For Teachers of Art

A Short History of Art

By JULIA DE FOREST

Edited, revised and largely re-written by Charles Henry Caffin, author of "How to Study Pictures", "The Story of American Painting", etc. 758 pages, 289 illustrations.

Every teacher should have this excellent book which gives a fully illustrated story of the progress of art from the earliest times, dealing first with the origins of primitive art, then discussing Egyptian, Persian, and Asiatic art. Greek and Roman art, architecture and sculpture are taken up in detail, and the progress of art in all its branches traced through the various ages up to the most modern times. The various schools of art, movements and progress in different countries is fully dealt with, including biographical sketches and critical estimates of the leading artists. Here are numerous full page plates of the most famous paintings, statues and other works of art—a complete encyclopedia of art. Price $3.00.
