Middleweight Title Will Be at Stake When Wilson Meets O'Dowd Tonight

Tex Rickard to Stage Another of His Series of Championship Bouts at Madison Square Garden, New York, Tonight—Boston Fans Ready to Back Title Holder to the Limit to Win.

[By Dan Saunders in the Boston Globe.] Will middleweight champion Johnny Wilson retain his title when he meets ex-champion Mike O'Dowd in New York Thursday night is the pugilistic question discussed by the fans of the country. When Wilson took the title away from O'Dowd in this city last May, O'Dowd and his friends yelled "robbery."

However, the majority of the fans who saw the bout agreed with the referee's decision. It has taken months to get them together again so as to have the mooted question settled. Wilson had the misfortune to have a nose injured, and the bouts he had after he fought O'Dowd caused New York sports to call him a "chance champion."

When Wilson's nose healed, he went after O'Dowd, but the latter showed such reluctance to make the match that the fans switched and declared O'Dowd knew Wilson could defeat him and did not want to have another try against him. It took Tex Rickard's talk and bank roll to arrange the bout, which will cost him alone $80,000.

Wilson gets $40,000 of the amount and O'Dowd the balance.

The three preliminaries that will be staged previous to that bout will cost him at least $8,000 more and then his overhead expenses is another big item. The show venture is going to be a very costly one, but Rickard will at that be a winner. It will also help him out on his ambition.

He wants to shine as the promoter of world's championship battles in every class. He already has held four of them and the one Thursday night will be the fifth. All that will remain will be the featherweights and he is going to have a tougher job arranging that bout than he did the one this week. Champion Kilbane wants only a no-decision bout.

Good Chance in New York.
Many of the fans figure that Wilson is taking a chance boxing in New York where O'Dowd is so popular, evidently forgetting that Wilson is a native of New York, who O'Dowd is not, and Wilson has a great following over there. With the boxing Commissioners supporting the officials to judge the bout, there is little danger of Wilson getting the worst of it from the officials.

That the New Yorkers have changed their minds regarding the ability of both fighters is evident from the fact that the betting in that city is now 7 to 5 with Wilson the favorite. In Boston there are few bets offered as to who will be the winner. The most of the betting is on a knock-out and O'Dowd's friends are giving good odds that Wilson does not stop the ex-champion.

Wilson will go against O'Dowd this time with less nervousness than he did at their first meeting. Wilson shows his confidence of winning when he says: "There may be some boxers who can't defeat me, but I have O'Dowd's number and can defeat him every time we get in the ring."

O'Dowd's Reason for Reluctance.
It seems that the reason that O'Dowd was so backward in accepting Wilson's challenge when the latter went after him some months ago was that he was not right in a battle with so tough an opponent. He has been training only he did not get out with Matty Kilbane, manager of Wilson.

Kilbane was tipped what O'Dowd was doing and he has had Wilson training so that O'Dowd will have nothing on Wilson as regards condition when they step in the ring.

Owing to the feeling that exists between the pair the battle will be one of the most vicious held in New York. Nothing but a knockout will satisfy O'Dowd, and he feels sure he is going to gain his wish. Wilson feels that in any way he will finish O'Dowd.

As the Boston fans know, O'Dowd is a rushing fighter who uses both hands fast and he can hit hard with both. He is a great body fighter, but he has won many fights by landing his right on the jaw. Wilson is lively on his feet and can make a rushing fighter do a lot of misting. Being a soupbaw battler he will bother O'Dowd.

Has a Husky Wallop.
Wilson is a good jabber with both hands and has a husky wallop with the left. O'Dowd knows that, for he floored O'Dowd with it when they fought before. Wilson shifts that punch often from the stomach to the jaw and face, and it takes a clever boxer to outguess him.

O'Dowd in condition can stand a lot of thumps and give back a lot, and it is a question who has the most steam behind their blows.

Wilson has taken good care of himself since he took the title away from O'Dowd, but O'Dowd had not up to the time he started getting ready for this week's battle.

Wilson has also improved a great deal, and O'Dowd will find him a different fighter than he was that night in May when he was uncrowned here by Wilson. The bout has created great interest all over the country, particularly in New York and Boston.

A large number of the Boston fans plan to go to the battle in special trains. These fans will be prepared to take any money offered by the O'Dowd admirers.

A Ticklish Point

There is a trifling disadvantage to daily newspaper advertising which those who sell other forms of publicity use for all it is worth, and trust that the prospect will not reason too far to refute it.

That is: the absence of color. They point to certain other forms of advertising and say: "Look, you can show your product big and in color so that he who runs may read."

That's good selling argument from their point of view. But stay! Is the running reader apt to gather the impression which the advertiser intends? May not the impression be too cursory? Will it be seen at all? The fact is that the daily newspaper is the Great Intimate Human Medium.

Insofar as the woman in the Home is concerned, it is her only point of contact with what is going on in the outside world. From the birth of a neighbor's baby to the marriage of a King's daughter it is her news mentor—the loom that weaves for her the knowledge of what is going on. You know yourself when you are away from home how much it gladdens your heart to get a sight of your local paper. Do you read it—you do! Well, just what your newspaper means to you, other persons' newspapers mean to them.

If every paper in this country published a ten-line display advertising paragraph reflecting upon your integrity, do you think you could offset it by using all the billboards, street cars and circular advertising available? Get the point?

The world could get along without billboards, street cars, cards, booklets, circulars and a thousand and one other forms of publicity but it could not get along without its daily newspapers.

This is the Time of Times for concentration upon Daily Newspaper Advertising. Daily Newspaper Advertising is the most powerful vehicle of publicity yet given to the use of man. It is the Alpha and Omega, the Beginning and the End of all successful advertising.

Advice as to the best ways and means of doing Newspaper Advertising will be given to those who inquire of us; or, consult any recognized advertising agency—a list supplied on request.
