SALVATION ARMY EASTER SERVICES

Adjutant Spooner Conducts Children's Meeting At Clarence Street Hall.

CAPT. CLAGUE SPEAKS

Easter services occupied the entire Sunday at the Salvation Army citadels, where festivals of song and addresses on the glory of the resurrection touched the hearts of the army flocks that gathered at the annual Easter fashion parade. A different citadels to hear the mesdifferent citadels to hear the messages of joyous Eastertide.

At No. 1 Citadel, Clarence street, the congregation heard an inspired fore 10 o'clock when the rush to the for his text "Who Shall Roll the proved conclusively that the long Stone Away?" The No. 1 Band rendered selections of Easter music.

The afternoon meeting at the Clarence Street Citadel was primarily for children, but a goodly number of parents and friends were present, and Adjutant Spooner availed himself of the opportunity to deliver to all present a stirring and touching address on the "Debt to the Children." "There is a need," he said, "for godly men and godly women to fashion the lives of the youngs Save godly men and godly women to fashion the lives of the young. Save the children, and you will not have to save the adults." He said that the results in saving the aged are

Adjutant Spooner declared that while Sunday schools play a most important part in the lives of the young people, the foundation of a Christian life must be instilled into the lives of children by the parents, and to throw the whole responsibility on the church and school is a mis-

The speaker paid a tribute to the present patient Sunday school teachers and workers in various departments, such as the Life-Saving Mrs. J. F. Adamson, Edmonton, Scouts, and mentioned that while there is a host of efficient righteous people now engaged in such work, the number is quite below present requirements. A plea was made to those present, not only in the con-gregation, but to those in the ranks of the songsters and to members of the bands to take upon themselves the great responsibility of saving youth for their country and for

After the meeting the happy children filed down the aisles and received brightly-colored Easter eggs and cards bearing messages. Smiling sisters of the army distributed the tokens from well-filled baskets.

The evening services at No. 1 songsters, who sang "Christ the songsters, who sang "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today." Capt. Clague addressed the congregation on the subject, "Why Seek Ye the Living Among the Dead?"

HEAVY SNOWFALL

Weather Bureau Marks Two Yesterday.

All hopes of wearing the new Easter apparel to church on Sunday morning were lost. A fall of snow in the forenoon measured two and a half inches, according to official fig-

Churchgoers appeared on the streets attired in goloshes, winter overcoats and mufflers, instead of the usual pretty-colored hats and suits characteristic of Easter Sunday.

Easter Sunday this year was somewhat disappointing, although the storm cleared away shortly after noon, and the sun shone brightly making it a pleasant afternoon for the various parades which were held For a while it appeared as though all chances of the day changing were remote, but the fair ones could not be denied the privilege of stepping forth with a new Easter bonnet, and so it was that the streets fairly sparkled with gay feathers in the warmth of the afternoon sun.

The Saturday morning thermometer reading was given as 57.31, while it dropped to 47.32 on Sunday after-"Your untiring efforts have been crowned with the success that I hope will be the means of providing many pleasant evenings to come. It is pleasant evenings to come. It is most gratifying to your pastor and the Anglican Church to see such fine hall as that which you have," de-clared the speaker.

Continuing the bishop stated that St. George's Church had always been equal to the financial aid expected from it by the synod. He hoped that this condition would always remain in the congregation. It is without in the congregation. It is rather a singular honor that the corner-stone of the new parish hall should have been laid on Thanksgiving Day and the dedication service be held on Easter Sunday," he said.
