Delaney Arrives From the Ice, Shannahan Tells of Delaney.

The Viking got in. Got in first, mind you. Who'd ever think it. Whir, if ye struck her in a sweepstake ye'd say 'twas all day with ye. But the reason she did get in was because Delaney was in her. You all remember the big shove off we gave Delaney the night before they sailed. Delaney was a nice, meek kind of a fellow before he went to the ice, but since he got shipmates with a load of fat, you can't say "boo" to him. He's quite "chesty" and talks big and deep, but meself and Kelly got the weight of him and we'll use him to suit ourselves. You know when a man suddenly jumps into riches he generally loses his head and conveniently forgets his old pals. This is Mrs. Tucker's version of it, and she is generally right. Delaney made a nice bill and we'll stick to him like a leech till the money is all gone, and when it is gone—all gone—then we'll have our say, for there's no reason why Delaney should put on side. He simply went out and was carried to the seals; he put a few aboard—very few by all accounts—and then he struck a mussel bank and eventually was landed safe and sound. Any fool could do that and there is no excuse for Delaney taking five minutes off before answering us a simple question, or putting on a look as much as to say, "Behold the conqueror." He looks down on us with a kind of pity like as if we were half-fools, and asks questions about this person and that person, that you'd actually swear the man was from a trip to the South Pole. He worked landing the seals the first day, but then he knocked off and now he has donned his attire of "walk about and talk about it." He is in a very stiff bodied shirt, surmounted by a collar, one edge of which sticks outside his vest, and he loses all day putting it on. This is one of the chief amusements after a good trip. A glossy black bow that "saw the last" of a lot of people sticks out under the collar, the elastic is loose and comes off the two-cent stud once every half hour. His boots are good and hard, with wrinkles across the uppers that would remind you of the banks of a dried-up river. Good stout blue pants, turned up at the bottoms, and a short coat, double-breasted with a faded velvet collar, add to his appearance; these, together with a Shanghai peak cap, and you have Delaney. In this costume he will walk the town for the next three months. He'll turn his collar inside out about Wednesday of each week and make it do till Sunday; this, together with filling his pipe and telling where and how they struck 'em, will be the calling of Delaney from keek's end to week's end, but we shall remember his "chesty" manner when he is sadder, poorer and wiser, and we look forward to the time when he will be financially embarrassed once more, for there is no sense in getting "chesty" except you can remain "chesty." TIM SHANNAHAN.

The Highlanders Ball.

The annual ball of the Newfoundland Highlanders took place in the British Hall last night and proved to be a brilliant and very enjoyable affair. The hall was neatly decorated for the occasion and the scene from the gallery was an animated and pretty one as the 250 ladies and gentlemen, all ardent devotees of the terpsichorean art, engaged in the various square and round dances. His Excellency the Governor and suite were present and thoroughly enjoyed the function, while the officers of the Highlanders and the other city brigades in uniform, who attended, also enjoyed themselves immensely. At midnight an excellent supper was served, the catering being done by the lady friends of the Highlanders, all of whom were heartily congratulated on the manner in which they acquitted themselves in this important development of the night's entertainment. The music was furnished by the fine band of the C. L. B., and left nothing to be desired. The "At-Home" in the British Hall to-morrow night promises to be very enjoyable.

MADE THE BLOOD RICH AND RED.
Miss Cynthia Hutchinson, Hancoville, B. C., writes: "My system was so completely run down that my friends as well as myself thought I could never get better. All medicines failed to help me. A trial of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food benefited me and at the end of a month people scarcely knew me I had improved so much. The blood was enriched, color improved, new flesh was added and I got strong and well."

A Fine Store.
Mr. P. F. Collins who has just been 2 years in the dry goods business has taken over the store corner of Water and Adelaide Street formerly occupied by Mr. John Shortall as a pharmacy. It adjoins the store which Mr. Collins started in, and he now has a front on Water Street of over 70 feet. The occupancy of this store gives him ample room for the proper display of his large and varied assortment of goods. He is getting the place nicely painted and decorated, has added many new electric lights, and the store which opens on Saturday is a very fine one. Mr. Collins deserves every success.

THE VETO DEBATE.

Special Evening Telegram. LONDON, March 30. Interest greatly lagged in the debate on the resolution in the House of Commons to-night and the attendance was small. Lord Hugh Cecil for the Unionists made the important admission that there ought to be a stronger check from the House of Lords on Conservative Government and that a proposal in this direction would demand careful consideration. He favoured the House of Lords composed of four hundred members, three hundred and fifty chosen from the hereditary peerage and the others nominated by the King on the advice of his ministers. Augustus Villiers, Chief Secretary for Ireland speaking for the Government, said it was not proposed at this stage to submit any scheme for the reform of the House of Lords. The unpopularity of the House of Lords, he added, was not the outcome of the hereditary principle but the country's conviction that the Lords had failed to exercise their functions impartially. He declared that there could be no compromise on the financial resolution. There was an interesting incident in Parliament to-night, Mr. Balfour giving notice of a motion in favour of raising the salary of John Burns, President of the Local Government Board to twenty five thousand dollars.

TROUBLE IN LIBERIA.

Special to Evening Telegram. LIVERPOOL, March 30.—Advices received here state that the fighting between the natives and Liberian troops at Cape Palmas continues and grows more serious. Rev. Mr. Spears, a native pastor at the mission in Cape Palmas, has been shot and killed, and the lives of the white residents are said to be in danger. The hostile natives appear to be getting the best of the troops, whose excesses when they were sent to stop the native trade in French territory caused the outbreak. The natives are said to be anxious to have a few Englishmen killed with the object of bringing about intervention by Great Britain. The Liberian gunboat Lark, temporarily commanded by a German officer, has bombarded the native villages, but done little damage. A German gunboat arrived and its commander offered to bombard Hoffman Station and Pliuke, but the authorities declined the assistance.

AMERICANS SATISFIED.

Special to Evening Telegram. WASHINGTON, D.C., March 30.—The proclamation of the President granting the minimum rates of tariff under the Payne-Aldrich Act to Canada, Australia and a number of other countries of less importance commercially, was signed to-day. About one hundred and fifty nations are included in the list. The work involved in determining whether or not any of the nations included in this long list were discriminating in their tariffs against the products of the United States, has occupied the attention of the tariff officers of the Government almost continually since the passage of the Tariff Act last August. Although no official statement is available at this time as to the net result of the negotiations with all of the nations of the world, so far as the rates of American products are concerned there is reason to believe that the Government officials regard them as satisfactory.

CANADA BLUFFED.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, March 31. The Morning Post in an editorial on the tariff between Canada and the United States contends that by flourishing a big revolver in the shape of a sur-tax which it could not have imposed without hurting its own interests, the United States has bluffed Canada into giving something for nothing. But the paper adds it is the interests of American diplomacy now that its battle is won to belittle its own victory so far as Canada is concerned. Canada will smooth the path for further conquests later on.

SUIT AGAINST BARONESS VAUGHAN.

Special to Evening Telegram. BRUSSELS, March 30. The Court to-day authorized the Princess Louise to begin a suit for the nullification of Baroness Vaughan's ownership of two villages in Ostend erected upon ground bought by the late King Leopold of Belgium. The daughter contends that the money thus spent belongs rightfully to her father's heirs.

DEATH NOT CONFIRMED.

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, March 30.—To-day's report that King Menelik is dead appears to come by way of Aden, Arabia, and it is thought here that possibly it is only a repetition of the rumors of the monarch's death which have been current for some time. Commercial interests here, which are in direct touch through their agencies with Addis Ababa, had received no confirmation of the report to-day.

ROOSEVELT AGAIN.

Special to Evening Telegram. BERLIN, March 30. Emperor William has invited President Roosevelt to be his personal guest at the palace three of the five days which Col. Roosevelt will stay in Berlin.

GREEK ASSEMBLY CALLED.

Special to Evening Telegram. ATHENS, GREECE, March 30. The proclamation convoking the National Assembly was read by King George in the chamber to-day and was received with cheers. Queen Olga was present.

CABLE RATES.

Special to Evening Telegram. OTTAWA, ONT., March 30. Mr. Lennox's Bill to control the rates of facilities of ocean cable companies, and to bring under the jurisdiction of the Railway Commission was passed in the House to-night. Concurrence in legislation is to be passed by the British Parliament.

Foresters' Meeting.

At the regular meeting of the Foresters, Court Avalon, last night a great surprise came to Mr. P. J. O'Neill, who has been Chief Ranger the past ten years. After the regular business of the meeting was concluded Mr. O'Neill was presented with a handsome Morris chair and an address. Mr. O'Neill was taken quite by emotion and was so overcome with emotion that he could hardly utter his thanks. The address was read by Mr. E. F. Furlong, whose ability and good taste were amply displayed in the penmanship no less than in the manner of reading it. Congratulatory speeches were also delivered by Brothers J. Ryan, M. F. Lawlor, J. J. Mullaly and J. J. Bates. After the presentation an impromptu concert was given and a programme of vocal selections was rendered. The successful status of Avalon Court is largely due to the efforts of Chief Ranger O'Neill.

McMurdo's Store News

THURSDAY, March 31, '10.
Our staff at the Military Road Branch is getting settled down in the new store, which they find much more convenient than the old one. It will, however, be some weeks before the store will look just right, as the main part of the fixtures have not yet come. This will immensely improve the appearance of the shop inside. A "window" of Sutton's Seeds has been placed in the centre windows of our Water Street House. We believe it will prove very attractive to comers and goers.
"After the (Highland) Ball" a glass of Kola and Bitters will be very refreshing. Come as often as you like.
