Mr. John McMillan

MR. J. McMILLAN, who has initiated many notable improvements since he became General Manager of the C.P.R. Telegraphs eighteen months ago, has just decided to inaugurate an important service entirely new to Canada over the hundred and ten thousand miles of wire under his immediate control, namely, the day letter which may now be sent between points in Canada on the Canadian Pacific system at a rate very much reduced as compared with the usual commercial rush telegram. Mr. McMillan is convinced that many of those who send telegrams would be quite satisfied if they arrived on the same day, whereas a proportion of the cost of the rush telegram is due to the cost of speedy delivery. The day letter of fifty words will be rated at one and a half times the cost of a regular rush message of ten words and can still bring an answer the same day, which is as quick as many people desire. There are sixteen hundred C.P.R. telegraph offices throughout Canada, at each of which the new service will be in force, so that this will be a Dominion-wide service stretching from Louisburg, Nova Scotia, to Victoria, B.C. Messages will be taken in either French or English, code words not being permissible.

Mr. John McMillan owes his success to a genial and tactful disposition, which made him one of the most popular C.P.R. officials in the West, where his work centred until he was called to the head office in Montreal last year. Although less than fifty years of age, he joined the C.P.R. at its inception, working on construction in 1883. After acting for a number of years as operator at Donald, B.C., he became Inspector of Telegraphs at Winnipeg in 1902, Assistant Superintendent in 1906, Superintendent at Calgary in 1907, General Superintendent at Winnipeg in 1913, and finally Manager of the whole telegraph system in March, 1915.

FORMER GOLDBROOK BOY DIES IN COUNTRY'S SERVICE

From Calgary News Telegram.
(By R. H.)

Among those from Alberta whose names appear in the latest casualty lists is the record of one who was personally acquainted in Calgary, well known in the vicinities west of Didsbury and Olds, and much beloved and liked wherever he was acquainted or known.

On December 6, "Somewhere in France," Kenneth L. Sanford, of the 50th Canadian, died from pneumonia contracted by exposure in the trenches.

Along with several companions he joined the 187th battalion in July 1916, went overseas in the band of that unit in November of the same year and later was transferred to a Lewis machine gun section.

His parents and family connections way back in the old Nova Scotia home will mourn the loss of a splendid son, and the noble profession to which he belonged will now be the poorer for his departure. Alberta the province of his adoption and residence for the past seven years, has been the richer for his contribution to its life, and now the realization that he has gone will bring a keen sense of loss into many a life up and down our land.

After a course at the Calgary normal he taught school at Hartman, Melville, and Springside school districts. He was popular in the extreme, not to say a favorite, among many acquaintances in all the places where he had labored and lived. Wherever he went he was a district community asset, prominent in social life and the field of sport. He was a faithful and efficient public servant. His scholars became affectionately attached to him and followed closely his fortunes after he left a happy and peaceful calling and our sunny land to go and do his bit elsewhere.

While he was not what you would call a deep student, he immediately impressed one as a fine type of an all-round man. One who has lived with him, shared in his social activities, hunting expeditions, camping trips, and outdoor games, can readily testify to his sterling qualities of heart and mind. He was a typical Canadian in his resources and a real soldier in spirit. Upon occasions when his adventurous nature found him in places of danger and difficulty he showed magnificent good sense combined with the finest daring and steady courage.

He was gifted with that rare charm of manner combined of an attractive personality a native intelligence and a sunny disposition. He was wholesome, bright, and witty. Mounted on his little white Indian pony—the sagacious "Nigger"—he was at home on any of the trails between Olds and Banff and a familiar figure anywhere within a twenty-mile radius of Westdale—at any season of the year, day or night. So full of life and interests, so full of promise, the thought of such as he being prematurely cut off is painful to bear apart from the Assurance through the dark portal he was entered into greater reward than ever this world could give and a far larger sphere of usefulness and development beyond. Having known him, it becomes a conviction that the qualities he embodied must abide form, live and find fruition in some form, somewhere—even if it be in a remalm beyond our present ken and cognizance.

Decoding the attachment of any maudlin associations of the term, he, like a true man, would have repudiated the designation "good." But the fact is well established, and in our minds remains, that he was a fine Christian character, exemplifying with many grace the virtues of his kind in a winsome personality. For, not only on the field of battle, but also before the war, he always displayed a ready, courteous, clean and sportsmanlike spirit. Life was interesting wherever and whenever he was around. Truly, he was a knightly soul. As before mentioned, he was a man of high ideals and he lived them out as principals of conduct day by day. He was keenly humorous, and one who richly loved a joke. He was essentially a man of action, though upon occasion not without words and the ability to express the fertility of his ideas.

Friends at Springside, his last professional charge, will, in particular, long cherish his memory with love and esteem, and find in the visible records of his initiative, thoughtfulness, patience, and energy the unfading, ever-fragrant memorial of a genuine hero. For here was one who was clever and brave, generous to a fault, good and kind; and now we salute the memory of him as teacher, soldier, sportsman, friend. Our thoughts of parting shall not be signalized by a mournful "good-bye," but more in keeping with his own vivacity and optimism as we leave it—we will smile through our tears and give a more characteristic and breezy valedictory: "For the present, so long, Ken."

The Advertiser gladly reproduces this fine tribute to one of our young heroes Kenneth was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Watson Sanford of Goldbrook. Besides his father and mother he leaves the following brothers and sisters:—Guthrie at College at Edmonton, Eva teaching at Olds, Alberta, Phillip "Somewhere in France", Ruth teacher at Woodville, Mrs. John Durno and Miss Angie, station agent at Goldbrook.
