The Herd Laddie's Lament for his Whittle.

BY ROBERT LEIGHTON, DUNDEE.

My Whittle's lost! Yes, I dinna ken;
Bell's ripe—bet's ripe my pouch again.
Ha! That's turn'd ower a' that's in'd,
But ne'er Whittle can I find:—
A wee bit cauk, and a bit red keel—
The clamp I twisted aff my heel—
A bit auld shoe, to mak' a sling—
A peerie, and a peerie-string—
The big auld button that I fand
When crossin' through the fallow land—
A bit lead, and a pickle thrums—
And, last of a', some ait-cake crumbs.

Yet aye, I turn them owre and owre,
Thinkin' I'd been mista'en before;
And aye my hand, wi' instinctive ettle,
Oangs to my pouch to seek my Whittle.

I dot it's lost!—how, whar, and whan,
Is mair than I can understan':—
Whether it jump out o' my pouch
That time I loupit owre the ditch—
Or whether I didna tak' it up
When I cut a handle for my whup—
Or put it in at the wrang slit,
And it fell through, doun at my fit,
But mony a gate I've been since then,
Owre hill and hallow, muir and fen,
Outside, inside, and butt and ben;
I dout I'll never see't again.

Made o' the very best o' metal,
I thocht richt muckle o' my Whittle!
It aye cam' in to be o' use,
Whether out-by or in the house,—
For slicin' neeps, or whangs o' cheese,
Or cuttin oot my name on trees;
To whyte a stick, or cut a sting,
To mak' windmills, or onything—
Wi' it I was richt whare'r I gaed,
And a' was wrang when I didn a had;
I ken na hoo I'll do without it;
And, faith, I'm michty ill about it!
I micht as weel live wantin' vittle
As try to live without my Whittle.

Yon birkies scamperin' doon the road—
I'd like to join the joysome crowd;
The very sir rings wi' their daffin'.
Their rollickin' balloin', lanchin!
Flee on, my lads, I'll bide my lane;
My heart hings heavy as a'stane;
My feet seem tied to nae anither;
I'm clean dune doited a' thegether,
Hear how they rant, an' roar, an' rattle!
Lake me, they hinna lost a Whittle.

It was the only thing o' worth
That I could ca' my ain on earth;
And aft I wad admirin' stand,
Haudin' the Whittle in my hand;
Breathin' upon its slimy blade
To see how quick the breath wad fade;
And weel I kent it wad reveal
The blade to be o' richt' guid steel.

Puir Whittle! whar will ye be now?
In wood? on lee? on hill? in howe?
Lyin' a' cover'd owre wi' grass?
Or sunkit' doun in some morass?
Or may ye be already fund,
And in some ither body's hand?
Or will ye lie, till, rusted o'er,
Ye look like dug-up dirks of yore?—
When wer'e a' dead, and sound eneuch,
Ye may be turned up by the pleuch!
Or fund i' the middle o' a peat,
And sent to Edinburgh in state!
There to be shown—a wondrous sicht—
The Jocteleg o' Wallace Wicht!

Thus a' the comfort I can bring
Frae thee, thou lost, lamented thing!
Is to believe that oh a board,
Wi' broken spear, an' dirk, and sword,
And sheild, and helm, and ancient kettle,
May some day lie my rusty Whittle.

—The Providence Journal (Republican regrets the personalities in Mr. Johnson's speech, but adds: "All of us approve most of the sentiments which are expressed."

—Dr. Jayne, the "medicine man" of Philadelphia, is a living proof of the virtues of printer's ink. He expends annually $150,000 in advertising his medicines.

The export tax on cotton cannot be levied, as the Constitution is against it, and there is no chance for an amendment whereby the proposed tax could be secured. The committee will therefore have to lay the burden on manufactured goods, to which, it is presumed, the trade will not seriously object especially as they will have a drawback on all the fabrics used at home.

Sable Enterprise.

A Boston journal describes a negro paper called the Black Republican and Office holder's Journal. Pluto Jumbo is editor and proprietor, and it bears as its motto:—"God and the negro are our only hope."—H. W. Beecher. The prospectus is set forth in the following notice:—All dem dat scribes to dis here paper will have a portrait of de editor thrown in. Dey can take it if dey pays in advance. Tickler attention paid to white advertisments, which am charged double price, and hot corn for sale in the basement. Nossin to do with the paper till it had been inspected by the Loyal League. Contempories of the press are cautioned in the following language against stealing the thunder of the Black Republican:—Ds dis paper am de organ of Wandle Plip, darfore all de orations ob da gentleman will pear in dese columns, and dem dat takes em out and puts dem in dar own paper will be pussecut ob cordin to law.' An advertisment appears for a boy to keep flies ob de editor's bell, and a white boy to do de dirty work ob de office.

A Relic of the Past.

The Telegraph has been shown quite a curiosity in the shape of a relic of the times when the township of Waterloo was first settled, we refer to an old Deed of Conveyance made in 1805, by Richard Beasley and wife to Jacob Erb and Daniel Erb, trustees of the German Company. The instrument handed over to this company sixty thousand acres of land, which is still known as the "German Company Tract." It is a large sheet of sheepskin not much less than a yard square, and written in plain and legible characters throughout. It will seem a little curious to the people of Waterloo, to learn that at one time the land they now live on was being described as being situated in the county of York and Home District. The consideration or purchase sum for these, sixty thousand acres was "ten thousand pounds." A memorial of this deed was Registered in York now Toronto, the 14th day of July, 1805, by Thos. Ridout, who was then Registrar. The deed of Waterloo is now in the care of the executors of the late Peter Erb, senior, who was the executor of the original Trustees of the German Company.

Josh Billings on Laffing.

Laffing is strictly an amusement altho sum folks make a buzzness ov it

It haz bin considered an index ov charakter, and there is sum so clues at reesoning that they say they kan tell what a man had for dinner bi seeing him laff.

I never saw two laff alike.

While there are sum who don't make enny noise—and sum again, who hav mask in their laff, and others who laff just az a rat duz who haz kaught a steal trap with hiz tail.

There is no mistake in the assertion haw that is a comfort to hear sum laff that co ae rumping out ov a man's mouth—like a district school ov girls just let out tew play.

Men who never laff may have good hearts, but they are deep-seated—like sum springs, they have their inlet and outlet from below, and show no sparkling bubble on the brim.

I don't like a giggle; his kind of laff is like the dandyline, a broad yeller, and not a bit ov good smell about it.

It is true that enny kind ov a laff, if it iz honest, iz better than none; but give me the laff that looks out a man's eyes flash, tew a ce if the coast iz clear, then steels down into the dimple of his cheek and rides in an eddy thare awile, that waltzes a spell at the corner ov his mouth like a thing ov life then bursts its bonds of beauty and fills the air for a moment with a shower of silvery tongued sparks, then back with a smile tew a star in the heart tew watch again for its prey—this is the kind ov laff that I have and ain't afraid ov.
