AUSTRIANS TRY TO SAIL FOR HOMELAND, BUT ARE PREVENTED

No Tickets Sold Them, Ac- Nearly All Eager To Plan For cording to Law.

Having Heard That Their New City Hall Construction Is Countrymen Were Leaving in Numbers.

Austrians or other enemy aliens will not be allowed to book passage for their own country for some time yet. Three natives of the dual monarchy stepped into F. B. Clarke's ocean steamship ticket office at noon today and asked for passage to their homeland. They said that they had read in a Hamilton paper that Austrians were going home. paper that Austrians were going home in large numbers, and that they desired to sail as soon as possible.

Mr. Clarke explained to them the regulations, and also declared that the ocean traffic between North America and that Country was semawhat discrepanced. traffic between North America and that country was somewhat disorganized. The Russians, he said, were allowed to go back to their country because they were not looked upon as being antagonistic to the Allies. He thought that possibly after the conclusion of the peace conference, the regulations governing the traveling of enemies would be changed, but that at present they were still in force the same as if the war at the same as if the war.

Police Treated Old Man Just As If He Were Their Father

Aged Mr. Weller Testifies in Court to Their Goodness.

The police court session today was short and sweet. Deputy Magistrate Bartlett disposed of the cases in short order. Zilma Laponoida paid $1 for a order. Zilma Laponoida paid $1 for a breach of a bylaw, while H. Pocock and H. Lavagh paid $2 each for their breaches of bylaws.

Wellington Weller, a man of 78 years, was found wandering around the streets Monday afternoon. He had just come from Windsor, and had no place to go. In court today he stated that the police had treated him well over night, and had shown him every consideration.

"The boys just treated me as if I was their father," said Mr. Weller in a high, cracked, thin voice. He was remanded for a new days, and in the meantime Mr. Bartlett will consider what is to be done. The old man also stated that he had a daughter in Sault Ste. Marie, who would look after him if he could only reach her.

At present several of the sewers empty direct into the river, and this has always brought forth criticism by the citizens. While the building of the new interceptor sewer plant at King and Bidout streets will take care of some of these, it will not take in all of them.

Much Undivided.

Much Undlluted.

Major Somerville, in his address, estimates that 40 per cent of the sewage empties into the river in a raw state as a result of the inadequacy of the sewer beds and feeder pipes.

With this Mr. Brazier agrees, and for this reason he says that the work should be done as soon as possible. Plans, in all probability, will be prepared this year, he says.

Fears Labor Shortage.

The state of the labor market, Mr. Brazier thinks, will determine to a great extent the amount of work carried out this year. He fears that there will be a scarcity of help, and this, as well as the high price of materials, will have a tendency to curtail the work to a large extent.

WIVES AND FAMILIES OF RETURNED SOLDIERS SWELLING POPULATION

The population of London has been doing some growing in the past few weeks, owing to the arrival from overseas of the wives and children of soldiers. In several cases where the family is English or Scotch, it has taken a war to get them here. The head of the household came to Canada years ago to make a home for his wife and little ones, but, before he had sufficient of the wherewithel to bring them the war broke out. Like a good Britisher, and in order to protect his dependents, he enlisted and went back home on his way to France.

Now they are all here together, looking hopefully forward to the future, as the patriotic association visitors know. One visitor, by the way, has visited a number of these families which have arrived in the next tendence.
