradbury found the Rocky Mountain scenery all that he expected, and was especially delighted with Lake Louise in the Mountains. He likes the cities of Toronto and Montreal, and has a high opinion of the enterprise and resource of the Canadian newspapers. As Punch is a familiar visitor to Canadian households, Mr. Bradbury was asked about the home life of that good natured individual. It could be said that he has a family pride in the publication. Punch started out in 1841 with a laudable purpose of furnishing cartoons which would not be vulgar or offensive but rather of a useful purpose. The enterprise had its early vicissitudes and when Punch was bought by Mr. Bradbury's grandfather it had not become a financial success. The family name was connected with it since those early days, and have endeavored to carry out the original idea. While Punch looks on persons and things from the ridiculous side, no public man who figures in its pages takes offence. Not long ago when a banquet was given to Sir John Tenniel, who for forty years made cartoons for Punch, those who took part in or expressed sympathy with the remarkable demonstration included practically all the eminent men known to the pages of that paper.

Mr. Bradbury gave an interesting description of the weekly dinner, in which members of the staff join every Wednesday evening. Many men write or draw for Punch, but the staff proper are those who eat together. After dinner comes the staff council concerning the large cartoon for the coming week. Did Mr. Tenniel in his day decide for himself what the subject should be? Not at all. Every one brought his ideas, the editor perhaps having given the most attention to the question. Out of the collision of minds the subject was evolved and elaborated. Mr. Tenniel was apt to sit silently smoking a long clay pipe while the talk went on. But when the question of the treatment of the idea and the artistic details came up he was sufficiently pronounced. Mr. Bradbury left last night for Halifax, and from there goes to Boston to take ship for home.

N. H. FIEND

Assaulted Mrs. Martin Bunnell of Leamington and Escaped.

COLEBROOK, N. H., Nov. 5.—A party of indignant citizens and police, under the direction of the town authorities, searched this vicinity today for traces of a man who yesterday assaulted Mrs. Martin Bunnell, of Leamington, on a lonely road, a short distance from this place. Mrs. Bunnell was beaten and choked into insensibility and today she is in a critical condition from fright and from her struggle with the assailant. The man made good his escape. Mrs. Bunnell was driving home from Colebrook village yesterday afternoon, and when going through a patch of woods a masked man sprang out and seized the horse by the bit. The animal plunged and Mrs. Bunnell was thrown out of the wagon. The man then dragged her into the woods and choked her into insensibility because she screamed. Mr. Bunnell, who had started out to find his wife when the horse came home with the empty carriage, found her in a semi-conscious condition, badly bruised and most of her clothing torn off. Today she is in a serious condition. When the authorities heard of the assault a searching party was organized, but the assailant could not be found.

CABINET MAKING

Laurier Finds Tarte a Lion in His Path.

How the Situation is Now Regarded in Montreal—There Are Three Rival Candidates in the Field.

OTTAWA, Nov. 5.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier left for Ottawa at four o'clock this afternoon. Before leaving he stated the change in the cabinet of his resignation from Ottawa. The day the premier was in conference with leading liberals of the city, and from what he has gleaned a decision has yet been reached as to how the vacant portfolio will be filled.

The Herald tonight publishes a large list of names, including the names of "probably" next minister of public works, but this is regarded as a bluff. The Herald has always been a consistent opponent of Prefontaine, in spite of the fact that the Liberal party is placed in local politics, its enemy being born of municipal politics. As the situation stands at present there are three candidates in the field. Prefontaine is after the job for himself because he needs it. Brodeur's friends are urging his claims in spite of the fact that he is perfectly content with his present position. The main speaker of the house for three sessions and then step on the bench. But friends recognize he is the only man who is perfectly content with his present position. The main speaker of the house for three sessions and then step on the bench. HELD FOR MURDER

Of Miss Morton, the McLean Hospital Laundress.

Strong Evidence Accumulating Against A. C. Mason, a Wealthy Boston Business Man and Club Member.

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—Today's developments in the case of Alan G. Mason, who is under arrest charged with the murder of Miss Clara Morton, a laundress in the McLean asylum, in Weymouth, last Saturday night, have been of a startling nature. It was announced first that the watch of the victim had been found in a Cambridge street pawnshop, where it had been pawned for $4 by a young colored man, and this discovery at once led to a general search of the city for this man by the entire police force, but without avail. When the pawn broker's memory had been jogged a little and he had time to think over the matter, he remembered that the watch had been brought to his office on last Saturday night between the hours of 11 and 11:30 by a white man and offered in pawn. Owing to the fact that it was after business hours, he refused to receive it, and after expressing his appointment the man departed, taking the watch with him.

On Monday morning the same watch was brought in by a colored man about 21 years of age, of whom the pawn broker bought it for four dollars. A burly colored man, evidently a companion of the other had been waiting outside the shop while the trade was being made, and as soon as it was completed he entered and took the money which the proprietor had passed over.

How the English Workmen Will Eventually Secure Benefits.

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—John A. Hobson, M. A. of London, lecturer in Faneuil hall last evening in the series on "The Industrial Problems of the United States," under the auspices of the Twentieth Century Club. He was well received by the audience, and the lecturer talked on "Industrial Problems of the United States." Mr. Hobson gave an interesting and exhaustive account of the origin and growth of the labor movement in England, with facts and figures as to its present strength and its future prospects. He asserted, soundly, the practical death of the old trade unionism, and the rise of the new movement, which he said was far more strongly organized than the labor in England. He said that in a trade union it is not the men who are the members, but the trade unionism itself. He said that the old trade unionism was based on the principle of mutual aid, and that the new movement was based on the principle of class solidarity. After the ceremony was performed the bride and groom drove to the depot and there caught a train for a trip through upper Canada. They will reside in New Glasgow.
