

OF CANADA

OF PARLIAMENT

Association and House

TORONTO

DE STREETS

the world.
compounded four times a year for ladies.

and banking premises.

General Manager.

TORONTO

GREEN BRANCH

N BANK

FORCE

ATION TO

Accounts

NEW FRENCH REMEDY

THERAPION

ERAPION No. 1

ERAPION No. 2

ERAPION No. 3

ERAPION No. 4

ERAPION No. 5

ERAPION No. 6

ERAPION No. 7

ERAPION No. 8

ERAPION No. 9

ERAPION No. 10

ERAPION No. 11

ERAPION No. 12

ERAPION No. 13

ERAPION No. 14

ERAPION No. 15

ERAPION No. 16

ERAPION No. 17

ERAPION No. 18

ERAPION No. 19

ERAPION No. 20

PHONE CABLE TO ISLAND

TO BE LAID BY THE BELL

Terminals at Foot of John-Street and Hanlan's Point—Work
Starts Next Week.

The Bell Telephone Co. has definitely decided to lay an additional cable to the island, work on which will be begun just as soon as the material arrives, which is expected to be the end of this present week.

The new cable will be laid along the same route as the old one, with the city terminal at the foot of John-Street.

The cable will be a reel mounted on a scow and with one end fastened to the shore the line will unwind and drop to the bottom of the bay as the scow is towed across.

The island terminal will be at Hanlan's Point, and the length of cable required will be one mile and will weigh approximately 5200 lbs.

The new cable will, like the old one, be operated by a small switchboard at the island, with which a number of slot-machine phones have been connected. The population of the island during the summer is about 250 families, which the company declares warrants the laying of the new cable, the old one not being sufficient for the use of private subscribers.

The company states that the expense of laying the cable and keeping it in operation necessitates the heavy rates for the island service, but even with this explanation it is hardly to be expected that there will be a rush of applications as the price per phone will be $60 at the island end of the cable and $5 additional for each quarter mile of distance added.

TORN BY WILD BEASTS.

HISTORY OF A GREAT DISCOVERY

The old Roman heroes who were torn by wild beasts at their fights in the now ruined Coliseum at Rome, the Greek charioteers, and the gladiators who made fighting a profession, all knew the virtues of herbal essences for skin injuries and diseases. They would apply a charm. Their ideal of a balm or salve was not correct one—a preparation which must combine power with purity; and that ideal is realized in Zam-Buk.

Ordinary ointments, salves, and embrocations are generally composed of rancid animal fats and mineral poisons. Zam-Buk, on the contrary, is a healing balm, composed of highly refined sage and juices got from certain rich medicinal herbs, and every household may rely on its healing aid.

When the little one runs in from his play with a smearing, dirt-filled scrape on his hand or knee, simply wash with water and smear with Zam-Buk, bandaging if necessary.

When father returns from work with cut hand, the handy balm of Zam-Buk again meets the emergency, and the housewife or mother continually finds it a real friend in need for the burns, lacerations, scratches and bruises of general household duties. For eczema, ulcers, itch, fistulas, abscesses, scalp sores, and all skin diseases, it acts like a charm. It eases the pain, stops the bleeding of piles and cures this painful ailment quickly and surely. All druggists and grocers sell it. A box or two from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, 6 boxes for $2.50.

MORAL CLAIM AGAINST CITY.

J. Souleby Unable to Collect for Injuries at Crossing.

After getting a verdict of $1000 damages against the city for injuries sustained at the High Park crossing last October, J. Souleby, whose wagon was struck by a train thru the negligence of the watchman, received a distinct throw down yesterday when Justice Britton dismissed the case on the ground that there was no claim.

His honor, however, did state that the city should take the matter into consideration. There was a moral claim for damages, altho not a legal one.

TRAIN LOAD OF NEW COMERS

Majority Are Farmers and Will Stay in the Province.

A train load of 200 newcomers arrived on the C.P.R. yesterday afternoon. The majority are farmers, who intend remaining in the province. About seventy of the party left for western points.

Could Not Recover Wages.

Ellas Cohen came from New York to work on a year's contract for the Cooper Cap Co. His work was not up to specifications, and before the year was up he was fired. Before Judge Morson yesterday he sought to recover a couple of month's wages, but it was hard luck, and judgment was given for the Cooper Company without costs.

A BEAUTIFUL FACE

All the old methods of securing beauty and a perfect complexion are replaced by the RUBBER COMPLEXION BULB.

It prevents and removes wrinkles, pimples, blackheads, spots, and freckles, and makes the skin soft, clear, smooth and white. A single soothing application produces remarkable results. Blackheads in many cases are banished in a few minutes. The great white which it clears the complexion is almost beyond belief. The regular price is $1.00. Remarkable device need have any further fear of rivals or knock-offs. Always ready, no matter how late, to supply the demand. In order to introduce our Catalogue of new specialties we will send the Complexion Bulb complete with full directions for thirty-five cents, postage paid. You cannot afford to miss this bargain.

The F. E. KARN CO., Limited
Cor. Queen & Victoria Sts. TORONTO, CAN.

WANT NEW CAER HOWELL

OR NO LIQUOR LICENSE

Proprietor Will Try to Get Capital But Has No Assurance From Commission.

The cutting off of the Caer-Howell license, one of the oldest and most home-like hotels in Toronto, caused much comment yesterday. H. U. Layton, the proprietor, has conducted the place for the past forty-four years, and in an interview with The World stated that he did not like the idea of being cornered when lots of places in Toronto were not as good and had not fulfilled the requirements of the law as he had.

"The license was cut off," he said, "because I failed to get sufficient funds to build a new place to accommodate more people. The matter was taken up, and we had the plans under way, but you cannot get capital together in this town in such a short time. As it was we had a company formed when some of the parties backed out and the thing fell thru. At any rate, I have sufficient accommodation now, and I have always kept an orderly house, which is a necessity in this district."

Mr. Layton stated that he might go on with the law, which was talking scheme yet, but he had no guarantee that he would then receive a license.

Rev. Dr. Chown in an interview in reference to the action of the board in refusing a license to the Scarborough Beach Park, commended the license board.

The whole policy of the government seems to be to meet the requirements of public sentiment in Ontario," he said. "An instance of this is the reported intention of the government to refuse licenses in local option municipalities, where local option has been set aside by a whole country will approve of the policy of giving effect to the will of the people. It is not only fair to the people, but it is a principle which is contributory to higher citizenship. The temperance people feel that they have a right to protection, and because of this, some officials of a municipality is ignorant of all of the provisions of the statutes."

LOSS OVER $176,000.

Old Don Brewery Fire Falls Heavy on Insurance People.

Uncertainty exists as to the exact extent of the disastrous loss which swept the buildings of the old Don Brewery early yesterday morning, but conservative estimates late yesterday put the loss at $176,000.

An accurate statement will not be available until C. J. Cox, who was appointed adjuster at a meeting of the Underwriters' Association yesterday morning, has made his report.

The buildings damaged are: Davies Brewing Company, building and contents, $13,000; Ontario Storage Warehouse, $20,000; contents of warehouse, $14,000; Smart Bag Company, building and contents, $3000; Distillers Method Company, $750. Total loss, $176,750.

Ridout & Strickland placed the insurance for John Dick, who owned the storage warehouse. It was insured for $28,000 in the following eight companies: Phoenix of London, $3000; Lancashire Union & Crown, $8000; Atlas, $6000; Commercial Union, $2000; Liverpool, London & Globe, $8000; North American, $3000; Scottish Union & National, $3000.

P. Pearson placed the insurance of the Calvert-Dwyer Company in the following companies: Northern, $8000; Royal, $4000; Montreal, $2000; Waterloo, $1000; Caledonian, $2000; Queen, $2000; Rochester, $2000; Phoenix of Brooklyn, $3000; New York, $4000. Total, $42,000.

The Taylor Milling Company was insured with the Atlas for $2500, and P. C. Larkin with that company for $300.

Doubt exists as to the origin of the fire. Spontaneous combustion was at first thought to be responsible, but it is now thought that electric wires disorganized by the severe electric storm, were the cause. A theory, that the fire started from a stove in the office of the Storage Company, is discredited by the fact that while the office was on fire, the stove was not burning.

Settlement Is Expected.

OTTAWA, April 30.—(Special.)—A. F. Lob of Toronto, solicitor to the hydro-electric commission, is in the city in negotiation with the city electric commission, concerning the dispute over the power situation. It is expected that the ten-year contract with Hull, arranged by Hon. Adam Beck, will be entered into.

Many Water Services Frozen.

OTTAWA, April 30.—(Special.)—The work of thawing out frozen water services this year has cost the City of Ottawa $7348. This is the costliest season on record.

RUSSIA MAKES CHANGES

IN ITS RECRUITING LAWS

Fewer Men to Be Called to the Colors—Situation Within the Douma.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 30.—The lower house of parliament to-day adopted the government's recruiting bill by 220 to 198 votes.

The house simultaneously adopted a resolution setting forth the necessity of decreasing next year the number of men to be called to the colors and passing a law abolishing the custom of providing soldier servants for officers and the use of troops for police purposes.

President-Golovin apologized in behalf of the house for an incident last night, during which M. Zurbaff, Socialist, made a savage attack on the army and the government, which for a time produced a rupture between the ministers and the house and threatened to precipitate a dissolution of parliament and which ended in M. Zurbaff being deprived of the right to the floor of the house and being formally rebuked.

It was understood that this apology was acceptable to Premier Stolypin. The Socialists, however, retorted with a signed resolution declaring that M. Golovin's words infringed the prerogative of the house and dignity of the house of parliament, and suggesting the election of another president. The protest was placed on the records and the doors were opened for consideration of the bill appropriating $5,000,000 for the famine. The appropriation was voted by a large majority.

Later the house unanimously passed the law abolishing trials by drumhead courts.

Newspapers Silent.

With the exception of The Novoye Vremya, which holds itself outside of the ordinary press restrictions, not one of the morning papers to-day ventured to report yesterday's debate on the government's recruiting bill in the lower house of parliament, fearing suspension, and in their accounts of the executive session of the house referred only guardedly to the conflict between the house and the government.

The Rech, organ of the Constitutional Democrats, summarizing the work of the lower house up to the present, says: "In spite of enormous difficulties and much suffering, the Douma has made considerable progress, having organized 15 committees to handle the principal problems of social reconstruction."

"A number of projects are ready for presentation to the house, including reforms of the courts, providing for the inalienability of the person and several financial laws, which will be taken up immediately after the Easter recess, while a measure providing for religious liberty and other laws will be reported at the end of May."

President-Golovin is quoted by The Stovo to-day, as saying: "The constitution has so changed that there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

Losing Authority.

The Russian ministerial remarks: "The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

RUSSIA MAKES CHANGES

IN ITS RECRUITING LAWS

Fewer Men to Be Called to the Colors—Situation Within the Douma.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 30.—The lower house of parliament to-day adopted the government's recruiting bill by 220 to 198 votes.

The house simultaneously adopted a resolution setting forth the necessity of decreasing next year the number of men to be called to the colors and passing a law abolishing the custom of providing soldier servants for officers and the use of troops for police purposes.

President-Golovin apologized in behalf of the house for an incident last night, during which M. Zurbaff, Socialist, made a savage attack on the army and the government, which for a time produced a rupture between the ministers and the house and threatened to precipitate a dissolution of parliament and which ended in M. Zurbaff being deprived of the right to the floor of the house and being formally rebuked.

It was understood that this apology was acceptable to Premier Stolypin. The Socialists, however, retorted with a signed resolution declaring that M. Golovin's words infringed the prerogative of the house and dignity of the house of parliament, and suggesting the election of another president. The protest was placed on the records and the doors were opened for consideration of the bill appropriating $5,000,000 for the famine. The appropriation was voted by a large majority.

Later the house unanimously passed the law abolishing trials by drumhead courts.

Newspapers Silent.

With the exception of The Novoye Vremya, which holds itself outside of the ordinary press restrictions, not one of the morning papers to-day ventured to report yesterday's debate on the government's recruiting bill in the lower house of parliament, fearing suspension, and in their accounts of the executive session of the house referred only guardedly to the conflict between the house and the government.

The Rech, organ of the Constitutional Democrats, summarizing the work of the lower house up to the present, says: "In spite of enormous difficulties and much suffering, the Douma has made considerable progress, having organized 15 committees to handle the principal problems of social reconstruction."

"A number of projects are ready for presentation to the house, including reforms of the courts, providing for the inalienability of the person and several financial laws, which will be taken up immediately after the Easter recess, while a measure providing for religious liberty and other laws will be reported at the end of May."

President-Golovin is quoted by The Stovo to-day, as saying: "The constitution has so changed that there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

Losing Authority.

The Russian ministerial remarks: "The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there is no prospect of an early dissolution of parliament, and there is ground to hope that the lower house will be able to carry out its mission in the enactment of the necessary reforms."

The Douma is daily losing authority in the eyes of the people, owing to the absence of a working majority, but there