Who Wrote the Bible?

"A thought has often come home to me. If Holy Scripture be not the fruit of divine wisdom, if it be not a message to us from above, whence comes this wonderful Book? What account can we give of it? Can it come from man's great enemy, the Devil? Is not every page of it for the overthrow of his kingdom?"

"Could it have been written by wicked men? Was there ever a wicked man in the world that did not hate the Bible, and either wish that it were false, or endeavor to prove it so?"

"Could it have been written by good men out of their own hearts? But would good men have taken God's name in vain? And does not every part of it claim to be a revelation from God? Do we not find the words, 'Thus saith the Lord,' continually occurring? And can we imagine godly men thus to have forged the name of Jehovah?"

"Could it have been written by fanatics and enthusiasts? Then where would have been the calm, quiet and devout tone that pervades it? Where would have been the depth of wisdom which exercises to this day the earnest study of men of the greatest intellect?"

"I confess I can see no way out of this difficulty for an unbeliever. If there be difficulties in the Bible—and no doubt many such there are—it seems to me a far greater difficulty to imagine any other source but a divine one from which it could have come. It seems to me to carry a divine stamp upon the face of it. Its rebukes of falsehood and every kind of sin, its mighty encouragements to live a holy and godly life, the power that is ever going forth with it to raise the fallen and the lost—all this tells me that 'the voice that spake it is divine,' in fact, bearing out its own witness, that 'it came not by the will of man, but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost.'—2 Peter i, 21.—GEORGE EVERARD.
