There were once two blue bugs

from the rim.

three red bugs,

All the bugs were on the friendliest possible terms and constantly went to call on each other

And went on excursions together

And had delightful parties.

And then one day a black bug, who was related to nobody, appeared in the neighbourhood.

After that, the black bug It was not a success broke up their parties.

Social life came to a standstill.

A desperate secret meeting was held. At last they decided on a plan.

The other bugs were dubinus, out nevertheless made a. attempt to be friendly.

The next morning they rushed from their homes of a certain cliff.

The black bug followed them to the foot of the cliff, where he jumped up and down, and shouted personal remarks.

Meanwhile, they were pushing a large stone towards to edge.

at once a horrid noise

The black bug had been squashed quite flat.

They slipped the remains into an envelope.

And left it propped against the fatal stone to be mailed.
