STANDARD EXCHANGE WITHOUT EFFECT

Wall Street Interest Centres Upon Elections—War Risks High.

EMERGENCY MEASURE

Exchange Firm—More German Cotton Bills—Railway Returns Low.

Canadian Press Despatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Wall street temporarily abandoned its interest in international affairs today to give some consideration to the outcome of the elections. With the stock market still under closure, there was no way of measuring the significance of the overturn in terms of security values, but conservative opinion inclined to the belief that under normal conditions the market would have responded with a vigorous upturn of prices.

On the other hand, it was regarded as a debatable question whether these political conditions would not have been largely neutralized by the latest victories of the German navy. These were accompanied by another sharp rise in transatlantic rates, which war risks on ships plying between North and South American ports were virtually prohibitive, according to reports.

An Emergency Measure.
Expiration of the British war-act was without appreciable effect either in London or here, although the London Stock Exchange has formulated, with government aid, an elaborate plan to be employed when market operations are resumed. The plan applies mainly to the carrying of margin accounts and is plainly an emergency measure. The statement of the Imperial Bank of Germany, which showed an increase of $150,000,000 in gold reserve in the three months of the war, reflected the large payments made in connection with the war loan.

Exchange Firm.
Foreign exchange was firm, with a minimum of operations, cables being quoted at 4 1/2 and 4 1/4 and sight drafts at 4 1/2 and 4 1/4. More German cotton bills were in the market at rates unchanged from the early week. There was a rebid of German bills, however, but these, if consummated, probably will be in the nature of private transactions for the benefit of upbuilding of credits by that country.
