

TORIES DISCLOSE LEGLESS OFFICIAL

Hungry Henchman Got His $20 Job

Wholesale Slaughter of Grits in Marine Department

Mr. Carvell Charges That Fish Poachers Had Been Appointed Wardens in Carleton County—Mr. Hazen Declares He is Against Officials Being Active Political Partisans—Other News of Parliament.

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—In committee on the marine estimates, Nova Scotia members brought up a number of cases of dismissal of officials in Nova Scotia.

Mr. Kite said that Mr. Bourque, light keeper at Bourque River (N. S.), had been dismissed for parting with a permit for an investigation where nothing was brought out against him, and a second investigation where he was not told that evidence would be taken and consequently had not made an appearance.

Hon. Mr. Hazen replied that Joe Gillies, ex-M. P., had stated that Bourque was an offensive partisan, and that Commissioner Duchemin had reported that Bourque declined to make a statement.

Mr. Kite reaffirmed his declaration that Bourque had not been a partisan, and said that Bourque was dead and that his death had been hastened by the treatment he had received.

Dismissed Legless Man.

Mr. Sinclair, of Guysboro, called the attention of Mr. Hazen to the fact that Geo. Joliffe had been dismissed as fish warden at St. Mary's River (N. S.). He said that Joliffe had lost his legs some years ago, but instead of becoming a public charge had undertaken to maintain himself. His position as fish warden gave him $20 a year, and he was able to perform his duties of seeing that salmon nets were properly placed by using a power boat. The loss of his legs was a serious thing for him.

Hon. Mr. Hazen said that there was no dismissal, but that Joliffe had been re-appointed when his legs were up. He said that when the government changed in 1896 the Liberals had dropped every fish warden, and Mr. Joliffe was one of those who had been replaced with their supporters.

Mr. MacDonald attacked Mr. Duchemin for holding investigations improperly. He said that a man named Currie had given evidence before Mr. Duchemin, and had been arrested for perjury at the instance of the man against whom he had given evidence. Mr. Currie had been set up as a defence that he had not committed perjury because he had not been properly sworn on the witness stand. Mr. Duchemin, called Mr. Currie to prove it. Mr. Duchemin testified that he had not made Currie hold up his right hand. The money for the defence of Currie was provided by the Conservative Association of Nova Scotia. Currie was found guilty and sent to the penitentiary. An appeal had been taken to the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia, and then to the Supreme Court of Canada, but the appeals failed to get the man out of the penitentiary.

John Steinhilf said that he was a member of the executive of the National Conservative Association of Nova Scotia, and declared that the organization had provided no funds for the defence of Currie or for the appeals.

Mr. MacDonald said that Currie had no money and that the funds had come from Conservative quarters.

Poachers Appointed Fish Wardens.

Mr. Carvell said that in his county two fish poachers had been appointed fish wardens, and that instead of protecting the fish, they were poaching in season and out.

Hon. Mr. Hazen said that the allegation was a serious one which he would have investigated and if it was found that the men were poachers in season, he would have them dismissed.

Mr. Kite asked if Mr. Hazen believed Conservatives had appointed as active partisans.

Mr. Hazen said he did not think a government official should take an active part in partisan politics.

Mr. Kite said that John A. MacDonald, port physician at St. Peter's, was secretary of the local Conservative organization.

Hon. Mr. Hazen said that he would have the matter investigated, and if he found the statement to be correct, he would require Mr. MacDonald to give up the secretaryship or the office he held under the department.

Several items were passed and the house adjourned.

No Change in Potato Embargo.

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—In the commons today, Pius Michaud asked if there was anything new regarding the embargo placed by the United States on Canadian potatoes.

Hon. Mr. Burrell said the embargo had not been modified in any way, as far as it regarded Canada.

Hon. Frank Oliver asked Hon. Robert Rogers if he could give the authority for a quotation he had read in the house a few days ago supposed to be from an interview given by Hon. Frank Oliver to the Montreal Star, in which he was quoted as saying that the participation of western officials in elections, and as read by Mr. Rogers was as follows:

"They have the power of speech and therefore they are entitled to express their political opinions. They are entitled to express their views, but they are entitled to express them under their control; they are entitled to go on the public platform and express

N.T.R. REPORT LIKELY TO PROVE A BOOMERANG

Senate Will Probe Investigators

Tory Commissioners Methods of Reaching Their Conclusions to Be Inquired Into—Didn't Call Important Witnesses—Findings Confirm the Fact That Road Is of a High Standard and Was Built as Authorized by Parliament.

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—The day after the presentation of the much-heralded National Transcontinental Investigating commission's report, finds little more than a ripple of interest among the members of either political party.

Conservative members are frankly disappointed, because of the fact that they had been led to expect so much from inspired articles which have been appearing in the government press during the past two months. The complete report, however, is a disappointment to those who had been led to expect so much from inspired articles which have been appearing in the government press during the past two months. The complete report, however, is a disappointment to those who had been led to expect so much from inspired articles which have been appearing in the government press during the past two months.

Liberals are not at all disturbed at the findings of the commissioners. They point out in the first place that the report is a purely partisan one, compiled with an eye toward political effect, and that the intention is to praise the report compiled at the expense of the dominant party and afterwards circulate it as a campaign literature.

Parliament Fixed Road's Standard.

"The $40,000,000 waste, alleged by the government in this big work," said a prominent Liberal this morning, "is based upon their own arbitrary computations. They might as well have made it $40,000,000 or $70,000,000 while they were at it. They have viewed the work from the immediate standpoint of the present, and not from that of future development or future needs. They have not taken into consideration that parliament fixed certain standards for this road on the following out of which the Canadian people were to have the best road in the world. The commissioners could not depart from this without the sanction of parliament."

"Messrs. Gutelius and Stanton have been considering the matter from the viewpoint of how cheaply a road could be built. You will notice that the largest portion of the items of so-called 'waste' are made up of a much lower standard of road than that contemplated by parliament and the people. They go out of their way to say that the New Brunswick section was not needed and should not have been built. The construction of this part of the road was settled as a matter of policy by parliament."

It is stated that the Liberal majority in the senate will undertake an investigation as to the methods employed by Commissioners Gutelius and Stanton in taking evidence and will call certain witnesses, who were not called before those commissioners.

Ridiculous Finding.

"The report of the commission on the question of the alleged waste has been been in the sub-letting of contracts," said another Liberal member, "seems to me to be quite ridiculous. There never was a railway built when contracts were sub-let. So long as the tenders are let in the first place to the lowest bidder, and so long as that man furnishes the securities for the work, and sees that the work is properly carried out, it is nobody's business what he makes from sub-letting."

"No big contractor would think of tendering for work on a basis of sub-letting to a profit of ten per cent. It is ridiculous to say that the eleven contractors made $5,000,000 clear profit simply by sub-letting contracts."

"It must be remembered that in tendering for these contracts the contractors in every instance had to compete with the Grand Trunk Pacific Company itself. Since that company will be called upon at a later date to pay interest upon the cost of construction it was to its advantage that tenders be let at as low a figure as possible. As a matter of fact, the government has not been able to get the work done in a few years, stuck to the idea that it was to be a 'four-tenths railway' upon which it would not be necessary for the engineers to get out to push the train up a hill every day."

"Half a million dollars were thrown away on heavy rails on slings and yard tracks." For a few years, at least, the lightest of steel would, of course, have done, but the additional expense for new rails later would have had to come.

The shops at Transcona costing nearly $5,000,000 were twice as big as needed. The harbor has been frozen for a long time, and the C. P. R. way on giron to compete seriously with the C. P. R.

Similarly, "no less than $5,000,000 could have been saved by the use of momentum grades."

"An amount close to $2,500,000 was lost through the unnecessary construction of long curves when it is thoroughly understood that if you run your train slow enough it can safely describe the letters 'U' and 'S'."

Then $300,000 was lost in the construction of engine houses, just as if an engine could not be left outside when it had finished its run.

This is a fair sample of the whole report.

NEWCASTLE CHURCH FREE OF DEBT

Newcastle, Feb. 18.—At a combined meeting of the Methodist trustees and quarterly boards last night, the church was declared free of debt, the last $100 of liability being paid off that day.

Assistance was guaranteed the Newcastle Hospital as soon as it is erected. Permission was granted the choir to secure and wear gowns.

ROGERS DOESN'T REMEMBER PROMISING McLEOD TWO FREDERICTON WHARVES

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—At the opening of the house, F. B. Carvell asked Hon. Robert Rogers regarding a statement made by Hon. H. F. McLeod, (York), as quoted in the Fredericton Gleaner, that the minister of public works had promised two concrete wharves for Fredericton. He pointed out that there is a bye-election pending in York county.

Hon. Mr. Rogers said his attention had just been drawn to it, and he had no recollection of the promise.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier enquired if it was possible that he might have made such a promise and have no recollection of it.

"I would not say that it is not possible," said the minister.

HORRIBLE AFTERMATH OF THE BALKAN WAR

Thousands Starving and Freezing in Thrace and Macedonia—American Missionary Writes of the Pitiful Cases of Many Made Homeless and Paupers By the Savage Warfare—Appeals for Aid.

A Washington despatch to the Boston Transcript says:

Conditions throughout Thrace and Macedonia are almost unbelievable, according to reports forwarded from American missionaries at Constantinople and unless immediate relief is afforded thousands will perish. After the second Balkan war the Turkish government began to send back to Thrace the Mohammedan villagers who had fled to Asia Minor from the cruelties of the Greeks. "Drive the Turk from Europe," they said before winter set in the Greeks began to send out of the district of Salonica the Turkish families who had fled into that region.

Troops of survivors of the trains described a year ago by war correspondents as "The Turk's Exit from Europe" have been crawling back into Thrace since the winter set in. The returning refugees found hundreds of villages missing. Few of the people have any money; their year of journeying has worn to rags their scanty clothing; they are literally starving and freezing. They are with no property whatsoever except what they could carry on their backs in their heavy flight. And what is this pathetic picture for all children? Babies crying for food and clothing. These are all people who had their own homes, some of them really comfortable ones, and now they are herded together in filthy, damp, and cold hovels. They are all people who had their own homes, some of them really comfortable ones, and now they are herded together in filthy, damp, and cold hovels. They are all people who had their own homes, some of them really comfortable ones, and now they are herded together in filthy, damp, and cold hovels.

The American Bible House has issued an urgent appeal for funds for the sufferers. Contributions may be sent to the American Constantinople Relief Committee, room 29, Bible House, Astor place, New York; or East River National Bank, New York; or to Hon. O. S. Sena, chairman of the committee, 5 West Seventy-sixth street, New York.

There are no expenses in forwarding this money and every dollar given will reach the Thracians.

Conditions at Salonica.

From Salonica comes a letter from an American missionary appealing most strongly for help in that section of Macedonia. His letter speaks for itself. "It is not one voice," he says, "but many, high and low, which call to you. 'Come over into Macedonia and help us.' And this right from the heart of Macedonia, the ancient Thessalonians. You all know that this city of Salonica has been one of the main apices of contention between the allies, and that it has ultimately been given to Greece. That you might suppose means that it has become unsuitable for all Christians. Yet crowds of Bulgarian people, mostly women and children, have come into the city from the neighboring towns and villages, which have all been laid in ashes in the preceding war. They are with no property whatsoever except what they could carry on their backs in their heavy flight. And what is this pathetic picture for all children? Babies crying for food and clothing. These are all people who had their own homes, some of them really comfortable ones, and now they are herded together in filthy, damp, and cold hovels. They are all people who had their own homes, some of them really comfortable ones, and now they are herded together in filthy, damp, and cold hovels.

Books could be filled with similar examples and the half not then be told. Shall we shut our eyes and ears to this misery? I have asked these unfortunate people to help me pray that the Lord will put it into the hearts of many to hold out a helping hand to those of their brothers and sisters who, through no fault of their own, are in the most abject misery. Barrels of clothing, especially warm underwear and shoes are needed, but most of all we appreciate money."

MAINTAINING WILLING TO TAKE LONG POST

"CAT AND MOUSE" ACT WORKS WELL

Only 48 Suffragettes Imprisoned Since It Was Put In Force

JAILED FULL BEFORE

Militants Say Their Recent Inactivity is a Lull Before the Storm—New British Battleships to Be Smaller and Slower—British Naval Manoeuvres to Be On a Big Scale.

London, Feb. 18.—Next to the home rule question the most absorbing problem faced by the present session of parliament concerns the attitude of the militant suffragettes. Supporters of the government declare that recent inactivity of the suffragettes indicates that the "cat and mouse" act has accomplished far more than its most sanguine defenders expected and that there is little to fear this year. On the other hand the militants declare that the prevailing quiet has only been a lull before the storm and that their apparent submission to the hated act was deliberately planned to give the "mice" an opportunity to recoup their forces for a campaign which will make all their former battles with the government seem comparatively insignificant.

According to figures supplied by the home office, only forty-eight suffragettes have been imprisoned in England and Wales since the "cat and mouse" act was passed nine months ago, as compared with 420 suffragette prisoners during 1913. At present writing only two suffragettes remain in prison. Six have completed their sentences or paid their fines, two have been discharged upon pledges of good behavior, and thirty-seven have been temporarily released in order to escape further punishment. The odd one is Sylvia Parkes, who was recently released and who has been recovering from the effects of her latest hunger strike.

If threats which the militants have made are carried out, however, the year will outrank any other for trouble to the suffragettes. The effort to reach the king at Buckingham Palace, announced as the first step of the programme proposed at the first meeting of the Women's Social and Political Union this year, is only one of the ways in which the women intend to keep their cause before the public. The militants claim that their treasury is empty, and that the women's day of a time by illness and prison bars, are again full of fighters ready for a long campaign. Never since the Women's Social and Political Union occupied its building on Kingsway has the place been as quiet as during the past few months, but it is said that much of the work of preparation for this year's campaign has been going on at the home of the members or other places so that Scotland Yard will have some difficulty in repeating its famous raid upon the women's headquarters.

With the recent lying down of the battleships Royal Sovereign and Devonport at Portsmouth and Devonport a departure was made by the British admiralty. These two ships, with three others, to be laid down at private yards this year, will be considerably smaller and slower than their immediate predecessors, and they will also be equipped with only as auxiliary fuel. This means a saving, both in the cost of construction and operation, but it is believed that the admiralty in making the decision was guided more by the opinion that battleships have grown beyond the most practicable size than they were by economy.

It is believed that the new ships will have a displacement of about 26,000 tons, thus being smaller than any battleships under construction, except those of France, which are about the same size. It would seem that France and England had an understanding in the matter, as all other countries are building ships of 20,000 tons and upwards. The new small vessels will have a speed of 21 knots, and they will mount eight, if not ten, 10-inch guns. The secondary armament will consist of 6-inch guns behind armor.

It will be imagined during the present month that Great Britain is at war and in danger of having supplies cut off. All the officers and blue-jackets of the home fleet will picture the great trade route of the North Atlantic ocean in jeopardy and all of the bigger warships will seem to be "for protection of British commerce." The forces will be under command of Admiral Sir George A. Callaghan on board the flagship Dreadnought. The ships are already being assembled off the coast of Spain in preparation for the manoeuvres, and an independent battle squadron is being dispatched to the Mediterranean.

Tory Wire-Pullers at Ottawa

Rogers Undecided About Taking It or Giving It to Borden

All Depends on Whether Hon. "Bob" Can Land the Premiership—Meantime Hazen, McBride, Graham, Beck and Lord Mount Stephen Are Mentioned for the High Commissionership.

Ottawa, Feb. 18.—The rival aspirations of distinguished Canadian patriots to serve their country and empire at London as Canadian high commissioner, is providing decidedly trying to Premier Borden's nerves.

The political patronage pot was never boiling more fiercely than at present. Each day brings its quota of political intrigue and a new embarrasment for the premier in trying to keep the peace between the warring factions.

The Premier Borden himself is said to be not indisposed to relinquish the constant worries of the cabinet leadership for a serene and distinguished position at London, is credited in many quarters. Not a few of the premier's own supporters are kindly disposed toward this suggestion. Even since he assumed the reins of office, Mr. Borden has not been free from the embarrasment and annoyance of the cabals within his party following that more than once forced him to the verge of resigning when he was leader of the opposition. There are many who would see Sir Charles Borden at the helm in name as well as in fact.

The arrival in Ottawa this week of Sir Charles Borden's private secretary, young Sir Charles Borden, would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell vacant. Besides, if the friends of Sir Charles Borden, who is considered to be "having something of his grip" in British Columbia, should make an eleven hour effort to secure the big post for the pleasure western provinces, it would not be averse to "being around" when the leadership fell