A Railway Men's at Home.

Society Hall, Little York, looked gay on Wednesday night, with its multitude of lights and varied decoration in honor of the annual at home of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. The evening was opened with a literary program, the numbers of which were excellently given by artists well known to Toronto; especially good was the work of Messrs, McCouse, Phillips, Carnahan, Allman, White, Wiggins and the Blackstone family. The refreshment tables, spread with all that is tempting, were under the charge of such hostesses as Mesdames Cussack, Emerton, Carrol, Prest and Stibbard, and what with a good floor for the dancers, nothing was wanting to make the occasion an enjoyable one for every guest present. for every guest present,
During the evening appropriate
