Canada Misrepresented Again.
We cannot imagine why the editor of the Detroit Weekly is so prome to make regular and most unwarranted natacks in his journal on the Canadian wing of the C. M. B. A. It is quite evident now that from Canadian comes none of the canadians into submission to the most extravagant departures of the American membership, or to make the connection so irksome that its continuity of the American membership or to make the connection so irksome that its continuity and the connection of the Grand Council of Canada, and in this production appears the following statement:

"We understand that at a recent meeting in Toronto of the Grand Trustees of Canada a resolution was adopted embodying the Toronto of the Grand Trustees of Canada a resolution was adopted embodying the Toronto of the Grand Trustees of Canada a resolution was adopted embodying the Toronto of the Grand Trustees of Canada a resolution was adopted embodying the Toronto of the Grand Trustees of Canada a resolution was adopted embodying the Toronto of the Grand Trustees of Canada a resolution was adopted embodying the Toronto of the Grand Trustees of Canada a resolution was adopted embodying the toronto of the Grand Trustees of Canada a resolution was adopted embodying the toronto of the Grand Trustees of Canada a resolution was adopted embodying the toronto of the Grand Trustees of Canada a resolution was adopted embodying the toronto of the Grand Trustees of Canada a resolution was adopted embodying the toronto of the Grand Trustees of Canada a resolution was adopted embodying the toronto of the Grand Trustees of Canada a resolution was adopted embodying the toronto of the Grand Trustees of Canada a resolution was adopted embodying the toronto of the Grand Trustees of Canada a resolution was adopted embodying the toronto of the Grand Trustees of Canada a resolution was adopted to the concept of the Canada and the process of the Canada

A very remarkable explanation and justification of the attempt to increase the Reserve fund appears in the same issue of the Weekly. Our friend states that in the year 1900 our membership will be very much greater, and that therefore the Reserve fund should be greater also. But when the year 1900 comes will it not be ample time to take the matter up? We are also told that the Legislature of New York State will not meet again until 1894, hence the auxiety of the executive to get the Bill passed during its present session. As it is admitted we have power under the common law to make the reserve fund even 3,000,000, at any time we may wish, why should there be such haste? And what justification is there for the statement of Brother Hynes, that "the Supreme Council will now go on and make the increase." Why was not the subject allowed to come up in the regular way at the Supreme Council meeting a few months hence? Is there in the air another trick, similar to the escapade concerning separate beneficiary, to have the subject debated at the Grand Council meetings, thus giving power to a majority of the Supreme Council to enact a law making the reserve fund limit $1,500,000? We shall see.

After the meeting light refreshments were served, and a couple of hours spent in songs, recitations, speeches, etc. The visiting delegates who arrived yesterday afternoon were driven to the principal places of interest about the city, and otherwise entertained. They expressed themselves as delighted with the hospitality shown them.

Archbishops Ryan and Walsh, are members of the association, and Archbishop O'Brien is thus the third clergyman holding such an eminent position to become a member. Many others are lending their assistance to the association, and would become members were they not beyond the age at which membership is limited.

The C. M. B. A. numbers nearly 40,000 on this continent, some 8,000 being in Canada. Each member is insured for 81,000 or $2,000, and there are many other benefits.

E. B. A.

The sixteenth annual convention of the Emerald Beneficial Association of Ontario was opened in the Council Chamber of the city of London, Ont., May 3, 1893, the following being fit all of our faith as well as our Brothers and their families, sociably, intellectually, morally and unaterially; and this we accomplish by meeting together in convention and branch meetings, teaching a common unity of purpose. The present convention promises to be the most important in the hi-tory of our association; and as representatives of the various branches you are met to not only confirm the good work of the past, but to make such provisions for the future as will put our association in the front rank of Catholic societies. As loyal sons of our holy Church and faithful members of the E.B.A., I am eafe in leaving these matters in your hands, asking but your kind indulgence for a few minutes whilst I enumerate two of them. Like our great Mother the Church, the E. B. A. is essentially practical, in the sense that it affords definite means by which the benefits it offers are to be obtained. But have we sufficient to meet the exigencies of the present time and the competition of other societies? Can we lay the fattering unction to our souls that we are offering greater inducements than sister societies to swell our membership with destrable applicants? I think not. That which the E. B. A. is in need of is the formation of a death benefit clause by which when the cold and clammy hand of death leaves his impress upon the bread winner, his family will not be dependent upon the charity of the world, or forced to ekeout a miserable existence by toil and labor, having nothing but privation for their lot and uncensing care their portion. This is a true picture and familiar to many of you here to day. To meet this want and to keep up with the benefering this inducement, we cannot but remain stagnant or take a recrograde movement. Another point I wish to bring before you is the necessity of having an organizer or organizers appointed—men who are fully competent and alive to bring the E. B. A. promiently forward, and whose duty would be to visit all branches at stated times, thus keeping the fire of emulation burnin amongst our members and not allowing the spark to die out for want of recognition or nourishment.

In conclusion, I cannot allow this opportunity to pass without thanking Brother Lane, your worthy Grand Secretary, for the assistance he has given me in all matters; and I am safe in saying that no organization has a more faithful, efficient and capable Secretary than has the Grand Branch of the Emerald Benedelal Association of Ontario. For myself I desire to thank you one and all for the many kindnesses experienced at your hand, more particularly as regards your brotherly expressions of sympathy with me in my recent bereavement.

And now, gentlemen and Brothers, I leave the good of our organization in your hands, convinced that in the future as in the past the great principles of faith, hope and charity-fundamental principles of Grand, Press of Ontario.

The report of the Secretary shows that from various causes the association has not made the progress it was expected, and that the various branches have suffered severely by sickness and death.

CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Gentlemen of the E. B. A. Convention, Assembled at London, Ont.:

GENTLEMEN—I desire here to record my testimony of the uniform good conduct of the bearer of this note, viz., D. A. Carey, Esq., Grand President. I have known him as a respected member of my parish for many years, who has been on several occasions an invaluable aid to me in my parochial enterprises, and besides a faithful ally on our Separate School Board. As regards his dealings with the association of which he is a wise and prudent officer he succeeds admirably in keeping them up to their Christian duty, and consequently he enjoys their confidence and esteem. On occasions when the rule requires all to receive holy Communion in a body, it is very encouraging to the pastor and edifying to the people to behold the large number of stalwart men that perform this holy duty. During my long acquaintance with the association I must confess that its members have given me a great measure of pleasures, from their readiness to comply with my desire, as well as from their obedience and docility. Moreover, they have never, as a body, given me any cause for pain or vexation. Therefore, I am happy to be able to report so favorably of them. Wishing you, gentlemen, every successin the business of the convention, I am, yours faithfully.

F. P. ROONEY, V. G. Strattord, May 2, 1822—Mess-rs. Kennelly and Hagarty, I cheerfully testify to the good Christian work of your society in Stratford parish. You have gathered into your ranks the French, German and Scotch element of my people, necessarily left out by the Hiberians on account of their constitution. Your society here has been the means of bringing many back to a sense of their religious obligations. I am proud of you thus far, and pray God to bless you. Live stricty up to your rules and constitution and you are safe.

The delegates attended the cathedral at 8.a. m. Wednesday, when the Holy Sacrifice was

SACRED MOMENTO OF CHRIST ON EARTH.

N. Y. Herald, May 5.

N. Y. Herald, May 5.

With more than wonted reverence the feet of the worshippers in the quaint little French Church of St. Jean Baptiste, No. 159 East Seventy-sixth street, tread the aisles this week.

In a gold-lined casket on the altar has lain each day since Monday from 6:30 to 10 a. m. the most sacred relic to Catholic eyes of the days when Christ walked the earth which ever reached America.

It is a large fragment of the arm of St. Ann, mother of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Mother of Jesus. For many centuries it has been guarded more jealously than were ever guarded more jealously than were ever guarded royal jewels or kingly crowns by the Benedictine monks at Rome in the great Basilica of St. Paul's outside the walls. Now, by special request of His Holiness the Pope, a portion of it is sent to increase the faith and devotion of all members of the Church in the deepest feelings of piety and joy, is brought to America through the efforts of the Cardinal-Archbishop of Quebec and the Right Rev. Mgr. Marquis, Prothonotary Apostolic, one of Quebec's most patriotic and distinguished prelates. It is to be kept at the Church of St. Anne de Beaupre, on the St. Lawrence River.

Mgr. Marquis reached this city on Sunday last bearing the relic. For a short time he proposed being the guest of the Rev. Father Tetreau, pastor of the Church of St. Jean Baptiste, at the pastoral residence just around the corner of the church, No. 1801 Lexington

THOUSANDS VIEW IT.

THOUSANDS VIEW IT.

Father Tetreau pleaded with Mgr. Marquis to allow him to expose the sacred object in his little church during certain hours of the day as long as he remained here. He consented, with the permission of Mgr. Farley, Vicar-General of the diocese, and every morning at 6:30 the extraordinary relic is exposed to view and is on exhibition until 10 o'clock.

It can be seen and touched by all the Catholics of this city who desire an opportunity to gaze on what they must all regard as being so near the person of the Incarnate God. Also can it be seen on Monday up to the hour of noon, and Monday night the distinguished divine and his companions will resume their homeward journey to place the fragment of the arm of St. Ann in the beautiful church on the St. Lawrence which bears her name and over which she is believed to have exerted her blessed influence in many remarkable ways.

The news that the relic was at the Church of St. John the Baptist has spread all through that portion of the city in which it is situated. Thousands have already seen it, and as each day passes the number who crowd the little church during the hours the doors are opened constantly increases.

KIDD-McGREGOR.

The most fashionable wedding of this season took place at St. Peter's church, Goderich, Monday, May 2nd. The church was crowded with friends and guests who witnessed the nuptial ceremony. It was the marriage of Mary E. McGregor, daughter of Captein A. M. McGregor, to Geo. A. Kidd, of Omaha, Neb., son of Thomas Kidd, of Seaforth, Ont. Miss McIntosh, of Detroit, was maid of honor, while Mr. Kidd was ably supported by Dr. McKay, of Seaforth, as groomsman. The bride was given away by her father, and was beautifully attired in ashes of roses broadcloth, with hat to match, and wore a pendant of diamonds and pearls, the gift of the groom. She carried a beautiful bouquet of bridal roses. The maid of honor wore a very pretty costume of grey Bedford cord and gold lover's knot peri, the citt of the groom. She carried a large bouquet of "La France" roses. As the bridal party entered the church the organ peaded forth the wedding march in Joyous strahs. They were met at the altar rails by Rev. Father Boubat, who performed the marriage ceremony, assisted by Rev. Father West, parish priest. During the Mass Miss Downey, of Seaforth, sang an "Aea Marie" in her usual sweet and accomplished style. Miss McCormac onlowed with a solo. Miss Cook presided at the organ. A reception was held at the house of the bride being proposed by Father Boubat and responded to by the groomsman; the brides and responded to by The Nos. Kidd and responded to by Dr. McKay. David Kelly, Dumer.

David Kelly, Dumer.

It is with deep regret I announce the death of David, son of David Kelly, of the township of Dumer, which occurred on Friday, the 29th of April, at the age of fourteen years. Death resulted from an accident with a pitchfolk, which was run into his face ten days previously. He was a pupil of the Norwood High School and was also one of the sanctuary boys of St. Paul's church here. He was a good and dutiful boy and was beloved by all. Rev. Father Conway preached a very eloquent sermon at his funeral on Monday, May 2, stating that this was the first break by death in his sanctuary boys of st. choir since he came here. The good priest felt as a parent would feel at losing a good child, but knew that David had left a wicked world before in reality knowing its wickedness. It was his stather's intention to have sent him to college to study for the priesthood, but God ordained otherwise.

Mrs. John S. Driscoll, Gurd. Mrs. John S. Driscoll, an aunt of the above deceased, died in the township of Gurd, District of Parry Sound, last week. Her body came by G. I. R. R. to Hastings on Saturday, April 33, and was buried in Asphodel cemetery near her relatives just two days before her nephew was interred in the same cemetery. May the Lord have mercy on their souls!
