PATIETIC.—Some poet who evidently thinks 'our wrongs into-lerable'—probably himself the unfortunate husband of a bloomer— comes out in the 'Carpet Bag' in'a dozen stanzas of profound grief, most eloquently done into rhyme. The following is his des-cription of the gradual eheroachment of womankind on the territo-ries of partaloons. He says:

They took our hats—at first we hardly missed them—
And then they aped our dickeys-and cravats;
They stole our sacks—we only laughed and kissed them,
Emboldened then they wore our very hats;
Until, by slow degrees, the witches,
Have taken all, our coats, hats, boots and breeches.

Varieties.

Some years ago, there lived in the neighborhood of Paris a retired military officer of high rank and large fortune. Possessed of many qualities—brave, just and honorable, there were two sand-drawbacks to his character—he was violent tempered and avaricious. He married a beautiful and gentle girl, whom he fondly loved, but who, nevertheless, often sought her chamber, weeping bitterly at the harsh and unjust reproaches which her hasband heaped on her whon the merest trifle had excited his ungovernable temper. Often, indeed, she f-ft terrified lest his violence should be more than verbal; and althouth his fits of rage were generally followed by penitent apologies, she trembled at the thought that he might some day forget himself so far as to strike her.

trembled at the thought that he might some day forget himself no far as to strike her.

It was very sad to see the happiness of a union formed under the most promising anspices thus destroyed by bratal and unmeaning his of rage, which each day became more frequent. It required all the young wife's tenderness and fidelity to sustain her beneath the constant grief and terror which she felt. One day when the husband, in the presence of several visitors, had given way-to a more than usually outrageous explosion of temper he retired to his own apartment, whither he was followed by one of his friends—a true friend who never shrunk from administering a just reproof. Without regarding the officer's anger, the dying embers of which still glowed fiercely, this friend satnestly and severely lectured him for his unjust conduct. The culpric listened with a gloomy air, and then replied:

'Your reproaches are perfectly just. I condemn my own conduct far more strongly than you can do, and I make many resolutions of amendment without avail. My unhappy temper is too strong for me; and constantly in a few hours after the bitterest repentance. I find myself again breaking out.

'Its terrible.'

Tis terrible.?

'It is indeed very terrible.?

'It is indeed very terrible.?

'It is indeed very terrible.?

'It have need of a strong lesson and I shall give myself one.? He took several turns up and down the room, pacing with a determined step, his segs bent on the ground, and his lips firmly closed. Evidently some internal conflict was going on. Suddenly he stopped, opened a casket which lay in his scrutoire. and took from it a bank note of a thousand france. His friend watched him with curiosity, not knowing what he was about to do. He twisted the bank note, applied one end of it to the lighted taper, and then throwing it on the hearthstone, watched ustil the curling flame had devoured it.

Illis friend amszed at an action which would seem strange for any one, but especially for one whose, parsimony was notothous, ran to him and caught his arm.

Let me alone, 'said the officer in a hoarse voice.

'Are you mad?'

No.'

Do you know what you have inst done?'

I approve of your sacrifice,' said his friend.

The promise was faithfully kept. From that time the avaricious man paid for the faults and failings of the ill-tempered husband.

After every outbreak, he appeared before his own tribunal, and submitted to its self-imposed penalty. The condemned sculprit then opened-his casket, and pale and trembling with suppressed agitation, look out a note and burned it. The explains was always in proportion to the clime, there is a regular scale of penalties, varying according to the nature of the offence, from 100 to 1000 france.

A few of these chastisements had the happiest effect on both the defective phases of our here's character. By degrees he became not only mild and good-tempered, but ready to depense his treasures to ways which, if more agreeable to his friends, could not, however, he esteemed more useful to himself than the notes which he had consigned to the flames.

Old Dr. Cooper, of South Carolina, President of her University, med to say to his students, "Don't be afraid of a little dirt, young gentlemen. What is dirt? Why, nothing at all offensive, when chemically viewed. Rub a little alkali upon that 'dirty grease spot' on your coat, and it undergoes a chemical change, and becomes soap. Now rub it with a little water, and it disappears; it is nother grease, seap, water nor dirt. That is an odcross pile of, dirt you observe there. Well, scatter a little gypsum over; it, and it is no longer dirty. Everything you call dirt is worthy of your notice as students of chemistry. Analyze it! It will all separate into very clean elements. Dirt makes corn, corn makes bread and ment, and that makes a very sweet young lady, that I saw one of you kissing last night. So, after all, you were kissing a dirt.—particularly if she whitens her skin with chalker faller's earth. There is no telling, young gentlemen, what is dirt."

SLEEPY.—A writer says that women require more sleep than en, and farmers less than those engaged in almost any other ocpation. Editors reporters, and dectors need no sleep at all. Lawrar can sleep as long as they please, and thus keep out of mischief. lergymen can sleep twelve hours out of twenty-four, and cân put eir parish to sleep once a week.

PATENT ARTHIPROHAL SEATING And Unchangeable Metallic Paints; PROOF AGAINST FIRE & WATER!

Manufactured by the Palestee, in Colchester, Nova Scotia.

The Artificial, SLATE is the product of a mixture of mineral substances known to be the best non-conductors of heat as well as the most indestructible the Chemical affinity of which converts the surface of materials covered, into a Cooling of Metual Slate—Froof against FIRE and WATEE. Thus the laws of nature are made to accomplish results as surprising as they are useful, by rendering Woodon fabrics as durable as brick or Stone, and less pervious to mostare, and consequently preventing decay and destruction from corroding influences hitherto supposed unattainable.

The principal ingredients are Alumian. Silien and the Coldman.

and less pervious to mosture, and consequently preventing decay and dearraction from corroding influences hitherto supposed unattainable.

The principal ingredients are Alumins, Silien and the Oxides of Iron. The adhesive quality of the latter not only binds and attracts the particles together, but the substance covered also. The longer exposed to the weather the more powelful the attraction, and consequently the harder the State. As various shades of colour are obtained, Brick buildings may be used impervious to moisture, and the fashionable colours of either Free Stone or Granite. The oil must be exporated by the action of the weather before it is Fire proof, which will take from nime to twelve months.

The METALLIC PAINTS, Purple and Red, are offered as Weather and Water Proof solely. Their base being Iron, secures them from Galvanic action so fatal to lead and other Paints on Irod work—and their chemical combination makes it impossible; that any change should take place from atmospheric influence or the action of Salt Water and Sulphareted hydrogen so prevalent in Sen Ports and Tidal Harbours. They surpass all Paints yet discovered in Cheppaess and Darability, which render them pre-eminently adapted to the covering of all kinds of Iron work, such as Shipping, Mith. Bridges, Steam Machinery, Railway Care, and Iron Railies. The METALLIC PAINTS have been analysed by Professor Haya of Boston. The following is an extract from his Certificate:—"Am a perunanent pigment, this mineral must rank with the offest indestructible and unchangeable bases. For covering Metallic Ware, iff capposition shows that it is eminently fitted.

(Signed) AUGT. A. HAYS, State Assayer."

Directions.—Artificial Slate. Mix the powder with pure Boiled Linseed Oil and a little Spirita Turpentine to the consistency of very thick Paint, and apply with a common Brash, being careful to keep the mixture well stirred while putting it on. One pound will cover ten square feet with two Coats.

If Shingles have been on for years, it will be necessary water.

The METALLIC PAINTS are mixed and put on like an ordinary paint.

DEAR SIR,—Please send us two more barrels of your Artificial State. We have seen some of the good effects of it at the last fire. Some of the Roofs covered with it did not eatch at all, and when the walls were burnt some of the roofs came down in one piece, and others were the means of saving the building, especially one roof alongside of the Bank B. N. A., which also was one means of saving the Bank.

From its adhesive qualities and the manner it covers the wood, I

Ross' METALLIC PAINTS.—We have already called public attention to the high estimation in which the Metallic Paints, manufactured by John Ross, Esq., Truro, are held by those who have had occasion to use them. Certificates of a highly satisfactory character in praise of these articles of Provincial manufacture appear elsewhere, in this issue, and from information afforded by parties who have similarly applied them, we can safely endorse the opinions therein contained.—Halifax Sun.

CURE OF A DISORDERED LIVER AND STOMACH, WHEN

IN A MOST HOPELESS STATE.

Extract of a Letter from Mr. Matthew Harvey, of Chapel Hall-Airdrie, Scotland, deted the 18th January, 1850.

To Professor Holloway:
Sin.—Your valuable Pills have been the means, with God's blessing of restoring me to a state of perfect leadth, and at a time when I thought I was on the brink of the grave. I had consulted several emissent bectors, who, after doing what they could for me, stated that they considered my case as hapeless. I ought to say that I had been suffering from a Liver and Stomach complaint of long standing, which during the last two years got so much worse, that every one considered my condition as hopeless. I as a last resource got a Box of your Pills, which soon gave relief, and by persevering in their use for some weeks, together with rubbing night and morning your Ointment over my chest and stomach and right side, I have by their means along got completely cared, and to the astonishment of myself and every hody who knows me.
