The Imperial Theatre will finish with the Kendal Weston one-act players this week and their concluding bill, which commences today, is none other than that side-splitting domestic farce, "The Secress," by Chas. L. Hatton. It has been used by some of the best companies on the stage as a curtain-raiser and never fails to set audiences delirious with laughter. Miss Hurst, Miss Moynello and Mr. Vaness play in this sketch and Mr. Vaness play in this sketch and Mr. Weston will direct. For polite, brilliant comedy, dainty yet farcial, this new piece will register a sure hit.

WHO GRABBED THE NEEDED

Thousands of people in St. John tonight would like to know whose hand it was that snatched the precious volume from Cleo's grasp at the British consular reception in last week's chapter of "The Secret of the Submarine." That mysterious sliding panel sprang an awful surprise. Tomorrow's chapter of the great serial story has a still greater punch in it. Every moment, every scene of this sensational quest for the secretholding books are crowded with intense and swift action. Thomas Chatterson and Juanita Hansen are new favorites to Imperial patrons but they surely are favorites all right.

"JOAN THURSDAY" FILMED

Louis Joseph Vance's departmental store novel, "Joan Thursday," has been transferred to film by the Greater Vitagraph Co. under the title "The Footlights of Fate," and is to be the Imperial's central item for tomorrow and Saturday. Like a pond lily poking its head through a muck of social wretchedness, Joan Thursday, buffeted by the whims of an idle father, fawned upon by vultures in the footlights glare and driven almost to despair by the ways of the stage, finally finds her place in the sun and in the heart of John Mathias, a rising young playwright. Naomi Childers and Marc McDermott play the leads with strong supporting company.

TONIGHT: BIG ONES,
TOO, FOR WEEK-END

If you did not see "The Yellow Menace" chapter at the Gem last night, by all means attend at 7 or 8.30 tonight. And that's not all. Theda Bara, the "Vampire Woman," is there in five reel picture, "Secrets of Society," the film version of the celebrated story, "Lady Audley's Secret," that millions have read. It's a great programme. For Friday and Saturday, H. B. Warner in "The Beggar of Cawnpore," a big soldier story; and a new series "Mutt and Jeff," this time "In the Hospital."

The mayor said that he had been notified by military headquarters that, when the ambulance was ordered for a soldier who was seriously ill, they had been informed that the ambulance was not to be sent out for military cases. He wanted to know if this were correct.

Commissioner McLellan said that last year the ambulance had been called out so many times for soldiers whose condition was not such as to justify their admission to the hospital and that the ambulance had been damaged so much in some of these cases that he had given orders that only the old ambulance was to be used for them. He had been insulted so often by the military authorites that he was inclined to tell them that they could operate their own ambulance if they needed one.

Commissioner Fisher offered his amendments to the sidewalk obstruction by-laws but consideration was deferred until the others could study the amendments.

Commissioner Wigmore drew attention to the mass of melted metal in the old burying ground, a relic of the great fire, and moved that the public works department be asked to provide for its crection in a public place and with an explanatory tablet.

Commissioner Fisher suggested that it could wait for a while and the mayor suggested that the Historical Society might take on intrest in it.

The matter was left to the commissioner of public works.

It is a matter of odd interest that Miss Hyland, who has distinguished herself abroad in the stellar roles of many stage successes, should appear in her first American screen offering in an Englishman's play, and a drama, moreover, that won its first success in Europe, repeating its stage triumph later in this country.

There was an interesting session of the provincial government here at noon today, when an hour was devoted to the provincial government here at noon today, when an hour was devoted to hearing complaints of auto owners and a reply by Commissioner McLellan.

A large delegation of car owners, which care of the Automobile Association, was present. Their chief complaint was the way in which business men had been summoned to court and fined because their number plate was not distinguishable at sixty feet at night. They asked a refund of the fines and some amendments to the act.

A fine Diamond in a ring or scarfpin is a sign of success. It makes a favorable impression on all you meet in a business or social way. It helps you progress. It gives you prestige.

How much are such things worth to you? Add to that estimate the fact that a Sharpe Diamond increases in value faster than interest accumulates on any other sound investment, and you have the money profit in owning a Diamond.

DEATH OF FORMER, RESIDENT

There came to the city today news of the death of a former resident of St. John, Mrs. Helen Hevenor, wife of Gilbert M. Hevenor, who died at her home in Warren, Pa., after a lingering illness early this morning. The sad news was received by Mr. Hevenor's father, Benjamin Hevenor of Brookville. Mrs. Hevenor was a daughter of the late Andrew Jackson, contractor and builder, of this city. She left St. John with her husband in 1878, and since then they have resided in Warren, where Mr. Hevenor was in business, and later became associated with Armour & Co., of Chicago. Three children, Miss Rachel and Nellie, at home, and Andrew, of Olean; one sister, Mrs. W. Bateman, of Bradford, Pa., and one brother, John Jackson, of New York, survive.
