

CONTENTS.

v

PAGE
miral with the Spain 157
gements with 159
n and his Fol 160
of the Rebels 162
Squadron at 162
Roldan sent 164
and Ojeda 165
a and Moxica 166

rt against Co 169
I to examine 169
San Domingo, Command 171 to appear be 173
their arrested 173

the arrival of trance at Court 176
ges of Dis 177
appointed to 177
mbus relative 179
ulchre 182
umbus for a 183

on his Fourth to the Harbor 185 violent Tem 185

past of Hon 187

quito Coast, 189

Rica.—Specu 190

Veragua 190

Bello and El 190

ie search after 192

The Adelan 192

Settlement on 193

o to surprise 193

lement 196

on board of 198

Settlement 199

of Veragua, 201

of the Ships 201

Mendez with sions.—Sent 202

quest of Re 205

—Stratagem from the Na 207

cobar to the 208

ez and Bar 209

to the Mutin 210

with Porras 211

BOOK XVII.	PAGE
CHAP. I.—Administration of Ovando in Hispaniola.—Oppression of the Natives	213
CHAP. II.—Massacre at Xaragua.—Fate of Anacaoa	215
CHAP. III.—War with the Natives of Higuey	217
CHAP. IV.—Close of the War with Higuey.—Fate of Cotabana	219

BOOK XVIII.

CHAP. I.—Departure of Columbus for San Domingo.—His Return to Spain	221
CHAP. II.—Illness of Columbus at Seville.—Application to the Crown for a Restitution of his Honors.—Death of Isabella	222
CHAP. III.—Columbus arrives at Court.—Fruitless Application to the King for Redress	225
CHAP. IV.—Death of Columbus	227
CHAP. V.—Observations on the Character of Columbus	228

APPENDIX.

NO. I.—Transportation of the Remains of Columbus from St. Domingo to the Havana	235
NO. II.—Notice of the Descendants of Columbus	236
NO. III.—Fernando Columbus	241
NO. IV.—Age of Columbus	241
NO. V.—Lineage of Columbus	242
NO. VI.—Birthplace of Columbus	243
NO. VII.—The Colombos	243
NO. VIII.—Expedition of John of Anjou	246
NO. IX.—Capture of the Venetian Galleys by Colombo the Younger	246
NO. X.—Amerigo Vespucci	247
NO. XI.—Martin Alonzo Pinzon	252

NO. XII.—Rumor of the Pilot said to have died in the House of Columbus	253
NO. XIII.—Martin Behem	254
NO. XIV.—Voyages of the Scandinavians	255
NO. XV.—Circumnavigation of Africa by the Ancients	257
NO. XVI.—Of the ships of Columbus	257
NO. XVII.—Route of Columbus in his first Voyage	258
NO. XVIII.—Principles upon which the Sumis mentioned in this Work have been reduced into modern Currency	263
NO. XIX.—Prester John	264
NO. XX.—Marco Polo	267
NO. XXI.—The Work of Marco Polo	268
NO. XXII.—Sir John Mandeville	269
NO. XXIII.—The Zones	270
NO. XXIV.—Of the Atalantis of Plato	270
NO. XXV.—The Imaginary Island of St. Brandon	270
NO. XXVI.—The Island of the Seven Cities	272
NO. XXVII.—Discovery of the Island of Madeira	272
NO. XXVIII.—Las Casas	274
NO. XXIX.—Peter Martyr	276
NO. XXX.—Oviedo	275
NO. XXXI.—Cura de Los Palacios	275
NO. XXXII.—"Navigatione del Re de Castiglia dei Isole e Paese Nuovamente Ritrovate,"—"Navigatio Christophei Columbi,"	279
NO. XXXIII.—Antonio de Herrera	279
NO. XXXIV.—Bishop Fonseca	280
NO. XXXV.—Of the situation of the Terrestrial Paradise	281
NO. XXXVI.—Will of Columbus	283
NO. XXXVII.—Signature of Columbus	285
INDEX	287

ASTORIA.

PAGE
INTRODUCTION, 301

CHAPTER I.

Objects of American enterprise—gold hunting and fur trading—their effect on colonization—early French Canadian settlers—Ottawa and Huron hunters—an Indian trading camp—couriers des bois, or rangers of the woods—their roaming life—their revels and excesses—licensed traders—missionaries—trading posts—primitive French Canadian merchant—his establishment and dependants—British Canadian fur merchant—the origin of the Northwest Company—its constitution—its internal trade—a candidate for the company—privations in the wilderness—northwest clerks—northwest partners—a northwest nabob—feudal notions in the forest—the lords of the lakes—Fort William—its parliamentary hall and banqueting room—was sailing in the wilderness,	302
---	-----

CHAPTER II.

Rise of the Mackinaw Company—attempt of the American government to counteract foreign influence over the Indian tribes—John Jacob Astor—his birth-place—his arrival in the United States—what first turned his attention to the fur trade—his character, enterprises, and success—his communications with the American government—origin of the American Fur Company,	305
---	-----

CHAPTER III.	PAGE
Fur trade in the Pacific—American coasting voyages—Russian enterprises—discovery of the Columbia River—Carver's project to found a settlement there—Mackenzie's expedition—Lewis and Clarke's journey across the Rocky Mountains—Mr. Astor's grand commercial scheme—his correspondence on the subject with Mr. Jefferson—his negotiations with the Northwest Company—his steps to carry his scheme into effect,	307

CHAPTER IV.

Two expeditions set on foot—the Tonquin and her crew—Captain Thorne, his character—the partners and clerks—Canadian voyageurs, their habits, employments, dress, character, songs—expedition of a Canadian boat and its crew by land and water—arrival at New York—preparations for a sea voyage—northwest braggarts—underhand precautions—letter of instructions,	310
--	-----

CHAPTER V.

Sailing of the Tonquin—a rigid commander and a reckless crew—landsmen on shipboard—fresh-water sailors at sea—lubber nests—ship fare—a Labrador veteran—literary clerks—curious travellers—Robinson Crusoe's Island—quarter-deck quarrels—Falkland Islands—a wild goose chase—Port Egmont—epitaph hunting—Old Mortality—penguin shooting—
