Dominion Income Tax Proceedings

Several Cases Heard in Police Court Yesterday—Will be Resumed Today.

Hearing in the case of those charged with delinquency in not complying with the Dominion Income Tax Act, by filing their returns for the year 1918 was proceeded with yesterday afternoon at the police court before Magistrate Ritchie.

The first case to be called yesterday was that of Mr. J. A. Broderick, L. P. D. Tilley, counsel for the Department of Finance, read an affidavit setting out that three communications and a registered letter had been forwarded to the defendant requesting him to file the necessary statement, and no such return had been received up to the time of the issue of the summons.

Dr. Broderick Testifies.

Dr. Broderick, in the course of his testimony stated that he had already explained the reasons for the fact that he was not able to file a return for 1918 to A. W. Sharpe, Federal Inspector of Taxation here, mentioning that he had not been receiving a copy of the Dominion Income Tax Act, and that he had not been receiving a copy of the Dominion Income Tax Act, and that he had not been receiving a copy of the Dominion Income Tax Act.

G. Earle Logan then informed the court that he was appearing for H. Colby Smith, who desired to change his plea of guilty to one of "not guilty." The reason for doing so was that the defendant had subsequently found on going back to his office that he had complied with the law by mailing his return for the year in question sometime in 1919. This return was mailed, but the envelope was not registered. This matter will be further heard this afternoon.

James H. Pullen.

The next case to be called was that of James H. Pullen, represented by G. Earle Logan, who asked that the matter be dismissed on the ground that the defendant had filed out a return which was banded to Mr. Sharpe. The latter then looked it over, said it was unsatisfactory and returned it to Mr. Pullen, who promised to furnish another return, but had not done so up to the time of the issue of the summons. Since then, however, Mr. Pullen completed another form and filed it.

Mr. Tilley drew the court's attention to the fact that if it was an incomplete return, it was a tax return form, and it had been handed back to him for further information, which was essential, then the person in question should furnish the desired answers in order that the department could determine for what amount, if any, he was assessable. It was necessary, explained counsel for the officials to have this information which was called for under the Dominion Income Tax Act, and four communications had been forwarded in every instance to the defendant's asking for complete statements before action had been taken by way of summons by the department.

This matter was also adjourned until this afternoon when a decision will be rendered.

Thomas J. Phillips.

Thomas J. Phillips, who also appeared yesterday, repeated his former testimony to the effect that in 1918 he was under considerable financial difficulty to make both ends meet, and being in such circumstances his income was not taxable. He was not aware that in the circumstances he was called upon to make a return, and the law at that time was a new one. His Honor stated that he felt that he would have to consider the defendant guilty, and asked him if he were prepared to pay the minimum fine of $100, to which Mr. Phillips replied that he was not. This case will come up this afternoon.

William Baxter.

In explanation of the reason why he had not filed a return for 1918, William Baxter stated that he could not honestly and conscientiously fill out the form which was sent to him at the time without further information. He called upon the federal tax officer here in the matter. Subsequently he had suffered from influenza, the doctor had ordered a rest and he was now out of business. Magistrate Ritchie suggested that possibly Mr. Baxter could file a return for 1918 now. In reply counsel for the department stated that he would be glad to submit to the department any statement made by the defendants, in cases of a deserving nature; and all evidence submitted here in such matters will be forwarded to Ottawa in order that the cases may be dealt with by the department on their own merits, where the defendant has pleaded guilty and a fine has been struck. Adjournment was made until this afternoon, when Mr. Baxter will again appear.

H. L. McGowan.

H. L. McGowan informed the court that he was satisfied that he had made a return for 1918. The envelope containing this statement, the defendant testified, was sent by ordinary mail and the envelope containing same was addressed to A. W. Sharpe, on
