Some of the speakers at the afternoon meeting were Miss Inglis, Mrs. J. J. Steele, Mrs. I. C. Sharp, Montreal, Mrs. A. W. Thompson, Pictou, N.S.: Mrs. Wm. Cochrane, Mrs. A. L. MacFadyen, Miss Helen Macdonald, Mrs. J. F. McCurdy, Miss Bell, first W. H. M. S. nurse, and Dr. A. J. Hunter, first medical missionary.

The Toronto women who are responsible for the entertainment of the society's delegates are:

Miss M. Russell, registration; Mrs. D. Strachan, railway certificates; Mrs. D. MacDonald, billeting; Mrs. A. J. Robertson, St. Andrew's Church, reception; Mrs. J. Presented With Gavel.

The feature of the afternoon meeting was the presentation of a gavel to Mrs. John Somerville, the president, by Lady Mortimer Clark, one of the honorary presidents. The gavel presented to the president was made of wood taken from the pulpit of old Knox Church, which stood on the site now occupied by the Robert Simpson store. The W. H. M. S. was organized in Knox Church, June 9, 1903, and the idea of having a gavel made of the pulpit of the destroyed church was suggested by Mrs. Parsons, one of the arilest members of the society. There is profound disappointment that Lloyd George should have been even a party, after having been seven years in office, gets into the disgruntled frame of mind now prevailing among Asquith's followers, it nearly always portends a smash-up, and no one in the house of commons would be surprised if the government should find itself in the minority any day as a rebuke to the present conditions.

Asquith's power and reputation have steadily grown thru all the trouble, for he was as much in the dark as anybody else about these transactions, and now he is the sole hope of his party. He knew nothing either of Murray's Marconi investments on his own or his party's account. But the people ask: "What can Asquith do to revive the hopes and courage of the Liberal party?" There can be no debate on the subject in the house of commons until the Marconi committee reports, and the Unionists are not going to permit the report to be adopted as long as they can prevent it knox Church, Juhe 3, 1903, and the idea of having a gavel made of the pupit of the destroyed church was suggested by Mrs. Parsons, one of the earliest members of the society. Yesterday she was sick and missed seeing the presentation.

"Lady Clark says I am to use it gently," said Mrs. Somerville, after the presentation, and she then proceeded to pound the platform table in obedinese to instructions.

Mrs. Somerville needs a gavel, too, for there are many speakers on the program, and it is easy for them to trespass on each other's time. The big address of the afternoon was Mrs. H. M. Kipp's. Mrs. Kipp spoke at the recent congress on missions, and yesterday her strong, clear voice again convinced the audience of the faith and interest that she carries with her into her work.

Mrs. Kipp's subject was "The Story of Ten Years." She graphically described some of the activities of the society raised $48,031 last year, and that in 1913 they were aiming at a budget of $65,000.

Conveyed Greetings.

Greetings from the General Assembly to the society were conveyed by Rev. Dr. Crookshank of Montreal, and Rev. McTaggart of the Robertson Memorial Church and Institute, Winnipeg. # CARPENTERS' STRIKE IMPRESSIONS OF IS NOT YET OVER GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Three Hundred Members of Union Are Still

It will probably be a week or so before the carpenters unrest is definitely over, but the crists is well past now, and things will gradually sethe down. About 300 members or the United Brotherhood and the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters are stut idle. Strike pay is being granted these men at $5 per week.

During this week meetings of the unions will be held each day in the Labor Temple at which the men still unplaced may register their names and draw strike pay. To union man is allowed to work on the country of the strike.

inhons will be held each day in the Labor Temple at which the men still unplaced may register their names and draw strike pay. To union man is allowed to work beside any nan who held a job during the strike.

Picketing has been discontinued since the strike was formally declared off. The organizations now depend upon the men reporting any employer who breaks the rules. In a signed statement issued last night 61 members of the Builders' Exchange declare that 42 cents will be the prevailing rate-paid this year. None of these men have signed the 43-cent agreement. The phone book shows 520 master carpenters and contractors doing business in the city, so that the builders' statement is representative of about one-eighth of the trade.

Thru being organized, the exchange is, of course, more influential than these figures indicate. Its members employ about 1100 carpenters, as compared with the 3000 men controlled by the unions, who will refuse to work at the 42-cent scale.

who will refuse to work at the 42-cent scale.

The Cabinetmakers' Union, who have now been out about six weeks, met yesterday afternoon and decided to continue the strike. Four hundred men are striking, many of whom have left town temporarily and reported by letter at yesterday's meeting. The cabinetmakers are drawing $5 a week strike pay, and hope to be able to increase this when the carpenters' troubles are over.

"The strike has been a success," declared one of the carpenters' organizers, "and we broke it at the right time. Many of the contractors who signed our agreement did so on the understanding that they would get men within a few days. We could not afford to antagonize these friendly firms."

At a meeting hold in the Builders' Exchange, yesterday afternoon, the following carpenter contractors were present all of whom have not signed any agreement with the Carpenters' any agreement with the Carpenters' Union, and will not pay more than 42 cents per hour this year to carpenters. The meeting wishes to refute the statement, that 45 cents per hour is to be the prevailing rate for this season, as the Builders' Exchange, who are the recognized authority in Toronto, employing the majority of carpenters, will, not pay more than the advance made on May 1, to 42 cents.

union. "What is the matter with Mc-Gill?" he said the university boys shout. And the answer is: "She's all right!" I want to ask after we have felt the mover of this congress, what is the matter with the Presbyterian Church? Immediately, amid laughter and great applause, the answer came as on a college green: "She's all right!"

Dr. R. Campbell, Montreal, drew about him a still greater interest. Looking quite frail, yet charged with a temper he had described as being quite brittle, he solemnly declared that the issue was one of "life and death" to him. He argued that the Presbyterian Church, in her doctrinal standards, was the great church of the Bible, and that other denominations should come and join her if they desired closer unity.

But the audience was restless. It seemed to be confused by the endless moving of motions and amendments. One thing was clear: Do something, either one way or other, but let the church have a rest from controversy.

Again in the evening in a thin house "Excuse me, sir," said the man with the subscription list, I am busy too, but I have come to see y-o-u." "How much do you want?" "One thousand dollars." "Here, give me the pen," for the man evidently did not like the look of his visitor's jawbone.

That was a wholesome plece of work. Next, they turned to the order of the day and proceeded to argue church union like a blind institute would have a game of football. We just sat and remembered previous discussions on the subject. Also, how the general assembly was constituted as a court of

Again in the evening in a thin house the real business of the general assembly was resumed. Among the good speeches two deserve special mention. Rev. W. R. McIntosh, London, in speaking of work among young people, said that other churches have left us in the rear on this matter. We are too topheavy with philosophy and theology, but cannot get down to understand the nature and aims of young people. Dr. John McNeil, Toronto, said that the favorite minister of most mothers is not the best scholar or the greatest orator, but the one who speaks to her boys and girls. at one time three union men were standing to drive more nails into the minority report, altho it was spiked to the table by a previous unionist, it was not "ture about fairplay," but four to one. The energy of those favoring the majority report seems to be due to the fact that they are smarting under the rein, and want to go ahead.

There was temper, too. Who has not some? But the moderator is the right kind of man where Highland temper, and every other kind burst out. "The moderator's opinion is not according to law," roared a great divine from under the gallery. There was considerable confusion, and one could see that the "man at the helm" was a trifle nettled
