Guestion.

Toronto, Sept. 25.—A plea for more adequate protection was the keynote of the address delivered by Mr. H. Cockshutt, the retiring president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, at the opening of the 31st annual convention of that body in the King Edward yesterday. Nearly 300 delegates registered in the course of the day, and others are expected later. Shortly after 10 o'clock a beginning was made with the business of the convention, five different sections, the manufacturing grocers, furniture, engine and boiler, manufacturing jewelers and agricultural implement manufacturers, holding meetings to discuss their respective interests. At noon the woollen, stove and paper box sections met, and at 2 o'clock the first general meeting was held. After reports had been submitted by the secretary and treasurer, an address on "Progress of Canada in the Twentieth Century" was delivered by Mr. Archibald Blue, chief officer of the Dominion census.

President's Address.

The president, Mr. H. Cockshutt, in his address dwelt on the importance of manufacturing, giving statistics to show its growth and pre-eminence among the industries. Substantial as the growth had been however. Canadian manufacturers had no more than kept pace with the expansion in other directions. At any rate, they had not materially strengtheried their hold on the home market. Relatively speaking, they were in the same position to-day that they were five years ago. Their capital had increased, their wage-bill had increased, their output had increased, but their share in the Canadian market had remained practically at a standstill. The trade and navigation returns gave further evidence of the fact that they were not progressing as they should. Ever since 1901 their imports had been increasing much more rapidly than trade and navigation returns gave further evidence of the fact that they were not progressing as they should. Ever since 1901 their imports had been increasing much more rapidly than their exports, with the result that a balance of trade in their favor that year of $6,072,100 had for the twelve months ending June last been converted into an adverse balance of $104,476,142. By the adoption of a policy sufficiently protective, such as the association had always advocated, capital would be irresistibly attracted by the opportunities afforded in Canada. Their home market would be supplied by home industries, manufacturing would become more specialized, the cost of production would be reduced, and a substantial beginning would be made towards the development of an export trade that would successfully carry them over any ordinary period of domestic depression. He regretted that the significance of the figures did not appeal to the Government when making their revision of the tariff. They asked for a tariff whose minimum protection would be high enough to reserve the home marwhose minimum protection would be high enough to reserve the home mar-ket for the Canadian manufacturers.

high enough to reserve the home market for the Canadian manufacturers. They realized, however, that there were many articles they did not and could not produce in Canada, and when it became necessary for them to go abroad they believed in a preference which would give the Mother Country and their sister colonies the refusal of their trade before passing it on to foreigners. Their motto was: "Keep your money in circulation at home by buying goods made in Canada, and when you cannot get what you want at home buy within the Beitish Empire."

The Labor Situation.

A further obstacle to natural expansion of the manufacturing enterprises was the scarcity of skilled labor, and to solve the difficulty they must either import more artisans from other countries or provide educational facilities whereby young Canadians would be able to qualify themselves for the most important positions in their factories. He regretted that the Government had not seen its way clear to meet the wishes of the association in tories. He regretted that the Government had not seen its way clear to meet the wishes of the association in regard to the immigration of skilled mechanics and had hesitated to act in the matter of technical education. One of the most regrettable features of the labor situation was the steady growth in the number and importance of industrial disputes, and the association would be undertaking a noble work if it would devise means of reducing the number of industrial disputes.

Transportation Question.

The president then emphasized what

Transportation Question.

The president then emphasized what he regarded as the inadequacy of their transportation facilities, contending that the present equipment of Canadian lines was far from sufficient to meet the demands made upon them by the Canadian shipping public. He quoted figures to show that the companies were making little progress towards taking care of the growing volume of traffic on the older portion of their lines, and regarded the condition of affairs thus created as a national calamity. Railway companies had spent their money in building new lines through undeveloped country when they should have spent it in properly equipping the ones already in operation.

spector-General of the Forces.

It has been officially announced by the War Office that Gen. Sir John French, on relinquishing his command at Aldershot, will succeed the Duke of Connaught as Inspector-General of the Forces, Sir John's post at Aldershot being occupied by Lieut. Gen. H. L. Smith-Dorrien, commander of the 4th (Quetta) division of the army in India.

Gen. French served in the royal navy for four years before receiving a commission in the 8th Hussars in 1874, and transferred to the 19th Hussars, in which regiment he served in the Soudan campaign in 1834-5, and in the actions of Abu Klea, Gubut, and Metemmeh. He commanded the regiment from 1889 to 1893, was employed as assistant adjutant-general

Lieut.Gen. Smith-Dorrien served in the Zulu war (1879), the Egyptian war (1882), the Soudan campaign (1885), and the Soudan Frontier Field Force (1885-6). He was in the Chitral Relief Force in 1895, served on the northwest frontier of India (1897-8), and in the Nile expedition (1898). He was major-general commanding the 19th brigade in South Africa in 1900, and was adjutant-general in India from October, 1901, to May, 1908.

A Bold Step.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broadcast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering in the composition of his widely selebrated podicines. Thus he has taken his numerous ratrons and patients into his full officines. Thus too he has removed his inedicines from among secret nostring of doubtful merits, and made them themselves of Known Composition.

By this bold step Dr. Plerce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not alread to subject them to the full step of the fullest. Scruliny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Plerce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, topid liver or billiousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it, es juine fully in the composition of the fullest, as full and complete list of all the lingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading propositions of the proposition of the p A Bold Step.

The delicacy of the Yorkshire pies of olden days may be judged by the following recipe from an old fashioned cookery book: "First make a good standing crust, let the wall and bottom be very thick; bone a turkey, a goose, a fowl, a partridge and a pigeon; season them all very well; take half an ounce of mace, half an ounce of nutures." megs, a quarter of an ounce of cloves and half an ounce of black pepper, all beat fine together; two large sponfuls of salt, and then mix them together. Open the fowls all down the back and bone them, first the pigeon, then the partridge; cover them; then the fowl. then the goose and then the turkey, which must be large; season them all well first and lay them in the crust so that it will look only like a whole turkey; then have a hare ready cased and wiped with a clean cloth; cut it to pleces—that is, joint it; season it and lay it as close as you can on one side; on the other side woodcock, more game and what sort of wild fowl you can get. Season them well and lay them close; put at least four pounds of but-ter into the pie, then lay on your lid, which must be a very thick one, and let it be well baked. It must have a very hot oven and will take at least four hours." It is not surprising to find that a footnote adds that the crust requires a bushel of flour.—Cham-
