

The Staff.

The staff, owing to the limited number—four officers to seven hundred beds, with regimental duties extra—have very hard work at times. They no doubt feel they are machines rather than specially trained students for research, diagnosis and treatment. They are, however, always cheerful very popular medical officer here. Capt. Watters, a French Canadian M.O., and Capt. Hudson, a practitioner of 20 years' service in Michigan, who came overseas as a private, were both here for very short periods. Capt. Craig, from Saskatchewan Hospital, brightened the mess by a few weeks' attach-

Major-General Foster, C.B., C.A.M.C., and Brigadier-General Ross, C.B., C.M.G., C.A.M.C., honour Bear Wood.

and willing. Every medical teaching centre in Canada has been represented, and some of the Old Country and United States as well. Capt. Eaton, Capt. Brothers, and Capt. Goodchild all arrived here in the early days and all hailed from Winnipeg or near there. Capt. Moore arrived here soon after from near Toronto, followed by Major McDonald, from the Straits of Canso, Nova Scotia, and Capt. A. E. L. Thompson, from Queens, Kingston. Capt. Hay, from Warton, Ontario, and Capt. Briggs, from Victoria, B.C., were next to arrive. Capt. J. T. Lewis, from Hillsboro, N.B., was a ment here. Capt. Cowan, a young but promising practitioner from Galt, Ontario, was next medical officer to be attached to Bear Wood Medical Services. Capt. Rykert, M. P. P., Wentworth, Ontario, Capt. Palling, Registrar, Barrie, Ontario, and Capt. Dudley, ex-Mayor, Webbwood, Ontario, arrived fresh from Canada. Capt. Robertson, a recent graduate from Queen's University, arrived soon, to be followed by Capt. Ferris, a surgeon of Edmonton, Alberta. The two latest arrivals were Capt. J. R. Matheson, of Prince Edward Island, and Capt. C. L. B. Stammers, of Smith Falls, Ontario.