The War Meantime.

It would be a pity were it mere coincidence that so little has been happening in Europe while so much has been happening in Europe while so much has been happening in America: we would prefer to think that the war operations had been courteously suspended to allow the world to follow without distraction the far more important battle in the great far more important battle in the great Republic. However that may be, it is Republic. However that may be, it is a fact that a strange lull has once more fallen upon nearly every battle-front. Possibly, when the counting is at last done and Wilson or Hughes definitely assured of the victory, we may find that more has been taking place than we have been informed of.

With the execution of important

With the exception of important ains by the French near Chaulnes, gains by the French near Chaulnes, indicative of more important fighting to come, practically nothing has been reported for a couple of days. This silence and American politics should not make us forget that a very critical stage of the war has been reached in Roumania. Every day that passes sees the situation more acute. Every day also, it may be said, that passes without material progress by the without material progress by the enemy should mean a strengthening of the defence and an encouragement

A short and very general message has told that the Roumanians have taken the offensive again in Dobrudja spare troops for such an undertaking is significant. For the present they have nothing to fear from Mackensen, who is effectually barred from further progress by the broad Danube: the potential danger from him is the pos-sibility of Falkenhayn cutting his way right through Roumania to the Danube and joining forces with him. Such a feat would be a disaster to us indeed, for it would turn the whole Russian left wing and undo all the invaluable must be remembered how slow were the first stages of the Serbian cam-paign a year ago and how over-whelmingly rapid the last ones. Fortunately the two cases cannot be compared. Serbia then stood isolated and alone; Russia was reeling almost to a fall; the Allies' western offensive had failed; Italy was having little effect; you will have no more trouble in this and Germany had many troops to spare, as well as Bulgaria to stab the spare, as well as Bulgaria to stab the plucky little country in the back. To-day, in the case of Roumania, all these conditions are lacking or reversed; but we must not lose sight of the fact that the geographical position of Roumania has allowed Germany to mass a huge army on both her flanks. We must therefore watch Transvivania must therefore watch Transylvania closely in the next few weeks. If any-thing short of complete success re-wards the superhuman effort, of the enemy we can say he has failed. Winenemy we can say he has failed. Winter will impose a truce, and in the months over which he holds sway Russia will lay up a fresh supply of the guns and munitions of which she clearly feels the lack again. With an adequate supply of these and her enormous army, she will give Germany next year something nearer home to think about than the strafing of Roumania.

THE WAR-AND PARCEL POST. One of the most thriving branches present in the Post Office is the Parc present in the Post Office is the Parcel Post Department, for apart from its usefulness at all times, it has been made a busy place since the war. Thousands of packages are handled there monthly from all over the country, and as the most of these are forwarded to "Ours" abroad the "o'k entailed is very great. By each everess and steamer to the Old Country buge mails are despatched and the officials in the department assure us that the service is increasing daily, so that the staff and offices want enlargement.

Biggest Sea in Fifty Years.

MUCH DAMAGE WROUGHT. Not within the memory of perhaps the oldest inhabitant or, at least during the past half century, has there ever been seen here such a tremendous and dangerous underground sea as that which raged in and around the entrance to this Harbor last evening and to-day, the outcome of the strong north winds that have prevailed of late. In consequence the port has been practically blockaded to shipping. Light-keeper Cantwell at Cape Spear informs us that it is the worst he ever saw at the Cape. The huge seas which broke over the Northern and Southern Heads in the Narrows with awful violence and sprays ascended as high as 100 feet over the cliffs. Some of the sprays went right in over Fort Amherst Light House. Dwelling houses and fishing property at the North and South Batteries were threatened with destruction this morning. Many stages were swept away and boats carried in on the beach and smashed in pieces. Pouch Cove, particularly, felt the heavy outbreak of sea very severely and virtually all the fishing property there was wiped out. The loss, we learn, is very extensive. A fortunate circumstance, however, for all the fisher folk who suffered damage, is that the voyage is just over for this year. All last night and this morning a heavy undertow ran in the harbor. The Red Cross Liner Florizel, which was discharging at Harvey's wharf, began to pound heavily against the pier to which she at Harvey's wharf, began to poun heavily against the pier to which sh wentually did much damage, and roke her moorings as well, having to be moved off in the stream where she

SLIGHT FIRE.—At 11.15 this forenoon the Central and Eastern Com-panies were called out to an alarm of fire from box 228, corner of Fresh-water and Cookstown Roads. There was a slight blaze in a house in that locality, but it was extinguished be-fore any damage was done.

MORE CAUTION.-If there is ne cessity for the drivers of speed au-tomobiles to travel country roads with reduced headlights, they ought at least to handle their cars with more precaution and a little more concern to the safety of pedestrians. Last night one such car was driven down Circular Road at most terrific spee and reaching King's Bridge Road con tinued its mad progress much to the danger of any person who might be crossing the thoroughfare. Surely this kind of thing ought to be cen-sored—but by whom?
