Marshall, Spader & Co. wired to J. G.
Beatty at the close:The wheat market has narrowed down to a very small affair. Sentiment shows a bullish tendency theoretically and takes a practical part in the market on the slightest encouragement. The improvement in foreign exchange was the chief incentive, bringing about a rally near the close after a day of rather pronounced weakness. Export business has fallen off to practically nothing, and financing does not seem to have improved any up to the present time. It is quite likely that receipts will fall off sharply, owing to the diminution of the market has every prospect of showing a very strong position.
Ennis & Stoppani wired to J. L. Milchell at the close:Wheat—The fluctuations in wheat covered a fairly wide range, but the volume of business was not to be compared with that which prevailed for some time. Traditionally deemed it wise to restrict themselves during the present unsettled situation in financial circles. Continental markets were closed, and Liverpool registered a fair decline, due to it is said, to some improvement in Australian crop outlook, and to a desire by small holders to secure profits. In the main the day's news was rather bearish, and final quotations showed a loss for the day. We would not be surprised to see values sink to a lower level temporarily.Corn and oats demand again to-day and toward the close advanced sharply.
The news was quite bullish, and we advised purchases of all reactions.Charles W. Gillett to Peter J. Morgan.
The financial situation has resulted in almost total stoppage of business, although the statistical position abroad is strong as ever. All the local stocks could be readily marketed at handsome profits, if funds were available.
This view is held by the best people in the trade, but the impression is also current that there is some cloud hanging over the local financial situation, and must be removed before any material advance takes place. Should foreign markets continue to decline in the meantime our market might grow lower, but the extreme speculative possibilities are all on the long side of the market.Corn—Cash prices were firm to-day, after gaining five or six cents this week.
Local receipts were very light. Reports show farmers are not selling any new corn, as banking facilities are lacking. As has been pointed out several times this week, corn is in a relatively strong position here than wheat, as stocks are very small. Argentine shipments to-day were about one-third of last year, and the shipping demand has become urgent. I think corn will gradually work considerably higher, unless some fresh financial disaster develops.Oats—Prices rallied with corn. This strength was increased by a better demand for cash oats. The latter are too scarce to encourage short sales, however much the high prices may appear.NEW YORK Dairy Market.
