Wilson and Black Were In Great Form

Tenney joined the Boston team in 1894 as a catcher, coming direct from Brown university. Although left-handed, he was a right-handed batsman, but he didn't come into his own until he replaced old Tom Tucker on first base. Then he became the marvel of the fans, and his batting average was regarded as the best first sacker in the game.

Last year Tenney slowed up, and this year, before reporting to the Giants at Marlin, Tex., he had an operation performed on his foot, which he hoped would benefit him. At Dallas, he was called on to replace Mark Merkle regularly on first, but would hold Tenney in reserve. Merkle has made such a good showing at the "horns" that it is probable that the possibility of Tenney regaining his regular position.

Unlike most athletes, Tenney has studied his mother and has a beautiful home in the Atholparks section of a suburb of Boston. He is an accomplished artist with water colors, having had considerable experience in painting. When the time comes for his release slip is handed him, he will not have to worry over the future. It is also probable that he could get a job with a minor league club without any difficulty.

Bar Harbor waters there are several yachts eligible for this race. The Tiandra and Wianno were built last year and this year, George Owens, who designed these two, has returned out two more which are to sail in Massachusetts waters for the Lipton cup emblematic of the class championship. The new boats have been built by Hodgdon Bros. at East Boothbay.

The Corinthian club wants to have the race sailed during the week between July 5, as that will be the only time during the season that the Eastern 31 raters have open dates. It is the intention of the owners of the boats to sail the Tiandra and Wianno to disband at Bar Harbor on July 16, disband at Bar Harbor on July 16. From Bar Harbor they will sail to Portland, Me., to Larchmont and take part in the contests of race week which ends July 23. They will then be able to sail the races for the cup and get back to Marblehead by the beginning of August.

Kansas farmers spent $2,300,000 of automobiles during 1909, and $2,750,000 in 1908. In one Nebraska town of 1000 people, 75 forty automobiles were sold last year to farmers near the town and retired farmers in the town. Careful estimate of the number of automobiles owned by farmers in the United States is 76000.

Directors of the Automobile and Aero Club of Canada have under consideration the possibility of holding in the near future a series of contests which would bring together aviators of world-wide repute and eclipse in size and importance the contests of the big meets heretofore held in other countries, the idea being to give the local citizens and Canadians general credit for the part they have taken themselves in the practical progress that has been attained in the great advances in sciences, viz., that of aerial navigation.

The work of organization and carrying out of this big enterprise will be in the hands of Messrs. B. M. Wooley and C. W. Bennett. Mr. Wilcox is
