A Licensing Conviction,
A motion will be made before Chief Justice Galt on Wednesday to rescrid the order he made for the discharge of Charles Adams from jail. Adams was convicted of selling liquor without a license and in default of payment of his fine was imprisoned. The motion is made on behalf of the crown on the ground that notice of the return of the motion was not given and that the crown was not represented on the motion. Notice of motion was served on the Deputy Attorney-General, but he had notified counsel for the prisoner that he wanted to answer the affidavits in support of the motion and thinks he should have received notice of the granting of the discharge before the order issued.

Mr. Justice Meredith yesterday handed out judgment in the action of Mann v. Toronto, directing the plaintiff to pay the costs of the action. The action was dismissed at the time of trial and the question of costs only reserved.

A Promissory Note Case.

Before the Court of Appeal yesterday the action of A. E. Plummer against R. W. Caldwell and Charles Miller came up. The case is rather a peculiar one and the result is waited for with much interest. On Nov. 5, 1890, the plaintiff, at the request and for the accommodation of Charles Lowe endorsed a promissory note payable in three months for $205.50. Lowe discounted the note with John Fisken & Co., and it was subsequently renewed by the same parties. When the second note became due it was not paid, and Fisken & Co. began an action to recover the amount thereof. A note was drawn up for $230 and endorsed by the plaintiff for the express purpose of being discounted, and the proceeds applied in payment of the former note. This note Lowe took to the defendant Caldwell to have it discounted, and Caldwell retained the note before discounting it to see, as he alleged, if the endorsement was genuine. Caldwell having satisfied himself of the genuineness of the note, took it to Charles Millar, who discounted it, and while the proceeds were still in the hands of Caldwell having satisfied himself of the genuineness of the note, took it to Charles Millar, who discounted it, and while the proceeds were still in the hands of Caldwell having satisfied himself of the genuineness of the note, took it to Charles Millar, who discounted it, and while the proceeds were still in the hands of Caldwell having satisfied himself of the genuineness of the note, took it to Charles Millar, who discounted it, and while the proceeds were still in the hands of Caldwell having satisfied himself of the genuineness of the note, took it to Charles Millar, who discounted it, and while the proceeds were still in the hands of Caldwell having satisfied himself of the genuineness of the note, took it to Charles Millar, who discounted it, and while the proceeds were still in the hands of Caldwell having satisfied himself of the genuineness of the note, took it t satisfy a judgment held by C. P. Reid & Co., clients of his, against Charles Lowe for $110. On the return of the garnishing summons an order was made for payment over by Caldwell to C. P. Reid & Co. of the amount of their claim. The balance Caldwell paid into court, Lowe having refused to accept it. Plummer then issued a writ against Caldwell and Millar, alleging a partuership between them for the purpose of discounting notes and asking to have them restrained from negotiating the note and asking for delivery up of the same to him, and also claiming $300 for damages. The action was tried by Mr. Justice McMahon, who dismissed the action with costs. The plaintiff appealed to the Chancery Divisional Court and judgment given in favor of the plaintiff and the note ordered to be delivered up to him. From this judgment the defendants appeal to the court of appeal.
