Customs Tariffs.

There need be little hesitation in assuming that the Legislative Council will decide to accept the Canadian Tariff in preference to retaining our present one. In all probability the six official members will vote for the Canadian Tariff. Of the elected members, Dr. Helmcken will vote for it, because his constituents emphatically demand it; Mr. Nathaa subject of no little importance to this community at the present juncture. We allude to the desirability, we may say the absolute necessity, of some such organization as might present a ready and effective medium through which to deal with the tariff question, the grazing dock question, the railway terminus question and the like. 'What's everybody's business is nobody's business,' says the old proverb, and this is no time to leave the most vital interests of the country without proper guardianship.

BALM OF ANISEED.—The Indians, Shorteas of Bremen, Astoria and for all parts of the Land, this most distressing cough, which caused most nights and restless days, I was recommended to take a small quantity of Aniseed, and I can assure you I found immediate relief, even suspend my various duties; and this completely cured me, therefore I have once in recommending it to the millions of those who are suffering.
