responsible" replied the liquidator. The investigation would be held before the supreme court and he would examine anyone who might be liable.

Two Directors There were two directors present at the meeting. Mr. Dinnick said he only saw two directors present but both of them had signed the board and three months before the failure no blame could be attached to either of them. The company stock held by the directors was as follows: R. H. Stevens 10; D. G. Taylor 21; John Green 50; S. C. McLeod 21; S. Roitz 24; H. Waddington 125; Jas. Green (dead) 20; W. Mowett 20; Rev. G. S. Taylor 4; T. C. L. Firstbrook 10; G. W. Young 40. The only officers he could find registered in the books were in the name of H. W. Winton. In closing the meeting Mr. Cameron said that the investigation of the last few weeks had led to the belief that the company had been run for the sale of the Lawrence Dinnick property in May last was Mr. Dinnick's fault but that did not nearly as much as was expected. "Has W. S. Dinnick any interest in the Dovercourt Land Company?" asked another shareholder. "The only interest Mr. Dinnick has in connection with an agreement made with him in 1915, when he was to receive $50,000 when the railroad office with the Standard Reliance and Dovercourt Land Co. Beyond that he has no interest. He is, however, a debtor to the company," replied Mr. Cameron.

In regard to the sale of the Dinnick building Mr. Cameron said it was purchased by Messrs. Dinnick and Waddington, and they may have obtained a profit in the transfer of the property to the company. If the investigation showed such was the case, the profit will have to be accounted for.

"If they had to account for it, would they be solvent?" shouted a creditor.

"None of them would not," returned the liquidator.

In reply to a question as to the number of loans made to the directors, Mr. Cameron said that all loans had been made to Mr. Waddington, and a very substantial one to Mr. Dinnick. Big loans had been made to subsidiary companies, and they would now be discounted considerably.

In answer to a query why his firm discontinued to act as auditors to the Standard Reliance, Mr. Cameron said: "The real point was this. We insisted on presentation of a statement which would indicate to the shareholders and the public that loans were being made outside of ordinary loan company business."

"No, contrary to custom."

Called Them Gamblers. "They are nothing more than gamblers," said one agitated lady in the audience. "They gambled with my money six days in the week. I will take fifty per cent. for my shares. The chances are I shall get nothing."

"Your chance for that are very good," dryly replied Mr. Cameron.

A shareholder complained that a classmate came to him and said if he invested in the Standard Reliance it was perfectly safe, as they had a government charter, and that protected the shareholders. Mr. Cameron said if on investigation it was found that representation had been made, readjustment would follow. (Cheers.) He further declared that the auditors of the Standard Reliance had been given an opportunity to explain their figures.

Mr. Cameron, when he was through answering questions, explained the details of his scheme for reorganization of the Standard Reliance. There was little or no debate on it, and on a vote being taken 97 per cent. of the stockholders voted in favor of its adoption.

A further motion proposed by Col. Bostock and seconded by A. Campbell.

AUSTRIANS COMPLAIN OF OVERCHARGING

In Counter-Proposals, Object to Having to Pay Two-Thirds of Debt.

Paris, Aug. 6. - The Austrian counter-proposal to the peace terms was handed to the allied mission at St. Germain-en-Laye today. It is regarded as the most important document brought to once to Paris and referred to the supreme council of the allied conference.

The Austrian observations on the treaty were considered in peace conference circles to be very temperate in tone.

The Austrian reply said the delegation realized Austria's position was that of a defeated power, but complained that its territory had been limited in too sweeping a manner.

Particular objection was offered to the loss of southern Bohemia and the Tyrol district.

The Austrians state they also believe they have been greatly overcharged, as two-thirds of the debt of the Austro-Hungarian state is being loaded upon them. They say that the proportion is too heavy, considering their small population, and they are not sure they can live under such conditions.

A special appeal was made by the Austrians for oral discussion of the treaty. They said they believed such a discussion would result in a more complete understanding of the conditions imposed.

Also the Austrians indicated very clearly their intention of signing, even if the treaty is not modified, yet they expressed the hope that some modification may be effected.

Dr. Karl Renner, Austrian chancellor, and head of the delegation, and most of his colleagues, will leave tonight for Vienna.

The Austrian counter-proposals will be made public together with the reply of the allies, when the latter is formulated and presented.

Liberals Pass Resolution Of Loyalty to the King

Ottawa, Aug. 6. - In the Liberal convention today, Senator Bostock, seconded by Mr. McMillan, Liberal candidate for South Huron, moved the following resolution:

"This convention desires to place on record its devotion to the person and office of His Gracious Majesty King George the Fifth, and its appreciation of his untiring efforts during the war in promoting harmony throughout his dominions and also its unalterable attachment to the British Empire and to our own beloved Canada.

"And this convention further desires to place on record its gratitude to the valiant Canadian army for its splendid share in the great victory which has brought the blessings of peace to the world. In the desperate struggle between the forces of autocracy and democracy our gallant soldiers have covered themselves with glory by their courage and devotion to duty and have earned the undying gratitude of all Canadians and made the name of Canada an inspiration for future generations."

of what the two witnesses said was woven the ever-rising cost of food, mounting higher and faster, they insisted, than the increase in the workman's wage, with no assurance that it would stop unless quick and drastic action was taken by congress.

Both Mr. Stone and Mr. Morrison said that wage increases offered only temporary relief, contending that prices of food and clothing must come down after the wage demand pressure would be lessened.

He declared the pending bill would prove to be the first step toward forcing down prices by reducing freight rates and expressed the belief that despite the burden of bond buying during the war the American people would produce the funds necessary to take the road from private control.

The two union officials for five hours stood up in defence of the bill and answered a whirlwind fire of questions. The labor leaders made a strong denial of reports that they were attempting to intimidate congress by threats to strike or chop off the political heads of members voting contrary to their desires. There was a broad intimation that the public ownership plan if not enacted into law would be taken to the convention of the two big parties next year with the hope of having its endorsement written into the platform.

Warning of General Strikes. Warning was sounded by Secretary Morrison that the burden of the leading might be too heavy—that they might be unable during this period of unrest to control the workers—in which case he declared, there would be a revolution to the extent of general strikes. Around the whole theme

There were men in that government said Mr. Graham, pretending to be Liberals. They got in there and could not get their way out. Their places here had been filled by better men and they came back. I was offered a place in the Union government, the first one offered after the old chief had declined and it took me ten minutes to say no. I was offered the same terms as the great chief, I could save my choice of any portfolio outside of that of the prime minister and he suggested that I have the ministry of war overseas. It was also offered that I could name half the cabinet from my own followers and if the numbers were not then equal I could appoint another minister without portfolio to equilibrate. Sir Wilfrid Laurier said, "I would have been free and I spurned the offer which was the best thing that ever happened to me."

Mr. Graham said much had been heard of the persistence of Sir Robert Borden in forming a government, the persistence he declared, was all on the part of Sir Clifford Sifton and Sir William Mackenzie. The C. N. R. interests needed men in the government and they persisted until they got a government to their liking.

Had Proved a Failure. Union government had proved a failure in the old land and would be so in Canada. Party government, declared Mr. Graham, was the only system by which the people's rights could be protected. The men who stayed in the Union government, call themselves what they like, were fossilized Tories.

Mr. D. D. McKenzie, acting leader of the opposition at the last session, was the next speaker. He stated in opening that he had been a follower of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to the last. He had named the Laurier colors to his must in the last general election and borne them to victory. With reference to the tariff, he expressed his absolute approval of the resolution just passed by convention. When he had undertaken the temporary leadership of the Liberal party an announcement that the convention would resume at 10 o'clock on Thursday morning.
