THE COURIER.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1891.

Our Canadian friends... The Mayor of Toronto and the citizens of Toronto also recently paid their respects to the late Mayor.

We copy the above from the Boston Morning Journal... The mutual courtesies have been exchanged, and these are sufficient to establish kindly intercourse, and also to perpetuate it.

The mutual courtesies have been exchanged, and these are sufficient to establish kindly intercourse, and also to perpetuate it. The recollection of these passages of friendly feeling will, we trust, tend to soften much future acerbity, and ally a great deal of that national jealousy which has always, more or less, subsisted between the countries.

That this celebration will exert a beneficial influence there can be no doubt. It has strengthened the bonds of unity between our people and those of the United States, and it has shown that our interests are not antagonistic, but rather that they are complementary.

We publish to-day a series of thirty-two articles from the Toronto Patriot on the removal of the Government to Quebec, or rather upon the hardships entailed upon the officials in consequence of the removal.

At the close of the day, the officials of the Government were seen to be in a state of some excitement, and it was thought that they were about to leave the city.
