FIELDING'S WARNING TO CANADIAN POLICY HOLDERS

Don't Drop Your Policies-Canadian Companies are Sound-Minister of Finance also Defended Insurance Commission and Inspection--An Expert's Praise

OTTAWA, May 23.—The house began the week with a discussion of telephone legislation, life insurance and hay inspection. Monday being private member's day always provides a varied debate. The most important feature of the proceedings and the theme mid by Finance Minister Fielding of Canadian insurance companies, of the Canadian inspection and of the insurance inquiry which is now being held.

The Bell telephone bill increasing the capital stock from ten to thirty millions was discussed in committee and held for the introduction of the amendments to the railway act, which will give the railway commission authority over the business and the sale of telephone companies and make it necessary for companies to get the consent of local authorities or an order from the railway board before entering upon the street of a city, town or village or municipality.

In moving for a parliamentary committee to investigate the status of life insurance and life insurance companies in Canada W. F. MacLean declared that the investigation by the Canadian commission and the American committee in the United States had shown that life insurance had lost its benevolent aspect and had become a money making business.

Thirty per cent of the receipts went toward expenses and the business could not be justified or continued unless important reforms were made. Evidence at Albany, Ottawa and Toronto threw discredit on the officers charged with the oversight of the insurance. In Canada, speedier means of investigation and securing justice from insurance abuses were needed. Mr. MacLean complained that the Canadian commission had not progressed as fast as the American committee had done in New York and its report would not be ready in time to have legislation passed this session. A parliamentary committee could have done better. It would have been more likely to turn its findings into law than those of a royal commission. Mr. MacLean censured the finance minister for not having overhauled the insurance department when its weaknesses had been exposed and for not having acted on the evidence which had been so far secured by the insurance commission and compelled some of the Canadian companies to reorganize.

Hon. Mr. Fielding said: "The great evil in connection with life insurance in the United States has been the creation of unnecessary alarm which caused many policy-holders to drop their insurance. I hope this may not be the case in Canada."

"So far as the Canadian investigation has proceeded, while irregularities have been pointed out which may be the subject of inquiry and may lead to reform of insurance legislation, no company has been shown to be unable to meet its responsibilities. Therefore I would have as the dominant note of my remarks a warning to policy holders not to be in a hurry to permit their policies to lapse."

"I do not think many persons will agree that insurance should be investigated by parliamentary committee. A business matter can be better investigated by a royal commission."

"I think the commission well chosen. There was some objection to having a judge for a chairman, but I think the presence of a judge gives an assurance to the public of a fair and impartial inquiry. Then we have a Canadian gentleman from Toronto, Mr. Langmuir of the Toronto General Trust Company, who is well known in financial affairs and is admitted to have special qualifications for this inquiry. The third commissioner is a chartered accountant of Montreal, Mr. Kent, whose training qualifies him for the work."

"I have heard gentlemen opposite describe the scope of the commissioners as of the broadest character. They do have a proper commission and the scope is sufficiently broad there is little ground for complaint."

"Mr. MacLean says the commission is proceeding slowly and comparing it with the Armstrong inquiry of New York, says that inquiry had the services of a skilled actuary. It is a curious and interesting fact that this inquiry has secured the services of the same eminent actuary, Miles Dawson, and whatever experience he had in the New York inquiry he is now bringing to bear on the Canadian inquiry."

The complaint that there is no one in charge does not hold, as C. F. Shepley, whom R. L. Borden describes as one of the eminent legal men of Canada, has been placed in charge of the investigation.

Mr. MacLean declared that it has been shown the superintendent of insurance has performed his duties very badly. I think the superintendent has house or out of it. I believe his work is much better than would appear from the discussions in the press. Anyone who will take the trouble to read the official report will find the superintendent much more competent than is usually given him credit for. I think he is of insurance than as a witness. Unfortunately he labors under the disadvantage of the finance department which is modest and not disposed to boast of his own work."

"The press has been unfair in saying that the superintendent of insurance did a larger staff and could not get it. He never said so. It is not true given a messenger, as some papers stated."

"An examination of the testimony and the report of the superintendent of insurance will satisfy all fair minded men that Mr. Fitzgerald is doing his work well."

"Let me say that when any irregularities were discovered by the superintendent of insurance and attention was called to them, in almost every case they were immediately corrected. The superintendent has done a great deal of work in that way, for which little may be said. It has been considered the part of wisdom in work of that character, where irregularities are discovered and remedied, not to advertise them."

"The work of the commission is extensive and while I hoped in the beginning that there would be the report during the present session, the indications are that we will not have it before prorogation. However, I believe that it will be ready for the autumn session."

"I have no hesitation in expressing my strongest confidence that at the conclusion of the investigation we shall have from these gentlemen a report which will assist parliament in bringing about whatever amendments may be found necessary to give a better insurance act than we now have."

Dr. Sproule thought the evidence taken before the commission showed that there had been ample grounds for alarm by Canadian policy-holders as to the manner in which the affairs of the insurance companies were conducted.

OTTAWA, May 23.—The senate got back to work today after a vacation of a week and as the house had a long though rather hum-drum session parliament was working full blast.

The finance minister introduced a bill to give effect to the minor tariff changes mentioned in the budget. They consist of continuing best sugar and alluvial gold mining machinery on the free list.

The report of the inspecting architect, S. C. Taylor and Mr. G. Hutchinson, on the fall of the tower of the west block was laid on the table by Mr. Hyman.

The report says: The supervision of the work by the department up to the level of the first floor was of the most formal character. Practically there was no supervision from the time the work reached the ground floor until the lower collapsed.

L. P. Taylor was in charge of the work and was responsible to the chief architect, but he did not make any reasonable attempt to fulfil his duties. The findings of the commissioners as to the cause of the collapse of the tower were:

That the walls were not built according to the specifications, and that the bad quality of the work was sufficient reason for the collapse.

That the plan and specifications were not as clear as they might have been. They were sufficiently clear to enable the contractor to determine the quality of the work required.

That the constructional design was faulty in that the quadrilateral openings weakened the wall at the point where the full strength should have been maintained, and the steel beams of the floor were concentrated and eccentric load upon the wall at its weakest point; the more serious defect in the introduction of steel beams.

That there was not proper and efficient supervision of the works.

That the main building, owing to the use of block stone in the backing, is safe.

That it was inadvisable to proceed with the erection of the upper portion of the tower.

That the contractor must be held responsible for the collapse of the tower as he did not carry out his work in a good and substantial manner in accordance with the plans and specifications or take any precaution to see that the work was thoroughly well built at all points where it should be self-evident to any intelligent or practical builder that the construction showed defects and that attention.

That the department of public works is also responsible as it did not properly supervise the work and detect and correct faults of construction as the work progressed.

On a question of privileges, Mr. Foster declared that the corporation of the Presses misrepresented him by claiming he was "continually throwing gratuitous slanders in the faces of the people." He called the "Canadians and Catholics" and everything which ought to be respected. That the representative French Canadians as tools and the Catholic clergy as an aggregation of fanaticism and hypocrites. Mr. Foster also declared that the Canada misrepresented him. At a convenient time he would offer a resolution on the subject.

The minister of justice's resolution rearranging salaries of parliamentary officials was adopted and a bill to give effect introduced.

On going into supply, Dr. Black of Hants asked for protection or bonus was needed to produce the tariff commission. The Atlantic coasting trade was in the hands of Norwegians, who had unsafe craft and food that was a byword. It was said they could live on the smell of an oiled rag.

Hon. Mr. Brodeur said there had been many representations of this nature made before the tariff commission. It would be left over along with other tariff matters and perhaps next session there would be a policy announced.

The house went into supply, again taking up an item of $275,000 for government steamers.

Mr. Fitzpatrick withdrew his bill respecting the exportations of electrical power. In discussing it, Mr. Cockburn asked the minister of justice to announce the policy of the government with respect to jurisdiction over the water of the Niagara river.

Mr. Hyman said the government hesitated to take action involving jurisdiction, and its policy was indicated

GEORGE HECTOR SENT UP FOR TRIAL ON CRIMINAL CHARGE.

Preliminary Examination of Mrs. Bettie's Assailant Held at Hampton This Morning—The Prisoner Detained on Another Charge.

HAMPTON, N. B., May 23.—At 9 o'clock this morning the preliminary examination of George Hector, the colored youth who has been held in jail here since the 21st on a charge of criminal assault and attempted rape, was held at the office of Sheriff Presser. P. M. McIntyre appeared for the prisoner on behalf of the Crown. The witness examined were Constable Isaac Campbell, who narrated the circumstances of the arrest as already given in the public press. Annie Bettie, the complainant, a small, delicate looking woman of twenty-five years, followed. She gave her evidence in a clear manner. She broke into tears when asked on to state minutely what the prisoner said and did at the time of making the assault. From first to last he was in the station about fifteen minutes. He first accosted her as she stood looking out of the door with the inquiry, "Are you going to St. John?" to which she made no response, but turned back into the room and sat down. The prisoner followed her in shortly afterwards, shut the door, and sat down before her and made an indecent proposal to her. She pushed him aside and said, "Go away and behave yourself." He took hold of her by the shoulders and threw her upon the floor. As she screamed and struggled in the withdrawal of the bill. He and the minister of justice had decided to give Premier Whitney an opportunity to look into the bill, and it was hoped to reach a mutually satisfactory agreement on the question of jurisdiction. The Chicago drainage canal was entitled to take ten thousand feet of lake water, and he understood that the government had agreed to give him a thousand feet. He intended to bring up the whole question of control of water power before the provincial conference during the summer.

The committee arose without reporting, thus killing the bill. In committee on the bill for the amendment of the railway act the minister offered an amendment providing that the railway commission should fix the terms for the interchange of traffic and another intended to give municipalities control of their roads and streets as against telephone companies. The bill was referred to a special committee.

Are You Often Bilious?

Read This and Learn How To Prevent Attacks.

Biliousness is merely a term applied to a condition in which the body is over-loaded with bile. The complexion turns yellow, eyes look dull, pimples, itching and eczema break out, headaches are ever present. Biliousness has two great causes, constipation and defective liver action. When Dr. Hamilton's Pills are taken they not only correct the bowels, but act directly on the liver, regulating its bile secretion.

Unlike ordinary medicines which purge and give temporary relief, Dr. Hamilton's Pills remove the condition which causes biliousness; thus permanent cures are effected.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills do cure biliousness and liver ailments under all circumstances.

We prove this by the statement of Mr. Fenwick Luddington, of New Harbor, N. S., who writes: "Three months ago I had no expectation of ever getting free from periodical bilious attacks. They were preceded by dizziness and deadish headaches. If I stooped over my head would swim and a nauseous feeling crept into my stomach."

Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted up my liver, drove all the bile out of my blood and made me a well man in a few months. Today I enjoy a good appetite, excellent digestion and a best of health. Dr. Hamilton's Pills today. Sold at all dealers; 25c per box or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from N. C. Pointe St. Dr. Hamilton, Conn., U. S. A., and Kingston, Ont.

TO HARNESS THE FALLS

A Splendid Opportunity is Being Neglected

This is Todd C. Woodworth's Opinion—Thinks the Engineering Difficulties Can Be Easily Overcome

Todd C. Woodworth, son of the late D. C. Woodworth, ex-M. P., is at the Royal. Mr. Woodworth is extensively interested in mining properties in Arizona and Nevada, and also has important interests in San Francisco. At the time of the great fire he was in Boston, but he immediately returned to San Francisco, arriving there a few days after the havoc had been wrought. The condition of affairs was indescribable, but Mr. Woodworth says, "The people with characteristic energy and faith are setting to work on the rebuilding, and he expects a greater city than before will rise from the ruins. Seattle and other Pacific ports will, however, trade for some years, and are making special provision to handle it. New jobbing houses are springing up in all these cities, and it will be a long haul for San Francisco to regain the trade."

While in the city Mr. Woodworth, who in the course of his mining experience has seen many engineering difficulties overcome, drove out to the falls, and was much impressed with the great possibilities there for cheap power, and thought there would be little difficulty in harnessing the power. He expressed great surprise that such a splendid opportunity had not been taken advantage of, as with the development of the power there, which he thinks easily possible, St. John would be given an immense advantage over any other point in the maritime provinces as a manufacturing centre.

Mr. Woodworth will go across the bay in the Prince Rupert to visit friends in the Annapolis valley, and once more revel in the perfumes and beauty of the apple blossoms of that famed region.

REVOLUTION IN GUATEMALA

Gen. Castello Forced to Relire from City of Ocos

Uprising is Most Widely Spread of Any in the History of Guatemala—Cabrera's Overthrow Sought

MEXICO CITY, May 23.—General Castello, commanding one detachment of Guatemalan revolutionists, after retreating from the city of Ocos, was forced to retire to the mountains. Castello is now reported to have a new base and will be reinforced tonight. Several hundred good fighting men from the Guatemalan Empire City, making his way to Quetzaltenango. Barillas has with him a fine body of picked men, and is reported to be steadily recruiting his force. No news has been received here from Salvador, but the invading force should, by this time, be well advanced into Guatemala. Resident Guatemalans here state that the whole country is ripe for the overthrow of Cabrera. The season of rains has set in and the roads are bad in Guatemala. Telegraph communication is difficult, owing to the cutting of wires on the Guatemalan side.

Messengers on horseback will be despatched from Ocos, where Major Castello had his forces, and from the flying column to General Barillas, who is pushing on to Quetzaltenango, a city of 40,000 inhabitants. This city, likely to be occupied by General Barillas Wednesday or Thursday of this week, is immensely popular in this region.

The revolution is said to be the most widely spread of any in the history of Guatemala. Foreign planters have been waiting for months for General Barillas to lead the "Yan Cruces" interests and many of the best class of natives support the revolution. Frequent abuse of power is charged to the government.

General Barillas and General Castello and two aides left the city by strategy. May 11 they bought tickets to El Paso over the Mexican Central. They boarded the night train, but left it a few miles out and returned here, where they boarded a Pullman car, stocked with provisions and carrying the saddles and special baggage. In this car they went over the Vera Cruz and Tehuantepec railways to Tonala on the Pacific coast, there switching to the Pan-American railway, which now approaches the Guatemalan boundary. Their six towards the United States outwitted the Guatemalan representatives here.

A SITUATION MISUNDERSTOOD.

"Don't you know," said the man who scatters advice indifferently, "if you didn't use tobacco you could own your own house?"

"You misapprehend the situation," answered Mr. Weeks. "If I used tobacco I'd have to own my own house. Marie would never let me live in ours."

GRADUATION RECITAL AT ACADIA SEMINARY

WOLFVILLE, N. S., May 23.—The first graduation musical recital of the season took place on Friday evening in Alunnae Hall, which was filled to overflowing on this enjoyable occasion, as both the performers, Mrs. Otis D. Harris of Wolfville and Miss Eunice W. Haines of Freeport, are artists of repute and rendered a high class programme most successfully. Mrs. Harris has a beautiful contralto voice of great power and compass, and was enthusiastically received in her various numbers. Her first selection was from Gluck, the founder of modern opera. The recitative was charmingly given and formed a fitting introduction to the Cavatina. An aria was given from Handel's Judas Macabaeus, "So Shall the Lute and Harp Awake," and a recitative, "O Grant it, Heaven." These showed to advantage the excellent qualities of her voice on the sustained notes. Bohm's "Night in Spring" was a plaintive melody in striking contrast with the joyous pastoral Eclogue by Debussy. In her closing selection, "Be My Discourse," she won rapturous applause.

Miss Haines, who evidently entered into the spirit of the old composers, gave selections from Chopin, Schumann, Liszt, and Brahms, illustrating the wonderful commandment from the moderate to the exalted. Her rendering of Rigoletto's "Paraphrase on La Vie" was exceptionally good, bringing out the strength and beauty of that admirable composition.

Miss Haines has taken the course in the theory and practice of voice relations and has been successful in winning the first place in the school for several years. The award having been given by Giescheles, a celebrated composer of Boston and author of the text book on Musical Composition used in the seminary. This original place was played by Miss Haines, and received with marked appreciation. Both Prof. Maxim and Miss Archer deserve great credit for the proficiency of their pupils. Much of the success of the occasion was due to the talented accompanist, Miss Moran.

Both the performers were presented with handsome bouquets and an immense reception was held at the close, when they received congratulations of their friends upon the completion of their course at Acadia Seminary.

THE AMARANTH OF EDEN.

All pink and white the apple tree stands. All pink and white in the tender glow; And beneath its boughs a man and maid Whisper together low.

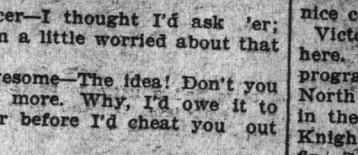

Love's seal is gleaming upon a hand— Hearts are exchanged with the fading day; 'Tis the amaranth from a garden old, Which "eastward in Eden" lay.

Far, in a meadow of clover-blossoms, The homely low of the kine is heard; And sweetly is borne on evening breeze The twitter of a bird.

The rustle of wings above the years, And lo! the Angel of Eden stands, Who watches the sacred Tree of Life, With drawn and flaming sword.

Bids the lovers pass from Paradise— To meet life's chequered toilsome way; But the tender gleam of this fragrant hour Makes glad time's little day.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. William Durnan at Norton was recently the scene of a very pretty wedding, when their daughter, Clara J., was united in marriage to Geo. A. Langell, of Rev. Mr. Perry. The home was filled with a number of invited guests, all being relatives of the bride and groom. At 1:30 p.m. the bride and groom entered the parlor, where there was a large party. The bride was very handsomely attired in white silk with lace trimmings. Her travelling suit was of blue broadcloth, trimmed with white velvet. After the ceremony the guests were spread before them, after which the guests returned to their homes wishing the bride and groom much happiness through life. The groom's present to the bride was a large bevel edged German plate mirror.
