The Washington Treaty.—We learn by a despatch from Geneva, Switzerland, that the labours of the Board of Arbitrators appointed under the provisions of the Washington Treaty, have brought their important and arduous duties almost to a close. They will affix their signatures to the final documents on the 16th inst., and apprise their respective Governments of the result.

Destructive Fire at Phillipsburg.—The Tannery of Messrs. C. Doering & Son, at Phillipsburg, was totally consumed by fire on the night of the 1st ult. Loss, $10,000, insured in the Waterloo Mutual for $2,000, and in the North British and Mercantile for $2,500. By a mere miracle, the large general store and dwelling of Mr. Doering which adjoined the tannery was saved.

Railway Change.—We learn that the Great Western Railway has leased the Wellington and Erie roads, and that a third rail will be laid in a short time. The Loop or Glencoe line, our readers will remember, is narrow gauge. The St. Catharines Journal, in referring to the change says: "This will greatly increase the facility of trade, and a large section of timber country will be opened up, which will find its way to market by way of Port Dalhousie.

On Monday afternoon last, an old woman named Muir, living on Serpentine Street, Owen Sound, went to the well in the rear of the corner office, while under the influence of liquor she tumbled in her first, turning a somersault as she went down. Her cries attracted the attention of Mr. H. Nolan, the Comet employee, General Hall, the bell man, and Mr. Robert Corbet, by whom she was extricated from her awkward position. Upon reaching the street she found a "barrel" on the water, but those who pulled her out thought, "curses on the whiskey."

Extraordinary Circumstance.—A few days ago a gentleman well known in St. Catharines, got up rather early and went into his yard. He saw some tame pigeons flying round, and noticed one of them had something in its mouth. Some of the others tried to get it when it was dropped on the ground. The gentleman then went to see what it was and found it to be a genuine twenty dollar green-back. It was somewhat picked and torn, but perfectly good. This is a most extraordinary circumstance, and any one in doubt as to the genuineness of the story or the bill can have all his doubts removed by calling at this office.—Times.

Cradling in the Township of Derby.—An interesting test in the art of cradling took place here on Saturday the 31st ult. Lewis Graham, on a bet of $100 a side between him and James Reid, undertook to cradle a piece of oats containing fully six acres and a half in ten hours and a half. The trial proved Graham to be more than equal to the undertaking, as he completed the task in a satisfactory manner in eight hours and fifty-six minutes, having an hour and thirty-four minutes to spare. The affair created quite a stir in the neighborhood while it was going on, and none appeared more pleased with the result than Reid, who ordered the money to be handed over to Graham as soon as the work was completed. Whoever is prepared to beat this let them trot out their man.

The Meeting of the Emperors

Fatal Explosion.
Strikes in England.
Fatal Accident.
The Disaster at Independence.
Seven Killed and 45 Wounded.

Meeting of the Emperors. BERLIN, Sept. 5.—On the arrival of the Emperor at the Russian Legation, he was visited there by the Empress Augusta and the Princess Victoria. Later in the day the Emperor proceeded to the Imperial palace, where he was entertained by the Emperor William and his Court. After making quite a long visit, the Emperor returned to the Embassy. The Emperor of Austria meets with an enthusiastic reception from the people in his progress through Germany. He arrived at Dresden to-day and is the guest of the King of Saxony. The entire party leaves Dresden to-morrow for Berlin, and will enter the city in the evening. It is again deemed that the meeting will be in any way political.

BRUXELLES, Sept. 6.—Prince Bismarck had a long interview with the Emperor Alexander yesterday. Gortschakoff was present. The Emperor attended the opera last night with Emperor William and members of the Royal family. This morning the Emperor drove in the Tiergarten, and on his return to the Embassy received General Moltke and Wrangel, and other distinguished officers of the Prussian army. During the day, the Emperor again visited Emperor William, and also called on the Crown Prince and other members of the Royal family. The Emperor Francis Joseph arrived this evening from Dresden, and was received at the railway station by Emperor William with precisely the same ceremonies and attentions which were accorded to the Emperor Alexander yesterday. The Emperor rode side by side through the streets, the cheering was incessant, and the popular enthusiasm was even greater than that displayed yesterday.

VIENNA, Sept. 6.—The Press of this city says that Ode Russell, British Ambassador at Berlin, had an audience last evening with Emperor William, on Wednesday. Mr. Russell desired to ascertain from His Majesty information as to the object of the conference between himself and his imperial visitors.

Cash on Delivery. There is nothing which causes more surprise to housekeepers than the way grocery bills will come up if allowed to run for a month or two. To a man of limited means having a family to support, the doubtful accommodation of a few months' credit is frequently a serious hindrance instead of a help. The bill which has accumulated is so much larger than was expected; the money with which it was to have been paid has, half unconsciously, been used for other purposes, and when pay day comes the demand falls much heavier on him than it would if the bill had been paid as the need was expected. The plan is styled both dealer and customer of doing strictly cash business, are being so constantly made manifest that dealers are year after year striving to reduce their lines of credit and substitute cash customers. A grocery firm in England has lately started a new idea in reference to cash customers, and from the success which has attended the first six months experiment we expect to see many other houses both in England and this country adopt the plan, substituting perhaps as an extra inducement, five per cent for two and a half. The plan is styled the "bonus system for cash payments for groceries, and consists in allowing a bonus of two and one half per cent, payable at the end of six months, on all purchases made during that time. At the time of purchase a metal check is given showing the amount of the purchase, and these are preserved by the buyer, and when the time of redemption arrives—twice a year—the check shows the amount on which the holder is entitled to two and one half per cent, which is paid in goods. The firm originating the idea stoutly stands by the plan, and states that their business has considerably increased, and that many customers who used to take three or four months credit prefer the bonus system. Several firms in England have adopted the plan and we hope to see it soon introduced here.

BRUTAL MURDER IN COBURG.—A brutal murder occurred in Cobourg on Friday night, the 6th Sept., in the bar-room of the Commercial House, by which a man named Combe lost his life in a few minutes. The victim, named Keon, about ten o'clock Keon ordered him out of the bar. He refused; and Keon then commenced kicking him out. He fell down, and Keon kicked him on the forehead, as shown by the marks upon him. He fell dead outside the door, where he was afterwards found. Keon was arrested. Combe was a respectable old man about fifty years of age, and leaves a wife and six children. Much excitement prevails over the disgraceful act of the bar-tender. A jury was empanelled this morning, and adjourned till seven this evening, when the doctors time to hold a post mortem examination on the body. Up to nine o'clock, the jury were sitting under Coroner Ewing, and will not be finished till midnight.

DARTABLY Acc.—We learn that that dastardly practice of "nobbling" horses, to prevent their winning races for which an enter is not extinct. The horse by the name of Jim Irving, entered for the $1,500 purse, for 2.34 horses, was drugged at Utica, on Wednesday, of last week, just previous to the race, and a rigid investigation has so far failed to discover the criminals. We hope that no exertion will be spared to detect and punish the guilty parties, the act having been clearly proved. The villain who would deliberately poison a horse in order to further his own selfish ends is worthy of the severest punishment the law can inflict, and we would have no regret in seeing such a one subjected to the tender mercies of the cat o' nine tails. Jim Irving was sired by young Malborne, son of imported Knight of St. George, dam by Sir William. He was bred in Kentucky, and being a horse of great promise, was expected to take his place with the first-class trotting stock of the States. Hopes are entertained that the disability inflicted upon him in so cowardly a manner will not be permanent.

We see that a Washington saloon keeper has been fined one hundred dollars and had his license revoked for refusing to sell a glass of whiskey to a coloured man, contrary to the law for securing equal rights. Had it been in Ohio, he might have been fined if he did sell him the whiskey. It is a comforting sign of Union and Progress in the United States when a coloured man is declared to have as much right to his whiskey as a white man. The world moves, and delirious tremens is now open to all citizens of the United States, without distinction of color or sex.

THE GAME YESTERDAY.

MERCURY VS. ADVERTISER.

As most of our base ball readers are aware these two contesting nines arranged to come together on the fair ground yesterday afternoon, and after a good deal of growing on the part of the Advertiser men because our captain took in two little new gamins that could run faster than they could, play commenced with the Mercury at the bat. Before proceeding far, however, the presence of so much unsettled coffee gave promise of another row, play was again stopped, and pistols and cheese for the crowd ordered. The two spectators seated on the fence now began to close in in anticipation of a melee, the Advertiser imp in the meantime being busily engaged in relieving himself of his coat and vest to the sincere disgust of his ragged shirt, and then stood prepared for action. And but for the timely arrival of a dry chest of tobacco which one of the street Arabs had dug out of the recesses of his pants, which his ash receptacle immediately closed upon his rage was calmed, and after a few stirring remarks from his captain who was near keeling over with rage at his unruly conduct, went to his position. After a few words of warning from one of the masters and another flow of eloquence from a gamble, the two spectators took seats on the town pond shed, which by the way had been converted into a grand stand by special permit, play again commenced. With the assistance of two of the Listowel champions, one of the Milton first nine, and a tribe of others which our devil says he never saw in town before, they kept hacking away at us until we were about three and twenty runs behind. During the progress of the game it was marvellous to see how rapidly the finances of the Advertiser rose, the York road resident repeatedly offering to bet his lonesome 9 cent piece on the game, and which no one was willing to take from him, returned to his purse with a growl after receiving a caution from their finance minister who was on the field that he was no money on hand for Saturday. One of their players in his eagerness to take a fly from the bat run in collision with something harder than his nose, and the consequence was that the elret flowed freely. After searching through all the Market pockets of their players for a handkerchief, and finding nothing; wherewith to arrest the flow of the precious liquid, an outsider philanthropically proffered his advice, no more blood was spilt, and on receiving a soul-reviving speech from his captain returned to his onerous duties. After considerable rolling round in the mud general; "saring shirts and crooking fingers, the game ended, and our nine say that as far as they are concerned the Advertiser can go to the Herald if they wish any further satisfaction. With the appended scores we leave our readers to judge for themselves who did the most running, and for our part we wish the season of '72 with all its fly tips, fouls and red hotters adieu until next potato digging time, when we intend to be able to give our Advertiser brethren such a drubbing as will fully satisfy us for all we have received at their hands this season.
