Mr. Choate, replying a few minutes later to the toast of the diplomatic corps, declared that Lord Salisbury had stated with such truth, simplicity and earnestness the result of the election that he (Mr. Choate) would not attempt to add, although he would venture to congratulate the noble lard upon the fact that his remarks had been made after instead of before the election. HE DECLARES HIS SATISFICTION AT THE RESULT OF THE PRESI-D NTIAL ELECTIONS SOME HOURNFUL THEMES.

London, Nov. 10.-What is probably the most brilliant of all public functions in England, the lord mayor's banquet, took place last evening. It will be memorable even to Americana by reason of the following remarkable utreason of the following remarkable ut-terance of Lord Salisbury, who, in the presence of 900 guests, including Uni-ted States Ambassador Choate, the members of the British cabinet and many of the leading men of England, spoke as follows of the American elec-tions: "We believe that the cause which has won is the cause of civili-zation and commercial honor. We be-which has won is the cause of civilization and commercial honor. We believe these principles to be at the root of all prosperity and all progress in the world. Therefore we claim that we have as much right to rejoice in what has taken place as the disting uished gentleman (referring to Mr. Choate) who sits at my side."

This was followed by loud and prolonged cheering, which made the gold plate on the oaken shelves shiver, and the great rafters of Guildhall ring and ring again. Lord-Salisbury's incursion into the internal politics of the United States was preceded by an apology, in the course of which he said:

"One of the circumstances which has gratified me most during the list year is the very hearty, friendly feeling displayed by the country and the United States. I hope Mr. Choate will forgive me if there is any irregularity in my expression. It is quite wrong for a secretary of state to make any observation with respect to the internal politics of another country, but. I am vation with respect to the internal politics of another country, but I am soon to give up my office, and, in view of the abandonment which is close at hand, I hope Mr. Choate will premier reviewed the events of the last twelve months. Mr. Kruger and the Empress of China, he went on to say, had forced war upon Great Britain. He maintained that the British war office deserved great credit for the way in which it had handled these emergencies. THE WAR OFFICE. "Despite nebulous and fictitious attacks, we should be glad to improve all the defects of the war office," he continued, "and our numost efforts will be devoted to that task; but I should rather depresents any unnecesshould rather deprecate any unneces-sary examination into what has oc-curred. You will not add to the enthis is more than the distance of the strengthened ties between the mother country and He dilated upon the streng ties between the mother country and the colonies during the year and poked fun at the delay consequent upon the European concert when dealing with China. It was not appropriate for him, he declared, to comment upon negotiations while in progress, but he said he would make an exception in the case of the Anglo-German compact. "This," he remarked, "represents the fealings of most if not all the powers alked It is impossible to tay too much emphasis upon the integrity of China and the 'open door; and I think it a matter of great advantage that the powers have expressed themselves in favor of these fundaments. vantage that the powers have express-ed themselves in favor of these fun-damental principles, for, if they are achieved, the issues of the Chinese problem need not concern us very anxiously."

APPEALS TO THE PEOPLE. Relapsing into pessimism Lord Salisbury admitted that the trend of recent events had almost put an end to the hopes of the Russian emperor and others who took part in the peace conference at The Hague. His extraordinary speech closed with a ferfid appeal to the people of England to main their defenses in such a perfect condition that "we shall not be exposed to any sudden interruption of the peace upon which our prosperity posed to any sudden interruption of the peace upon which our prosperity depends. The supreme condition," ex-claimed the premier, "is that no re-form, no improvement is of the slight-est value unless security against ex-ternal interference is obtained by putting our defenses in such a posi-tion that no accident may happen betion that no accident may happen be-yond our borders that shall make our

ABSALOM BLETT, HERMIT MISER OF GOLDEN

Detroit News.

Absalom Blett, the hermit miser and unfathomable mystery of Golden, is dead, and with him to the grave will go the story of his life untold because it is unknown, for the sad romance of his disappointed and blighted manhood is locked in his sealed lips, and those who can will not tell the facts indicated by by the snatches of narrative gleaned at times from the eccentric recluse.

gleaned at times from the eccentric recluse.

Absalam Blett, as nearly as the truth can be learned, was the victim of a woman's caprice. A year ago he was found weak from starvation and neglect, yet with $2,800 buried under the file. A start of death in his little cabin in Golden. Then the in his little cabin in Golden. Then the first inkling of the truth was made first inkling of the truth was made known. Absalom Blett was a hermit and miser from brooding dyer a disappointed love. In the days before the war, back in a Pennsylvania town, he met and wooed the only woman he ever loved. His brother, Abraham Blett, envied him his choice, sought also the same hand and won from his brother the woman's love. Broken-hearted, distrustful of the honor of men and a hater of the caprice of woman, Absalom Blett sought out the remotest desert country, where, amid new scenes, he might forget the sorrows of his yeath.

ALLUSIONS TO THE WAR.

Except in its references to the United States, the speech of the premier cast an extraordinary gloom over the gorgeous banquet. Following directly after the colonel commanding the City Imperial Volunteers Lord Salisbury startled his hearers, who caught the draft of his remarks, by satirizing the war fever, although praising the courage of the solders and declaring that the passionate admiration of military valor evinced by the populace must produce a change of attitude on the part of the outside world when viewing English character. Then with lowered voice and almost frembling accent, he went on to speak of the price of victory, and the ravages of death, dealing especially with the Queen's bereavement in the loss of Prince Christian Victor. Finally, with bent head and handsclasped, he uttered a hope, almost a prayer, that Lord Lord Roberts might be sparred the sorrow now hanging over him by reason of the critical condition of his daughter. Tears sprang to the eyes of women and men moved uncomfortably in their seats. The silence and solemnity grew oppressive.

Awaking from self-abstraction the Clark Wallace's majority over Archie Campbell is now placed at 874, and may yet be increased. The Conservatives say if it had been necessary to organize and boil their full strength they could have beaten Mr. Campbell by 1500. As the contest was only a procession from the first, and as it was apparent to a blind man even that Archie would not under any circumstances, make even a good second, Mr. Wallace's friends did not incur the unnecessary expense of a complete organization to get out the full vote: A funny thing about this election is that on the day of polling Mr. Campbell sent two telegrams up here saying his prospects were very bright. What made him think so is a conundrum. Saveral of his friends here, though their good sense told them Wallace was a sure winner, went out and bet on the strength of Archie's telegrams. One man lost between $100 and $200, another $40, Archie's telegrams. One man lost between $100 and $200, another $40, grew oppressive. Awaking from self-abstraction the Miss Emma Huskinson, a Captain in the Salvation Army, Tells How She Regained Health Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Among the oldest and most highly respected residents of Orangeville is Mrs. John Huskinson, whose daughter, Emma, has for a number of years been an acute sufferer from the after effects of malarial fever. A reporter of the Sun hearing of the wonderful effects which 'Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have had on Miss Huskinson, called at her home to enquire into the truth of the rumor. After stating the reason of his visit, he was kindly received by Mrs. Huskinson, who gave him the following facts of the cure: "Some years ago, facts of the cure: "Some years ago, said Mrs. Huskinson, "my daughter Emma, who is now captain of the Newmarket corps of the Salvation Army, was attacked by malarial fever. Newmarket corps of the Salvation Army, was attacked by malarial fever. She was under a doctor's care for a long time and although she recovered sufficiently to go about, the after effects of the fever left her very weak and the doctor did not seem able to put any life into her. She had frequent headaches, was very pale, and the least exertion would greatly fatigue her. We thought a change might do her good and consequently she went on a visit to Toronto. While there she was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and at once purchased a supply. Before she had finished the second box she noted a marked change for the better; her appetite improved, her color returned, the feeling of exhaustion had disappeared, and by the time she had taken half a dozen boxes she was enjoying the best of health, and all her old-time vigor had returned. Although her work in the Salvation Army is hard and exposes her to all kinds of weather, she has since been able to do it without the least inconvenience.

"Some time after my daughter's cure I was myself completely run down, and to add to my trouble was seized with a severe attack of rheumatism. Remembering the benefit my daughter had received from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I decided to use them, and before I had taken half a dozen boxes I felt fully recovered and have been in the best of health ever since. My advice to all ailing is to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have restored more weak and ailing women and girls to robust health than any other medicine ever discovered, which in part accounts for their popularity throughout the world. These pills are sold by all dealers or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brock-ville, Ont. People."
