Minard's Limment Cures Distemper age is telling on his appearance.

Out on the roads they have gathered, To sundred thousand men, as sure as the hold of the word in his den.

To ask for a hold on life as sure as the hold of the word in his den.

Their need lies close to the quick of life as the earth less close to the stone;

It is as meat to the slender rib, as marrow to the bone.

They ask but the leave to labor, to told in the endless night in the endless night
For a little salt to savor their bread, for houses water-fight;
They ask but the right to labor, and to live by the strength of their hands—
They who have bodies like knotted oaks and patience like sea sands.

And the right of a man to labor, and his right to labor in joy—
Not all your laws can blot that right, now the gates of hell destroy.
For it came with the making of man,
and was kneeded into his bones,
And it will stand at the last of things on the dust of crumbled thrones.

THE LATE DR. DL WART. A Good Story of His Youthful Deter-mination and Zeal.

A good story of the determination and zeal of that great, brave and good man, the late Dr. Dewart, is told by Mr. Buchanan, says The Toronto Sunday World. Dr. Dewart, when he was young, was little less than a "bushwhacker," or lumberman, and as that class are usually under straightened circumstances, he was not exceptionally well to do. He was working near Peterboro, when he made up his mind that he was going to attend the Grammar School, in Toronto, and study to be a Methodist minister. But his pocket was so empty of the coinage of the realm that he had to walk all the way. He went through Bowmanville and had and zeal of that great, brave and good man, the late Dr. Dewart, is The girl is the mother of the woman Irregularity or derangement at this time may be promptly met and cured by the use that he had to walk all the way. He went through Bowmanville and had a breakfast there, the kind wife of the innkeeper refusing to accept any money from him as he had told her of the reason that he wished to go to Toronto and the condition of his pocketbook, if he had any. Later in his life he always remembered, this But neglected at this critical period may entail years of future suffering. It removes the obstructions to health and happiness, and deliveres womanhood from the cruel bondage of his life he always remembered this kind lady when he went to Bowman-ville. As he neared the outskirts of the city he was yery tired and despondent and sat down on a stone to female weakness."

The Pace That Kills According to paragraphs that appear from time to time in the papers, sometimes backed up by more roless elaborate statistics, heart disease and paralysis are increasingon prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney ly prevalent and fatal. It is not to be wondered at. This is a strenuous age, so strenuous that men are hurried along with its rapid current at and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made so terrific a speed and with such so terrific a speed and with such constant application to work that body and mind are taxed beyond their powers of endurance. Our grandfathers, nay, even our fathers knew nothing of the stress of life as we feel it, who are engaged in its dire struggle to-day. No wonder, that often the rupture of an energy and bloodysess in the brain or gorged blood-vessel in the brain, or the failure of a sorely taxed valve in the heart, suddenly puts a stop to it all, and the man who thought it all, and the man who thought that business must be attended to, no matter at how great a cost of hurry and wear and tear, finds some day that business has to go on without him. There are physical sins as well as spiritual sins, and many men ruin their bodies, who would not dream of doing damage to their souls. The plea of necessity is not a valid one either, for no man is compelled to sin against either his body or his soul. And yet, as we said just now, in this strenuous age it is no wonder that heart disease and paralysis are on the increase. Men rush—and drop. Other men rush past them a little kind. They may eat too much grain or meat for their health, but milk in any form is not only palatable, but There is this to be borne in mind in these days when so many young men are giving so much attention to physical development, in gymnastic and athletic exercises, that there cannot be permanent muscular strength where there is not blood the increase. Men rush—and drop. Other men rush past them a little farther—and drop in their turn. It would be better to slacken the pace, and hold out longer. We should get more done, and do it better.—Christian Guardian. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives blood strength, promotes digestion and as-similation, and builds up the whole

The Man Who Succeeds.

He was making all haste to reach Quebee, and hated to stop over night in Montreal. The palatial steamer of the Riehelieu Navigation Company left her wharf at 7 o'clock p.m., the very hour at which his train from Ottawa reached Montreal. How could he possibly make the connection? At Prescott he sent a telegram to the captain of the steamer—"Hold boat for me ten minutes. No fail." Upon reaching the reilroad station he jumped into a cab and drove like mad to the wharf, reaching it nine minutes after 7. The steamer was waiting. The captain seeing a man dashing up the gang-plank, ordered the lines cast off and advanced to the side of the vessel with outstretched hand to greet him. "In good time, sir," he said, deferentially, as the boat sailed away. "Ample, thank you." WE HAVE A HISTORY.

The Talbot and Simcoe Celebrations Em

The unveiling of a monument to Governor Simcoe, like the Talbot anniversary celebration, carries us back s century, and gives us a feeling that this Province has a history Simcoe was the first Governor of Upper Canada after the Province was divided into a French and English section. He was a member of the Parliament which passed the Constitutional Act of 1791, and heard the debate between Pitt and Fox. Fox declaimed against the bill, as an attempt to introduce into the New World those aristocratic no tions which were declining in the old. He asked if those red and blue rib-bons which had lost their lustre in the Old World were to shine forth in the new. It seemed to him a pecul-far proposal to introduce hereditary honors in America, "where those ar-tificial distinctions stunk in the nostrils of the natives." He condemned the setting aside of the clergy re-serves, and also the separation of the French and English inhabitants of Canada. The bill was intended to give the people the shadow of the English constitution, while denying the substance.

Simcoe certainly believed that he was giving to Canada "the express image and transcript of the Brutish constitution," and made a conscien-tious effort to carry out that idea. History gives us a pleasant account of the calling of the Little Parliament at Newark, now Niagara, and how the honest settlers found their parliamentary honors embarrassing, as they were called away from their farms in the busy harvest season. Those who could come were detained only a month, and, in the beautiful October weather, they wended their oring such men as Talbot and Simcoe, we make our nearest approach to honoring the pioneers to whom we are so largely indebted, McMul-len has given a most interesting ac-count of their labors:

"The backwoodsman, whose for tunes are cast in the remote inland settlements of the present day, far removed from churches, destitute of ministers of the Gospel and medical men, without schools, or roads, or the many conveniences that make life desirable can alone appreciate, or even understand the numerous difficulties and hardships that beset the settler among the ague swamps of Western Canada. The clothes on his back, with a rifle or old musket and well-tempered ax, were not unfrequently the full extent of his worldly possessions. Thus lightly equipped, he took possession of his two hundred acres of closely-timber." count of their labors:
"The backwoodsman, whose fortunes are cast in the remote inland settlements of the present day, far removed from churches, destitute of two hundred acres of closely-timbered forest land, and commenced operations. The welkin rings again with his vigorous strokes, as huge tree after tree is assailed and tumbled to the earth; and the sun presently strokes in upon the little clearsently shines in upon the little clear-ing. The best of the logs are paring. The best of the logs are par-tially squared, and serve to build a shanty; the remainder are given to the flames. Now the rich mould, the secumulation of centuries of decaynecumulation of centuries of decaying vegetation, is gathered into little hillocks, into which potatoes are dibbled. Indian corn is planted in another direction, and, perhaps, a little wheat. If married, the lonely couple struggle on in their forest oasis like the solitary traveler over the sands of Sahara, or a boat adrift on the Atlantic. The nearest neighbor lives miles off, and when sickness comes, they have to travel far lives miles off, and when sickness comes, they have to travel far through the forest to claim human sympathy. But, fortunately, our nature, with elastic temperament, adapts itself to circumstances. By and by the potatoes peep up, and the corn blades modestly show themselves around the charred maple serves around the charred mappie stumps and girdled pines, and the prospect of sufficiency of food gives consolation. As winter approaches, a deer now and then adds to the comforts of the solitary people.

Such were the mass of the first set-tlers in Western Canada."

We do well to honor all those who discharged faithfully their duties as the builders of Canada says The Toronto World. But we should like to see a monument erected somewhere to these pioneers themselves, both men and women, whose names and industry transformed a wilder-ness into the pleasant and wealthy country in which it is our good for-tune to live.

GOOD WORDS FOR THE GRAND TRUNK.

During the summer months a very large number of pourists make their way into Canada, and this year the summer resert districts situated on the Grand Trunk Radiway System seem to be the favorable objective point for this large influx into Canada. Many of these tournists send "travel letters" to their home papers which is a means of advertising the Reminion to a very grant extent. Dominion to a very great extent. A letter that appeared in the Norristown Pa., "Daily Times", of Friday, July 24, its a sample of these, an extract from which reads as follows:—
