India

The Christian Times says :- The news brought by the mail from other parts of India shows that Delhi did not fall a single day too soon. Symptoms of disaflection show themselves in quarters where they were not before suspected; and which, as appearing at a time when the prospect of success must have become, even to a native eye, all but hopeless, would be unaccountable, of a to tremember the activity and sublety of native intrigue, and the numerous agents which the King of Delhi must have had out everywhere to induce waverers to join his standards. The efforts of those agents would be redoubled as the garrison found that not only was every sally of theirs repulsed with great loss, but that the long looked for reinforcements were at last beginning to arrive in the British camp, so that the crisis could not be long delayed. It is in this way that we account for the reported march of the mutineers in Gwalior and Malwa, after long hesitation, upon Delhi and Agra. It is gratify ing to find that their vaciliation had neutralized duced. Up to 18th, no demonstration had been pro-duced. and for a cheerful endurance of still greater fatigue and exposure. The troops will opired to aid and assist the Engineers in the erection of the batteries and trenches, and in daily exposure to the sun as covering parties.

The artillery will have even harder work that they yet have had, and which they have so well and cheerfully performed hitherto; this, howeve will be for a short period enly; and when order ed to the assault, the Major general feels assured British pluck and determination will carry every thing before them, and that the bloodthirsty and murderous mutineers, against whom they are fighting, will be driven beadlong out of their stronghold, or be exterminated; but to enable them to do this, he warns the troops of the abso lute necessity of their keeping together, and not straggling from their columns. By this can success alone be secured.

Major-General Wilson need bardly remind the troops of the cruel murders committed on their officers and comrades, as well as their wives and children, to move them in the deadly struggle. No quarter should be given to the mut neers; at the same time, for the sake of human ity, and the honour of the country they below he calls upon them to spare all women and children that may come in their way.

It is so imperative, not only for their safety but for the success of the assault, that men should not straggle from their column, that the Major general feels it his duty to direct all command ing officers to impress this strictly upon their men, and he is confident that, after this warningthe men's good sense and discipline will indu them to obey their officers and keep steadily to their duty. It is to be explained in every regiment that indiscriminate plunder will not be allowed that prize agents have been appointed, by whom all captured property will be collected and sold to be divided among all men engaged; and that any man found guilty of having concealed cap tured property will be made to restore it, and will torteit ail claims to the general prize; he will also be likely to be made over to the Provost-Marshal to be summarily dealt with. The Major General calls upon the officers of the force to lend their zealous and efficient co-operation in the erection of the works of the siege now about to be commenced. He looks especially to the regimental officers of all grades, to impress upon their men, that to work in the trenches during a siege is as necessary and honorable as to fight in | in Christ his Redeemer. the ranks during a battle.
