

MORNING NEWS OVER THE MILES

A man who gave his name as Emery and his wife left Woodstock in the day ago, deserting their infant child, and their whereabouts are now unknown to the police of that town. They came to Woodstock from Patten, Me., and their baby was born in Woodstock. It is now a town charge.

Frank Smith, aged eleven years, was sentenced at Fredericton yesterday to one year in the Boys' Industrial Home, St. John, on a charge of larceny. Another similar charge was allowed to stand against him.

Katharine McGowan, a nurse, and Ada Mowat, a maid, were drowned yesterday near Grandstone Island, in the St. Lawrence River, when a severe wind and hail storm swept over the place. A companion, Herbert Smith, saved himself by clinging to the boat, and was unable to rescue the girls owing to the darkness.

Vancouver, July 25.—Hon. J. D. Hazen, minister of marine, will go to Prince Rupert next Monday, and on to Dawson thereafter. He expects to be back in Vancouver on August 15.

New York, July 25.—Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific, was elected this afternoon president and director of the New York New Haven & Hartford Railway. His election takes effect Sept. 1, 1913.

SONG OF THE COMMON LOT

I'm not like a man who cares nothing for things
That others may have in their pride;
I am not the sort who to destiny's dings
Resentment has ever denied;
I'm eager to prosper, I'm anxious to show
Free spending of treasure and stuff;
I'd live just as well as the best one, but oh!
I never have money enough!

I'd buy me an automobile and cash day
I'd ride in it, happy and free;
I'd live in a place for which I would pay
A price that would stagger John D.;
I'd own a steam yacht and belong to a club
I'd do all these things—but here's look you, the rule
I never have money enough!

So, pity the mortal who longs for the best
And gets it not early nor late!
He'll go to his finish and enter his rest
Still keeping a poor man's estate;
Yet men are all tollers who hustle and sweat
At tasks that are many and rough;
They hurry and worry and grumble and fret,
Yet never have money enough!

NONE TO SPARE
In certain parts of the far west, where without irrigation, the cultivators of the land who are in a bad way indeed, the rains that during the growing season fall from time to time are appreciated to a degree that is unknown in the east.

Last summer a fruit grower who owns fifty acres of orchards was rejoicing in one of these precipitations of moisture, when his hired man came into the house.

"Why don't you stay in out of the rain?" asked the fruit man.

"I don't mind a little dew like this," said the man. "I can work along just the same."

"O, I am not talking about that," exclaimed the fruit man. The next time it rains, you come into the house. I want that water on the land."—Hesper's Magazine.

The one thing a man is anxious to share with the world is the good opinion he has of himself.

Just Two Kinds of Men In The World

By J. R. HAMILTON
Former Advertising Manager, Wanamaker's, Philadelphia
(Copyrighted)

FINANCIALLY, there are just two kinds of men in the world: those who constantly figure upon the principal of their money and those who deal with the interest on the principal.

The one kind of man throws away ten dollars carelessly and says, "What's the difference. It is only a ten dollar bill."

The other holds onto that ten and says, "Ten dollars is the interest at 5 per cent. on a capital of TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS."

One man figures on how much ten dollars will buy. The other man figures on how much it would cost him to buy ten dollars.

A difference of principal and interest—that is all.

Yet the principal figure is not the principle figure in life. Indeed he counts for very little except when he is spending that ten. No one comes to him with opportunities. No one considers him as a possible investor in anything good. Money always passes him quietly by.

And yet this is all a simple habit of mind. The difference between financial success and financial failure is only a little trick of the brain.

And the habit of figuring interest—the habit of figuring every dollar you spend as the interest on twenty times that amount at five per cent., is very easily learned.

Try it now in the personal things you are going out to buy. If you need a suit of clothes, look through the advertising in this paper. See where you can save five dollars in these Clearance Sales! And then say to yourself, "I am not merely saving five dollars by buying a suit of clothes from this advertisement; I am saving the amount which ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS WOULD EARN IF IT WORKED AT FIVE PER CENT. INTEREST FOR A WHOLE YEAR."

That's the thing that brings you to your wits' end. That's the thing that makes you stop and think.

Now these good Clearance Sales are going on all through this paper. Merchants have to take their losses to reduce their stocks right now. You can save money on anything you buy. Your clothes, your shoes, your shirts, your household goods—all offer money-saving opportunities in these Clearance Sales.

Why, you can save the interest on at least FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS if you will only go at it right. And show me the man to whom five hundred dollars is not a capital worth considering!

Interest—that is the thing to figure on always. And the way to save the interest on a lot of money is to watch the advertising in this paper day by day and do your buying from these Clearance Sales.

STATE INSURANCE PLAN IN VICTORIA

Scheme for Contributory Compensation in Australian Province

London, July 25.—A Sydney despatch in the Morning Post says that a contributory workmen's compensation scheme has been introduced into the Victorian legislature. This provides for joint contributions from the state, employers, and workmen to a state accident insurance fund, controlled by a commission which has power to issue policies. The premiums are: Employers, three-sixths; work-people, two-sixths; State, one-sixth.

Payments are made at death, to persons wholly dependent of three years' earnings, or 200, whichever is the larger. If there are no dependents then medical and funeral expenses not exceeding 200 are paid. In the case of incapacity a weekly payment is made of half the average weekly earnings, not exceeding 21 weekly, the total limitation being 400. Persons under 21 and over 60 are specially provided for.

USED TO IT
"So you're going over on the steam-er. Aren't you afraid you'll be seasick?"

"Not a bit! You see, I've swung round on the straps of crowded trolleys every day for years, so I'm used to a rough voyage."

THE GREAT LONDON SHOWS ENLARGED

Bigger and better than ever, Howe's Great London Circus will soon be with us. Every department has been enlarged. Five hundred arctic performers; over a hundred cages contain the Million Dollar Zoo, and the show is completely billed with new and absolutely different novelties. The Great London Shows Consolidated is truly a mammoth institution. When one has seen it from end to end, outside and inside, and has formed an opinion of what he has seen and learned for a very nominal fee, how much real pleasure and benefit it has been, he can easily understand why a big three-ring circus of the high standard of the Great London Shows occupies the enviable position in the amusement world that it does.

The far-famed Dublin Dapple Grays 28000 Prize Winners are also presented in conjunction with the Big Show. The Great London Circus will exhibit Monday, Aug. 4.

CHURCH RELICS

Interesting Discovery in Saint Sampson's in Guernsey

IN SECRET CHAMBER

Believed They Were Placed There Nearly 400 Years Ago—Further Search is Being Made For Other Hiding Places

(Guernsey Weekly Press.)

Between five and six o'clock last Friday evening the workmen employed in the belfry of St. Sampson's Church discovered a secret chamber about the south arch in which were a number of ancient altar ornaments and other relics, including a gilt altar crucifix. With its base the crucifix measured 29 inches in height.

The articles found are:

Base of a censer.

Two altar candlesticks.

A triple candlestick.

All these articles are made of a heavy mixed metal called latten, but the crucifix alone had been gilded. The candlesticks are all of large size. The socket of the crucifix is bent sideways and bears marks of soldering. Other parts had also been damaged and soldered. The socket would have permitted its use as a staff for processional purposes, but it was noticed that it exactly fitted a base found with it.

The crucifix bears a good deal of ornamentation, but the other articles are of a plainer description. Only one of the candlesticks, a bracket one, is of a very ornamental character. It is shaped to represent a dragon and bears a shield. Another of the brackets has a dragon's head on it.

The secret chamber in which these articles were found is formed by an inner wall being built up inside the belfry on the south side. The space between the walls is about two feet, extending the width of the tower, and rising till the walls meet above.

Most of the articles were found Friday, but two were recovered Saturday. The articles were reached through a hole in the wall made by removing a large stone. They were no doubt placed in the chamber through this hole and the stone replaced. A floor had been made in the belfry of loose ground and this hid the stone covering the opening.

In order that the articles might be placed in the belfry workmen have been employed in removing this large quantity of loose earth. While thus employed one of the workmen found that a stone in the corner of the belfry was loose. He worked it away and the secret chamber was discovered. He reached in and drew out some of the contents, which were taken to Messrs. A. and F. Manuelle's office, and afterwards handed over to J. J. Brice, one of the churchwardens.

The articles, it is surmised, were placed in hiding at the time of the Reformation and have remained there for 350 years.

In the interior of the church the secret chamber is above the arch at the side of the Eleanor Le Marquant memorial Tablet.

On Saturday some members of the Guernsey Society of Natural Science, including Colonel T. W. St. John, Sir S. Carey Curtis and the Rev. Bourde de la Rogerie visited Mr. Brice's house to inspect the relics and afterwards visited the church to see the secret chamber in the belfry.

Further search is to be made for relics. The floor of the belfry consists of loose earth and this earth is being removed to make room for the steel frame work for the new bell. At the request of the members of the Society of Natural Science and Local Research this earth is to be carefully examined as it is removed. Small articles may be found in it. The articles found on Friday and Saturday were in a cavity in the south wall of the belfry. This cavity will no doubt be further examined, but the search already made has proved that it is unlikely that any more large ornaments or rather large articles can be found.

It seems probable that there is, or has been some other hiding place for the ornaments, for those found are all odd, and only half of a censer was found. Probably the other half was hidden at some other spot. The candlesticks and brackets are all odd ones, though it may be supposed that in the church they were in pairs. Possibly the corresponding candlesticks and brackets were hidden at some other spot, or the hiding place may have been discovered years ago and the articles removed. Measurements taken to show that there is no other secret chamber in the belfry walls, but it may be remarked that the one in which the relics were found was so cleverly constructed that the existence of so large a cavity was not suspected. A careful examination of the building may result in the discovery of some other hiding place.

A letter from England addressed to "Capt. Charles A. Furlong, the Crow's Nest, latitude 40.88 north, longitude 74.00 west," was promptly delivered through the New York Postoffice to Tompkinsville, Staten Island.

A lilliputian electric dynamo, perfect in every detail, but weighing only a quarter of an ounce, was shown at work before the Paris Academy of Science. Its inventor is a French mechanic named Trevet. This dynamo is three fifths of an inch long, half an inch wide, and three-fifths of an inch high. The coil is a quarter of an inch in diameter, and is wound with 3 1/2 ft. of silk insulated copper wire of 1,500 in. in thickness. A tension of 3-5 volts is indicated by a current of 0.2 ampere, but as to its power there is no instrument sensitive enough to record it. While at work the toy machine made a sound like the humming of a bee.
