ceived here to the effect that the King of Denmark has refused to sanction the new constitution of Iceland. This action of the King, it is expected, will lead to further large immigration of Icelanders to Canada. Joe Talks.

LONDON, Jan. 31,-Joseph Chamberlain, leader of the Liberal-Unionists, in a speech at Birmingham this evening, declared his entire antagonism to the new Radicalism, which he said had abandoned the old Radical principles and become a policy of disintegration at home and disruption abroad.

He should be proud in the future, he said, to call himself a Unionist, a title which was far wider and nobler than that of either Conservative or Liberal, as it included both. He contended that there was a growing need of a great national patriotic party which would not barter its conscience for votes or betray the country's interests in order to maintain itself in office.

Welcoming Victoria's Son.

COBOURG, Germany, Jan. 31 .- This city presents a holiday appearance to-day, the occasion being the state entry into the city of the Duke of Saxe-Cobourg and Gotta (the Duke of Edinburgh), who recently, upon the death of his uncle, became a ruling German prince. Business is generally suspended and many of the houses are decorated with flags.

Less Light and More Charity. London, Jan. 31.—The Berlin correspondent of the Standard says: "Emperor William recently remarked that the money spent on illuminations might better be applied to charity. "The hint became known too late to have an effect on his Majesty's birthday, although the absence of illuminations from the town hall was due to his suggestion. The money to have been used in illumination was given to the poor." Eight Hours Works Well.

London, Jan. 31 .- The great democratic advance which John Burns and a few supporters in the House have induced the Government to make, by the introduction of an eight hours day into the national arsenal, had not been taken without an experimental preliminary test. Experiments were made at Woolwich and Enfield, with the view of ascertaining the effect of an eight hours day both upon the quantity and the quality of the work. The results were so satisfactory that the Government resolved at once to concede the point, and the eight hours day will therefore be introduced not only in the places named, but also at Waltham and Birmingham. About 1,500 men will be affected in these four Government factories; and as it is impossible to give this boon to the military establishments and to refuse it to the nava!, the next step will be to extend the same rule to the dockyards. The day will be shortened by allowing the men to break. fast before beginning the day's work. As J. A. Begin, notary, and the third floor by the Government has now placed itself at the the Foresters' hall. The fire was dishead of the eight-hour movement in the most practical of all ways, the moral effect of its example will soon he felt in every private establishment throughout the kingdom. Municipalities will be dragged into the movement also, opinion will be stimulated throughout the country, and legisla. stores. Loss about $80,000. tion will be speedily brought within the domain of practical politics.

A Disappointed Crowd. There was an immense crowd in became known that the execution had been postponed. President Carnot will to-day consider the papers in the case of Vaillant and the application made by friends of the condemned man for a commutation of his sentence. He will confer with M. Laboir, Vaillant's counsel, before he gives a decision in the case.

What Are They Good For?

London, Jan. 31.—In a letter on the subject of the obstruction of reform in the House of Lords, Sir Wilfrid Lawson says it is one of the most amazing things to be found in history that the people of this country should have been apparently contented from generation to generation to be ruled by "a trade union of landlords, associated with a few bishops, bankers and brewers." At present Mr. Gladstone proposes, but Lord Salisbury disposes, with the aid of the "most absolutely unconstitutional body at present in existence." "The House of Lords," says Sir Wilfrid, "has no mandate from heaven above, the earth beneath, or any place under the earth." He asks why the Gladstonean Parliament cannot do what the long Parliament did and vote for the abolition of the House of Lords. But he points out that there are other methods of attaining the same result. The House of Commons has in its hands the power of the purse. He fears, however, that the people will allow this "Penelone Web" business to go on for some time, one house undoing ling. what is done in the other. "This," he says. "is rather a sickening prospect, and one which, if realized, will tend to bring our present parliamentary system into increasing disrepute."

Between Yankee and Rebel Vessels at Rio Janeiro.

An Affair That May Lead to Serious Complications.

Uncle Sam Has Now an Elephant On His Hands.

LONDON, Jan. 30 .- Startling news has been received from Rio de Janeiro. Admiral Da Gama, it appears, has been smarting with humiliation and anger ever since the American admiral called him on board and practically ordered him to surrender to Peixoto. The unpleasantness of Saturday, when Da Gama refused to order his ships to cease firing in dangerous proximity to American merchantmen was the result of this feeling. The elaborate demonstration made by the American squadron yesterday when the ship Amy was escorted to the piers in the teeth of Da Gama's guns added fuel to the admiral's resentment, and the knowing ones here were prepared for something start-

A dispatch to Baring Bros. says that at 10 o'clock this morning the insurgents repeated their offensive tactics of Saturday, and in the complications which followed Da Gama with incredible audacity opened fire on one of the American warships.

This was the signal for a burst of firing from the American cannon and in less time almost than it takes to tell the Brazilian warships were reduced to submission. Da Gama surrendered to Admiral Benham directly afterwards. The adherents of Peixoto in Rio are delirious with joy at Da Gama's defeat, and by many the rebellion is regarded as at an

THE NEWS IN WASHINGTON. WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.-The important news contained in Admiral Benham's dis patch to Secretary Herbert is to the following effect: It seems that Admiral Benham lost patience with the insurgent forces for their careless firing in the harbor of Ris. When Admiral Da Gama persisted in this course, Admiral Benham yesterday cleared his decks for action. Admiral Da Battle Creek Disaster-Satisfactor y Gama did not choose to take the hint whereupon Admiral Benham fired several shots across the bows of Da Gama's flag widow of the late T. R. The German naval officers applaud Benham. The English officers naturally are in opposition, while not denying that Benham's position is lawful. London, Jan. 31.—The Standard says the only question now is how far the Washington Government will approve and support Rear Admiral Benham's action. If the United States no longer abstain from interference between the two factions, it says Great Britain and other interference between the two factions, it says Great Britain and other interference between the two factions, it says Great Britain and other interference between the two factions, it says Great Britain and other interference between the two factions, it says Great Britain and other interference between the two factions, it says Great Britain and other interference between the two factions, it says Great Britain and other interference between the two factions, it says Great Britain and other interference between the two factions. says Great Britain and other interested countries will doubtless follow suit.

OWN PART OF LAKE ERIE.

Resurrection of an Old Deed from President Adams.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 31.—The Western Reserve Historical Society is in possession of a certified copy of the original deed of the entire western reserve made in the year 1800. The document was given the society a day or two ago by Julius Lamback, an expert accountant, in whose possession it has secretly been for several years. The deed is from President John Adams to the State of Connecticut for the benefit of the Connecticut Land Company, Its northern land boundary is the center of Lake Erie. The land company later sold shore lots only to the water's edge. Mr. Lamback claims that the land under the lake is, therefore, still the property of the heirs of the Connecticut Land Company-or, at all events, not the property of the commissioners of shore lot. If this is, so, the Lake Shore and Cleveland and Pittsburg roads do not own the land they have made in the lake, nor will the city own the land it intends to make at Erie street. Many have in the past denied the existence of this deed.
