

PRESERVED RIGHT ON THE FARMS

Not hauled or trans-shipped for miles before being put up, but hand-picked when just right for preserving, carried in baskets to kitchens right in the midst of the orchards. Then carefully washed, and preserved with choicest granulated sugar and pure spring—not ordinary—water.

E. D. Smith's Pure Fruit Jams, Jellies and Preserves

Proved by the Government to be 100 per cent. Pure and to contain none of the chemical dyes, preservatives, etc., commonly used in the manufacture of Jams.

No wonder women say that E. D. Smith's Jams, Jellies and Preserves are different. Can you find another manufacturer, or even a housewife, who can get fresh, ripe fruit from the "Garden of Canada" as soon after being picked as we get it—get pure, clean, sparkling water from a spring in mountain rock nearby—and who also has a kitchen containing the best equipment known that tends to cleanliness and production of good food? Your grocer has them.

How You Can Help Us

Do you realize how much more readily and gladly your friends and neighbors will give a subscription for the JOURNAL to you than to any outsider? In the first place they have perfect confidence in you. They know what you will like they will like. Will you lend us this influence of yours in making CANADIAN HOME JOURNAL known in your neighborhood. Will you ask all the women around you to subscribe and send the JOURNAL as gifts to their friends. They will like it, because it is such great value for $1.00, because it is Canadian and because you recommend it.

EDUCATIONAL OFFER

The Road to Success

Many of the highest paid business men have started as stenographers. To a keen young man, the position of private secretary is a sure step toward an executive position.

In an office, a young woman secures the means for further study and culture—music, art, literature, domestic science. Association with bright, energetic minds is excellent experience.

You Can Earn a Three Months' Course in Shorthand and Stenography

by securing 60 yearly subscriptions to Canadian Home Journal before January 1st at $1.00 each.

Board During the Course and Carfare to Toronto from any place in Ontario by securing 150 subscriptions. Extra for more distant points.

With such a universally attractive home magazine, with the appeal to Canadian loyalty, and your excellent purpose, you should get an order from nearly every house. To help you get orders quickly, we give

An Attractive Free Premium
