CAME NEAR DYING

From an Awful Skin Humour. Scratched Till Blood Ran. Wasted to Skeleton.

CURED BY CUTICURA

One Application Soothed Him to Sleep. Cure Speedy and Permanent.

as When my little boy was about three months old his head broke out with a rash, which was very itchy and ran considerable watery fluid. We tried everything we could, but he got worse all the time till it spread to his arms, legs, and then to his entire body, and he got so bad that he came near dying. The rash would itch so that he would scratch till the blood ran, and a thin yellowish stuff would be all over his pillow in the morning. I had to put mittens on his hands to keep him from tearing his skin around his wrists. He got so weak and run fing. I had to put mittens on his hands to keep him from tearing his skin around his wrists. He got so weak and run down that he took fainting spells like we would think him dying. He was almost a skeleton and his little hands were thin like claws.

"He was bad about eight months when we tried Cuticura Bemedies. I had not laid him down in his cradle in the daytime for a long time. He had got so that he just slept in our arms all the time. I washed him with Cuticura Soap and put on one application of Cuticura Ointment and he was so soothed that I put him in the cradle. You don't know how glad I felt when he felt better. It took one box of Cuticura Ointment, pretty near one cake of Cutiset better. It took one box of Cuticura Ointment, pretty near one cake of Cuticura Soap, and about half a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent, to cure. I think our little boy would have died only for the Cuticura Remedies, and I shall always remain a firm friend of them."

STORM NOT FOR US.

Nine Inches of Snow Reported From New Brunswick, New York and Penusylvania...Terrible Havoe to the Wires.

Toronto, Nov. 15 .- The big storm which began Sunday in Florida and swept up the New England States will not be felt here, says the weather man. Instead it is by this time heading across the Atlantic or spreading itself in the vicinity of Newfoundland. Having traveled with great rapidity northward, it was yesterday raging over the Maritime Provinces.

Such storms as this generally travel along the Gulf stream, which follows the eastern coast till it reaches the Bay of Fundy, where it branches and crosses the Atlantic in the direction of the British Isles.

Nine Inches of Snow.

The storm took the proportions of almost a hurricane, accompanied by snow and rain, and yesterday was at snow and rain, and yesterday was at its height. About nine inches of snow has been reported from New Brunswick, New York and Pennsylvania. As far west as Erie on Lake Erie heavy snow falls took place and there was a light fall in the high lands of Bruce and Huron Counties. The local effect was evidenced in the strong northerly gale. In the Northwest Territories the barometer is low and they are enjoying mild weather. and they are enjoying mild weather, which will likely prevail in Ontario

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Albany, has never had a worse demoralization of wire communication than that which isolated it yesterday, as a result of Sunday night's storm. For nearly 24 hours neither by telegraph ner telephone was communication possible, with any point further than Cohoes, eight miles outside the city. Wires are down all over the city.

Wires Weighed Down.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Nov. 15.—The worst wire conditions ever known in this city resulted from the storm of Sunday night. Beginning with rain the downpour turned into snow and the wires were soon weighted down, causing the poles and wires to fall all over the city and in the country. The trunk lines of the Postal, Western Union Telegraph and the Long Distance Telephone Co. are all down, Distance Telegraph and the Long Distance Telephone Co. are all down, with the exception of one Western Union wire which was used all night, to despatch New York Central trains, the movement of which was but the movement of which was but slightly delayed by the storm. The streets are full of live wires and dur-ing the night Mayor Hime ordered all power shut off so that the city was in darkness and the trolley cars were running yesterday, but all lines of communication were still crippled. Similar conditions are reported throughout the State.

were stalled. Policemen warned citizens to keep off the streets and liverymen refused to send out cabs.
Linemen worked all night, and cars

New York, Nov. 15 .- The wind all Sunday afternoon played havoc with passengers who got on and off the trolley cars at Broadway and Seventh avenue. The vortex of a whirlwind seemed to have its abidwhirlwind seemed to have its abiding place there, and it did stunts to women's clothing that the Flatiron breeze never dreamed of doing. It blew Miss Emily Trevelyan of Boston, right down in a mud puddle and scratched her face badly. She was just stepping off a Seventh avenue car when the wind caught her. She fell on the tracks behind the car. Her head hit the pavement and she was unconscious for a few minutes. She was carried to a nearby drug store and revived.

"Trusties" Lest in Sterm

Three prisoners from among several hundred confined on an island in the East River for petty offences are thought to have lost their lives in Sunday's storm. They were "trusties" and had rowed a party of visitors back to the city. In the face of the storm the men started back to the island, but their boat was caught in the high seas which swept them out of sight.

Foot of Snow Falls.

York, Pa., Nov. 15.—Nearly twelve inches of snow fell here Sunday. The heavy weight of the snow broke down electric wires all over the city, and both power plants here compelled to close to protect life and property.

Driven Insane By Weather.

New York, Nov. 15 .- Twelve patients had been committed Sunday to the psychopathic ward in Bellevue Hospital up to 10 o'clock p.m. for examination as to their sanity. Dr. Menas Gregory, the chief alienist, is of the opinion that the weather is responsible for the increase in this class of patents, which he says is unpre-

Whale Blown Ashore. Boston Nov. 15.-Few marine disasters have been reported. So far as is known last night only two vessels were wrecked and no lives were lost. At Pennellville, Me., a whale, 80 feet long, was blown ashore. Unable to get back into deep water the great creature lay helpless on the beach, and a bullet from a hunter's rifle ended its life.

Fire At Parry Sound.

Parry Sound, Nov. 15.—Fire broke out in the upper storey of the rear building of the Parry Sound Hospi-tal at 11.30 yesterday, and had tal at 11.30 yesterday, and had made rapid headway upstairs before being discovered. The fire did consid-erable damage. All the patients were removed to neighboring houses, and most of the furniture and instruments got out of the building.

OLD QUEFTO.

ors, no matter how frequent the calls. Despite all the modern innovations of trolley cars, winding in and around the sixteenth century structures, despite the tearing down of antique gateways and historic streets, antique gateways and historic streets, the grand old Rock City has not lost her charm of antiquity and remanze. The past still speaks even though the voices of the present are more clamorous, and the atmosphere created by its three centuries of life yet envelops her ancient ramparts and dormer-windowed roofs.

A calache visit was made to the

A calache visit was made to the three great fortifications erected on the Levis side of the St. Lawrence shortly after the Trent Affair of the sixties. Though not completed in the sixties. Though not completed in the sense of being mounted with modern guns, the earthworks and walls, the moats and drawbridges give a decidedly warlike appearance to an otherwise peaceful and rural scene. An effort to view the interior of the central fortifications was, however, thwarted by a lonely sentry, who tersely invited me and my camera to keep outside—which I did, says Frank Yeigh in The Globe.

Driving along the St. Louis road to Sillery, a final snapshot was had of one of the old martello towers, the demolition of which was to begin the next day to make room for a hospi-demolition of which was to begin the next day to make room for a hospital extension. Thus the historic landmarks are disappearing, as have the original city gates, the cornerstones of which are set up in the grounds of Sir James Lemoins. A call on the distinguished litterateur at his charming home of Spencer Grange was of special interest. Ideally situated is Scencer Grange on the hand. ated is Spencer Grange on the banks of the St. Lawrence, and the old-fashioned house is an ideal retreat, in its libraries and living rooms, for such a diligent student as Sir James has long been. One was delighted to find him so hale and hearty, nor was it surprising to discover in him an affable and kindly host. Then to listen as he talked of the French Canada he so dearly loves and which he knows so well, or to have him show his historic and art treasures, was in itself a delightful privilege.

Anchored near the Champlain market in the lower town of Quebec lies the Arctic. It was something of an expedition in itself to reach the boat from the Pufferin Promenade, and through Little Champlain street, but such a diligent student as Sir James through Little Champlain street, but once the gangway was crossed, Captain Bernier, the sturdy navigator, welcomed the visitor and acted as guide through what will be the floating home for the next three years of thirty or forty souls. It was a good chance to see how a Polar-bound ves-sel is built and equipped. Several fresh water tanks occupy the main deck, duplicate musts, spars and sails are tucked away in odd corners; indeed, there is not a corner on the craft, odd or otherwise, but has something tucked away therein.

The storing-away process of supplies was a lesson in the economy of space. Below decks are the cosy if gramped quarters, with a pianp in the main saloon, donated by a To-ronte firm. Each member of the ex-pedition, other than the crew, will have a stateroom to himself, which will be a chamber, study and library combined. Several stoves are scatterod throughout the vessel, and every provision seems to have been made for the long and perilous journey that lies ahead of the Arctic. Its that lies ahead of the Arctic. Its captain has as abiding a faith in the ability of his boat to withstand ice pressure, with its wooden hull and sides three and a half feet thick, as he has in his theory of reaching the mysterious pole. The Arctic will shortly sail for Hudson Bay, to relieve the Neptune which has just recently returned to the St. Lawrence. It will convey to aur great Canadian. It will convey to our great Canadian sea a detachment of Mounted Police, who will open up a new station on twenty-five mile race in a field of about one hundred entries, which was certainly a wonderful feat of endurance very creditable to the performer, and to his native city.

Mr. Hicks has made his home in this city and vicinity for the past few years, but during the past summer when he was training for the great race he resided at Penniac. His brother James was employed at Marysville, and used to assist his brother in training by riding along with him on his bicycle and beeping a watch on him. The world's champion did all his training on the road between Penniac and Marysville, and would run about fifteen miles every second evening to keep in condition. He was most persevering in his exercise and diet, which probably was the means of winning the world's championship and distinction for his native province. Mr. Hicks had another brother who was employed at Marysville, but is now residing at Boston. The champion did all his training with the view of competing in the great race at St. Louis, and he was always' confident that he could win the event. His friends will be glad to hear of his splendid saccess.—Fredericton, N. B., Gleaner.
