The Flour Barrel Chair

How dear to my heart are the fancies entrancing, Which wait me once more to the days of my youth; Though some folks may say in this age of advancing,
To dwell on such now is distinctly unepoch.

But I shall continue as long as I'm able,

To say a kind word for the past, I declare:

For the blue-painted dresser, the three-legged table,
And the love that I bear for the flour barrel chair.

There's no tie, I know of, that this one surpasses.

There's not one as fair which I now can recall.

As when grandmother, knitted, a-wearing her glasses, And wore o'er her shoulders the three-cornered shawl.

There she sat like an angel, so sweet and so modest,

Neat showed the crease in her snowy-white hair;

But then what by far looked the oddiest.

The thing that I sing, the old flour barrel chair.

Oh, clean was the kitchen, your heart it would win it.

The jugs on the dresser, and green sanded floor;

Her snuff box with plenty of good keen scent in it.

One pinch for a sad heart effected cure.

Don't show me nor tell me of chairs they call easy.

Oh breathe not to me of those dining ones, too;

Nor the ones with the green velvet cushions, so breezy.

For such chairs I could not be loving 'tis true.

Oh, give me the chair which to me was the neatest.

Though it would look odd to-day near the fancy ones here;

It reminds me of old of the days that were sweetest.

When my grandmother sat in the flour barrel chair.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited.

Sirs—I came across a bottle, at your MINARD'S LINIMENT in the hands of one of the students at the University of Maryland, and he being so kind as to let me use it for a very bad sprain, which I obtained in training for foot races, and to say that it helped me would be putting it very mildly, and I therefore ask if you would let me know of one of your agents that is closest to Baltimore so that I may obtain some of it. Thanking you in advance, I remain,

Yours truly,
W. C. McCUEAN.

Convicts' Tunnel Discovered.

Danmemora, N.Y., Oct. 7.—Officials of the State prison here have just discovered a tunnel, excavated by convicts, under the prison yard, reaching half way to a big trunk sewer. It would have afforded a convenient ex-it for a wholesale jail delivery.

The tunnel has been three years under construction, but was not more than half done. It was started by two life-term men. They could not make rapid progress because of the difficulty of disposing of the dirt, which they had to mix in small quantities with furnace ashes from the laundry. One of the two was an engineer, and he had worked out by intricate calculations, the exact angle at which the tunnel should be dropped to reach the sewer.

After the tunnel was found, a search was made of every convict in the prison. From the cells were taken two wagon loads of nondescript stuff, including stilettes, hammer, monkey wrenches, sandbags, blackjacks, fish poles and 350 knives.

Submarine Control by Hertizan Waves.

Portsmouth, Eng., Oct. 6.—Successful experiments with the wireless control of submarine boats have been made here, but the details are kept well guarded. It is known, however, that a submarine was taken to shallow water, off Selsey, while the Hertizan waves were worked from the cruiser Furios.

The submarine, which was on the surface, was manned and was found to be entirely under the control of the cruiser.

Then the crew was taken out, and the experiment was equally successful when the boat was submerged.
Similar experiments are being made with torpedoes.

FARM NOTES

Not Written for Farmers
By H. L. RANN.

We don't know of anything that will break the rest of an estimable family quicker than the sleep-walking shout. The pig which rises from an uneasy couch and meanders over the premises, clad in sleep and a snore like an accordion with a hot box, is a greater menace to scientific agriculture than the practice of rotating cow-pea hay with quick grass. There is something wrong with the hominizing of the pig which gets up in the middle of the night and butts into the hired girl's room in a sleep-walking jag. It will usually be found that the shout which has contracted his habit is accustomed to sleeping on his back on a mattress of cor-ruba, with his mouth wide open which makes him the easy prey of very nomadic nightmare. You can't expect a pig to sleep with all four feet in the air and a back resembling a section of corrugated roofing, and not look with longing on a spring cot.
If more twin beds were introduced into the hog house, the head of the family could retire to rest at night without having the coverlets pried off by some heavy-lidded porker in pursuit of a quiet snooze.

If your fireless cooker smokes, it is evidence of spontaneous combustion in the hay tank. Remove the hay and replace with Wisconsin leaf tobacco, which nothing short of a full-bosom-ed suction pump can get any smoke out of. Every fireless cooker ought to be equipped with a time lock, to prevent food from scorching.

A friend of ours who says that he has tried our recipes with unfailing success sends us a sure cure for lock jaw in horses. His method is to lay an inch board between the animals ears, climb into the feed box and strike him over the head twice with a sledge. He says this will either break the lock or kill the horse. This sounds reasonable, but we would like expert opinion upon it.

TELEGRAPH LINES WORKING.—

storm, are working O.K. to-day. At 2 o'clock this morning communication was established at Port aux Basques.

The fall weather is at hand, obtain a bottle of "Staford's Liniment" and "Phorstone Cough Mixture" at once.

The Bovel Manufacturing Company, Montreal, Que.

Dear Sirs:—

"I have much pleasure in mentioning to you the benefits received from the use of your Pills, and can cheerfully recommend them.

I simply had Chronic Dyspepsia with all its wretched symptoms, I tried about all the advertised cures, with no success.
You have in your pills the best curative I could find. It is now such a pleasure to enjoy my meals, with their consequent nourishment.

I want to mention this for the benefit of others. I state this feeling that during life we should strive to do all the good we can towards those who suffer.

No need of telling symptoms, every sufferer knows them."

Yours respectfully,

ROBERT E. MASON.

so called "unfailing" remedies for Dys-
