Mr. Calhoun on Plato.

Addressing a large and appreciative audience of the Women's Literary club in the Library yesterday afternoon, Mr. Calhoun complimented them on their courage in taking up such a p rofound subject for study as the thoughts of Plato. He spoke of the idealism of that old yield philosopher, of the unrest of his times, when, rising above the old orthodox ideas of others, he dared to express opinions and beliefs totally at variance with what had gone before. Mr. Calhoun traced the influence of Plato on down through the ages to Kant and Hegel, and showed that our present life is greatly affected by the life of that old wiseacre.

AE Kaiser's daughter, now the Duchess of Brunswick, who was married on May 24, at Berlin. The Berliner Tageblatt learns that the entry of the newly-married pair into the capital of their duchy, as Duke and Duchess of Brunswick, may be expected to take place in October. Brunswick is one of the oldest states in Germany. It has been more or less prominent in German history ever since the time of Duke Henry the Lion, A. D. 1180. Duke Frederick William I. was killed at the battle of Waterloo. The constitution is that of a limited monarchy, dating from 1832. Brunswick, the capital, is an interesting city, and retains much of its mediaeval character. The entire duchy, to which it gives name, comprises an area of 1418 saugars. "All is Well That Ends Well"

Along with dyspepsia comes nervousness, sleeplessness and general ill health. Why? Because a disordered stomach does not permit the feod to be assimilated and carried to the blood. On the other hand, the blood is charged with poisens which come from this disordered digestion. In turn, the nerves are not fed on good, red blood and we see those symptoms of nerveus breakdown. It is not head work that does it, but poor stomach work. With poor thin blood the body is not protected against the attack of germs of grip—broachitis—consumption. Fortify the body new with
