MOORE PARK, April 7.—(Special.)—
One of the liveliest meetings in the history of Moore Park was that of tonight in the Moore Park was that of tonight in the Moore Park Hall, and while scraps without number were the order of the evening, and charges and counter charges wer thrown around with a produganty that left nothing to be desired from a newspaper standpoint, a happy feature of the whole proceedings was that everybody parted good intends with everybody else, and the hatenet was buried good and deep at the close.

Ever since the annexation of Deer Park to the city, Moore Park and Leaside have agreed to disagree on the question of the site of a new public school, and to-night's exhibition of oratorical fireworks, while more vivid than any hitherto shown, was pretty much along scheduled lines. With the annexation of Deer Park and the Deer Park School, Moore Park and the Deer Park School, Moore Park and Leaside have been practically dependent on a city institution for its educational advantages, and now that Leaside has shown a disposition to expend itself and take on the airs of a country village they want a school all their own.

should and we will not give up," said Mr. Lea.

A good deal of cross-fining and desultory discussion took place at this point, and following this three or four resolutions, and one moved by Trustee Doel, suggesting the building of a school house at Leaside, embracing part of S.S. No. 10 and parts of contiguous districts, was buried out of sight. This was submitted to the meeting by the chairman and supported by the ominous vote of 13, but a call for the nays scored 28 against the resolution, a big win for the Moore Parkers. Jerry Nelson had a resolution, but he withdrew that, and Mr. Butler called his off, and somebody moved the adjournment of the debate and asked leave to sit again, which was granted, the same to be resumed at the next monthly meeting of the Ratepayers' Association, and then they all filed out into the moonlight and the health-wiving qualities of the Moore Park district.

The deceased was a member of the club for over two years, and left a widow and four children, the youngest of whom is less than a year old. The program was an excellent one, and was all voluntary.
