Alerts Confident of Covering Stratford's Six-Goal Lead Tonight

A Big Factor in Holding Off Carson-Morenz Combination.

ARTHURS BACK, LIKELY

Alert Seniors are confident that they can not only reverse the decision against the Stratford Indians, but overcome the six-goal lead gathered in by the Classic City crew on Monday night, when the two crews foregather tonight at the London Curling rink.

Morenz-Carson combination are sure to draw a big crowd, but the locals are intent on showing the crowd something more than the performance of this highly proficient turn. In Stratford the Londoners struck something different in the way of style and its variations and also a big sheet of ice, which had them going at odds and ends at crucing times. Tonight they figure that on it own smaller ice surface and with the ownedge they've gained of the higher they'ne gained of the higher they'ne gained of the different performance.

At any rate, the first N. H. L. fix-ture of the season offers the local fans just about as much in the way of enskely jump into the London line to night. The cast has been off his wris-for over a week and the doughty sharp shooter has expressed a willingness to help out against Stratford. Otherwis-the locals will line-up about as usual.

Ask Co-operation.

Last year the rugby players who were taking up medicine were hampered owing to lectures and laboratory work between 4 and 8 o'clock in the afternoon when rugby practices were on, and it was suggested that the medical faculty be asked to co-operate and draft the curriculum in such a way that the men on the rugby squad could make use of these hours for training.

The meeting decided to stick with the intermediate section of the Intercollegiate for another year at least.

George Little favored compulsory athletic training and "social ostracism" for those who did not comply.

Among the students who spoke were Vic Traynor, Gus Wainwright, McPherson, Cowley and S. McPherson.

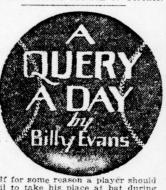

Prof. Hart, Dr. Young and Col. Brown also spoke briefly.
