

to perform for themselves and not to be content to pay for others to perform for them, to lead a purer and steadier life, yes, and to become, I verily believe, better men and women. This is something to have done something better than record making.