THE HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, JULY 9, 1914.

This is not a fortunate day according to the reading of astrology. Saturn and Uranus are in aspects strongly malefic and caution should be the watchword.

The rule is held as an unlucky one for travel, change, danger to engines, and all vehicles propelled by electricity, is believed to be greatly increased by adverse conditions, due to the planets.

During this rule it is well to avoid making acquaintances of opposite sex. Courtship and romance are subject to a sinister influence, which indicates liability to disappointment and disillusion.

Mental disturbances of all sorts are said to multiply when Uranus exercises evil sway. A great increase of insanity is indicated and the mania for suicide will affect many prominent men and women.

As the aspect operates to increase the mental activity, discontent and resentment against things as they are may be widespread. It is prophesied that labor unrest will lead to deeds of violence, even more tragic than any recently recorded. Factories will be the scenes of extraordinary strike activities after winter begins.

There is a prophecy that the German army will resent severe criticism of its officers. Trouble for the Kaiser is foreboded.

The King of Norway has an ill omen of health and other troubles. Race difficulties are presaged by the planets. There will be a great deal of the Pacific coast and will involve Orientals.

Dancing comes under an influence that is said to be fortunate, even though the prevalence of the pastime is not so noticeable in restaurants and other public places.

Chicago is subject to a rule that promises progress in the art. Music and dramatic entertainment will gain in popularity. An actress will gain fame there next season, it is prognosticated.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be diligent and self-controlled, in order to be successful the coming year. Children born on this day may be too fond of pleasure and variety in life. Boys may be inclined to seek adventure and neglect business.

BIGGEST THING ABOUT THIS "PARIS CREATION" IS THE PRICE TAG.

Every year in June and July Paris sends out hats trimmed heavily with feathers. They are worn only over here by those who dress for extreme fashion, however.

The one pictured was worn by a well-known society woman in Paris the other day. It was of dark tobacco brown hemp, with quantities of white crepe aligettes on it.

One wonders how the lady will smuggle the $500 worth of feathers into America, where this kind of plumage is interdicted.

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

(Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn. No letters can be answered privately.)

Recipe For Agnes.

Dear Miss Grey.—Please give me a recipe for elderberry wine. AGNES.

Ans.—Stem the fruit and crush in a crock, either with a potato masher or fruit press. Strain this juice through several thicknesses of cheese cloth and then replace the juice in the crock, allowing half pound of white sugar to each quart of the juice.

Stir until the sugar is dissolved. Then cover the top with a clean cloth and set it in a warm place for about four weeks for it to ferment. When it has ceased to ferment, drain off carefully through the cloth and pour into bottles. Seal tightly and lay on their sides in a cool, dark place.

Looked the Other Way.

Dear Miss Grey.—This is my first letter to you, and I am very sorry to have to bother you at all; but will you please answer a few questions for me?

I just came to town last spring, and shortly after I came I met a boy friend, whom I think a great deal of, and went with him steadily until just lately; he made different engagements with me to meet him, and then when I would go out to meet him he would never be there, and afterwards I met him on the street and he turned his head the other way when passing me. Now, do you think it would be proper for me to write to him and ask him over to the house some evening, or will I not? But as I haven't any other boy friends in town—in fact, I am acquainted with hardly anyone—I would like to have his company. So please tell me what to do and how I might win him back, because I haven't the slightest idea as to what he is offended at.

2. Could you tell me what it means to let the following things fall: A dishcloth, a fork, knife, tablespoon and teaspoon? Hoping to see this in print in your valuable column soon, I am,

A LONELY GIRL.

Ans.—1. Well, my dear girl, it seems to me that you had better let him alone and make no efforts whatever to "win him back." You surely have become acquainted with some girls, and should not be so terribly lonesome. Your boy friend certainly has acted as though he did not wish your company, and I wouldn't run after him a bit if I were you. You'll surely make other friends among the boys, so cheer up!

2. This is a lore or science quite beyond me—that is excepting the dishcloth, which is not its fall supposed to predict company? Wonder if our girl readers can throw any light on this most perplexing question?

Removing Grass Stains.

Dear Miss Grey.—I have read your interesting column for some time, and now I shall be much pleased if you will kindly answer the following:

1. How can I remove heavy grass stains from a white cotton (Indian head) dress?

2. What is a good cure for dandruff?

Thanking you in advance,

CURLEY HEAD.

Ans.—1. Rub a little molasses into the stains, let stand a few minutes, then wash out in warm water with soap. If the stain still remains, soaking for a short time in diluted chloride water should remove all trace. Rinse thoroughly afterwards and hang in the sun.

2. Persevering and regular massage of the scalp is excellent to prevent the growth of dandruff. This tonic has been found very helpful in curing the trouble: some scurf: Bay rum 5 ounces, fluke oil of cartharides 1/4 ounce, olive oil 1 ounce. This will make a larger quantity than you desire, but have the druggist make up in this proportion. Rub the scalp with the amount of sugar to use for plums depends largely upon the acidity of the fruit. Generally, one-half pound of sugar to the pound is enough, but if decayed and very rich, some housewives use three-quarters of a pound of sugar. Boil the fruit and place in the kettle with stem, etc., and place in the kettle with tender. Then place in jars and pour over them a boiling syrup made of a scant half-pound of sugar to each pound of fruit. Seal up at once. For canned pears, use less sugar.

Songs We Used to Whistle and Sing

This song, while not very old in years, was requested by a reader last week, and copy sent by Mrs. H. G. appears below:

JUST AS THE SUN WENT DOWN.
Just at the close of day,
Wounded and bleeding upon the field,
Two dying soldiers lay.
One held a ringlet of thin gray hair;
One held a lock of brown,
Bidding each other, "farewell,"
Just as the sun went down.

CHORUS—
One thought of mother, at home alone,
Feeble and old and gray;
One of the sweetheart he had left in town,
Happy and young and gay.
One kissed the ringlet of thin gray hair,
One kissed the lock of brown,
Bidding "Good-bye" to the dear old flag,
Just as the sun went down.

One knew the joy of a mother's love,
One of a sweetheart fair;
Thinking of home, they lay side by side,
Breathing a farewell prayer:
One for his mother, so old and gray,
One for his love in town.
They closed their eyes to the earth and skies,
Just as the sun went down.

Then came the news from a comrade's lips,
One who survived the fight;
Sweetheart and mother are listening there,
Oh, most pitiful sight!
Two hearts nigh broke, two nobles lives lost,
Fighting, defending the crown.
Still they were proud of the heroes who died,
Just as the sun went down.

WHERE MEN AND WOMEN ARE EQUAL

Complete Recognition of Their Equality in Salvation Army.

The current issue of Woman's Century comments as follows upon the status of women in the Salvation Army:

Not the least notable of the more commendable characteristics of the wonderful organization created by General Booth and his saintly wife is its complete recognition of the equality of men and women. In the Salvation Army there is no distinction of sex, nor does there seem to have developed any of the difficulties which so troubled the British civil service commissioners regarding the risk of having high administrative positions occupied by women. However extraordinary the idea of a woman in command may be in England, the astonishment is more the result of convention than of conviction based on reason. After all is said by way of theory and speculation, the true and only test comes from experience. That many women have displayed exceptional administrative ability in positions of the highest responsibility cannot be denied and on this continent at least few indeed are the spheres of life and work in which a woman has not made good. Nor do men employees and heads of departments find it revolutionary or derogatory to their dignity to obey orders issued by a woman, any more than did the ministers of Queen Elizabeth or Queen Victoria.

SUMMER LAUNDRY NOTES.
Green, yellow, lavender, or pinks should not be bleached.

There is special starch prepared to be used with black materials.

Cold and materials must be ironed on the wrong side if the color is to be retained; and the iron must not be too hot.

Several wash dresses of different colors should not be washed together, for if one garment should happen to run it might spoil the others.

When laundering cretonnes, and tickings, and chintzes, use bran instead of soap. Cook four cups of bran in a gallon of water for twenty minutes, and use half of it in the wash water and half in the rinse water.

Colored wash goods should not be soaked, nor should they be washed in very hot water, nor boiled. To use soap with colored materials, melt one cake in two quarts of water, and use this instead of rubbing soap on the goods.

When salt is used to set the color in wash materials, it should be used with the soap, as is sometimes done.

Salt is best to set the color in pinks, browns, and blacks only, using a cupful to a gallon of water. Vinegar is best for setting the color in shades of blue, using half a cupful to a gallon of water.

Glitter frames and mountings soon lose their luster. They should not be rubbed. If very dirty wipe gently with a little borax water, and dry carefully.

The teacher had given the class a talk on household pests.

"What, now, is the greatest foe the housewife has," he asked.

Up went one little hand.

"All right, Mary, what is it?"

"A husband," came the quick reply.

Canning and Preserving Fruit

[Some hints for Advertiser readers.—Published by request.]

CANNED CHERRIES.

Remove the stems from fine red cherries, stone them if desired (many cooks think the flavor better if the stone is left in), and place in the preserving kettle with one-half pound sugar to one of fruit. Add a little hot water, just enough to prevent the sugar sticking, and bring to a boil. Have the jars scalding in a separate kettle. Let the fruit boil ten or fifteen minutes, then pour hot into the sterilized jars, and seal at once.

CANNED ELDERBERRIES.

Pick over the berries, removing bits of stem, etc., and place in the kettle with one-third pound of sugar to each pound of fruit. Boil for fifteen minutes, then fill into sealers. For raspberries, one-quarter pound sugar to each pound of fruit, is quite sufficient.

PRESERVED PEARS.

Peel the fruit and place in a kettle with stem, etc., and place in the kettle with tender. Then place in jars and pour over them a boiling syrup made of a scant half-pound of sugar to each pound of fruit. Seal up at once. For canned pears, use less sugar.

CANNED PLUMS.

HOUSEWIFE WHO LOOKS NEAT

How She Chooses Her Home Dresses

What a difference there is in the appearance of women when they are about their household. Some look as if they had just stepped out of the proverbial band-box, while the less said about the dress of others the better. There are many who cannot wear tight dresses and bend and turn as one has to in doing her household work, but even a stout woman may look neat if she is careful of the fit of her underwaists and make them of firm material. Although many housekeepers are actually attached together or are a one-piece dress.

The best material for house dresses is the pretty new crepes which wash so easily, but require no ironing. The only difficulty to be found with them is that because of the roughness of the surface they soil more quickly than smooth starched goods, like percale, but crepe is laundered much more easily than the balance is in its favor.

Large aprons that cover the dress are a convenience, as they may be slipped off easily. If the bell rings and the housewife may go to the door looking as neat as can be.

It requires but little more time to make a dress pretty with a little dainty piping, or flat trimming than it does to make it unattractive. Ruffles are not desirable, for they are apt to become mussed; but there are many attractive touches that may be given by flat trimmings, and a good pattern is always available in these days of good paper patterns.

Out-of-style finery is out of place when one is doing housework, and it would be better to relegate it to the ragbag and purchase a simple wash material at ten cents a yard. Neither are wrappers and negligees in their proper place when worn by the houseworker, for nothing will sloppier appearance can look neat, and that is the first requisite for the housewife who is particular about her appearance when she is working.
