BASEBALL

"Good-bye, boys, I hope you'll win out." It was the end of the seventh inning, and Price was saying farewell to his late fellow-players of the London team, before leaving for his home in Windsor, Ill. Price had ceased to be a member of the team, but his heart was still with them through seven tough innings.

The Hams were five runs ahead, and Hagerman had been too much for the Cockneys. The fans had ceased to hope. Then came the lucky eighth. McCann dropped a long fly to McFadden's center, and Schwartz hit safely to left. They both advanced a base on a passed ball. Loman popped a little one to Hagerman. Cope drove the ball to center, and McFadden and Schwartz tallied. Cope was forced out at second, Babbitt getting to first on Hagerman's choice. Seiver hit safely to short, and Mohler drew a base, hitting the bases. Reed and Jones singled in succession, scoring Babbitt and Seiver. Then McFadden hammered out a two-bagger, bringing in Mohler and Reed, the last one giving the Cockneys a lead of one run. The visitors went out in one, two, three, one, in the ninth.

Richardson, Hamilton's new second baseman, made a clean single and a home run. The visitors got all their hits, save two, in the fourth and sixth innings. Umpire McKeever robbed the visitors of a run in the fourth. Cope threw to first to catch Richardson, and he would have been caught several feet away, but the ball bounded out of McFadden's hands. McKeever, who turned away a second too soon, called the batter out, and refused to change his decision, in spite of a vigorous kick from the Hams.

FOR THE FANS.

The remarkable brace in the playing of the Pittsburgh since the release of Manager Watkins strengthens the belief that there was serious friction between that official and the players.

It is rumored that another manager, name unknown, will succeed Fred McKeever when the New Yorks return home. It is also said that the drag net is out for cheap minor league players to take the place of several members of the team who have grown disheartened.

Young Hemphill, of St. Louis, the center fielder and speedy base-runner Tebeau recently secured at Grand Rapids, has been sold to Cleveland. The Toronto Telegram. The Toronto Baseball Club have farmed out Pitcher Hardy to Woodstock, and he will finish the season with the Canadian League. At the beginning of next season he will join the Toronto team. As yet Hardy has the control necessary to make a successful twirler in the Eastern League.

Spectator: Jimmy Dean, who has played second base for the Hamiltons for several seasons, has been released. Jimmy has been playing good ball, but is not able to do his best now on account of an injury to his arm. Other players will be released in a few days, as President Stroud is determined to have a winning team.

CRICKET.

HAMPSHIRE VS. AUSTRALIA.
Southampton, Aug. 4.—When the cricket game, which began here yesterday between the Hampshire eleven and the visiting Australians, was adjourned for lunch today, the Australians in their first inning had scored 155 runs for three wickets down. The Hampshire players in their first inning yesterday were all out for 395 runs.
The Australians subsequently concluded their inning for 360 runs.

FISTIC AFFAIRS.

JEFFRIES IN LONDON.
London, Aug. 5.—Jim Jeffries, the champion heavy-weight, arrived here yesterday from Southampton. The big fellow is looking well, has already been "spotted" by the London public, and a large crowd gathered whenever he enters or leaves his hotel. Jeffries is scheduled to meet Charley Mitchell here in a ten-round go some time between Aug. 25 and 30.

WHEEL.

NEW MILE RECORD.
Chicago, Aug. 5.—"Major" Taylor, the colored professional cyclist, rode a mile, paced by a steam motor, at the Garfield Park track, Tuesday, in 1:22 1/2, beating the world's record by 5 1/2 seconds. The first quarter was made in :20 1/2, the half in :39 1/2, and the three-quarters in :59 1/2. Taylor's performance is the most remarkable, in that it was not aided by wind shields or any other device, being simply a straightaway paced race. The Garfield track is a half-mile in circumference.

THERE is not a more dangerous class of disorders than those which affect the breathing organs. Nullify this danger with Dr. Thomas' Electric Lotion—a pulmonary of acknowledged efficacy. It cures soreness and lameness when applied externally, as well as swollen neck and crick in the back; and, as an inward specific, possesses most substantial results.

Electric Turkish Baths.

J. O. A. Beupre, M.D., Madison, Ill.; H. G. Moffatt, of St. Louis, Mo.; Mr. Burdick, Port Huron, Mich.; and Mrs. J. Susan Nichols, of Toronto, were taking the vapor baths and massage at 328 Dundas street, and leave their names in appreciation of the baths.

Old Boys' Attention!

The graduates of Coo's Shorthand and Business Assistent are always ready to accept good situations. If you require a good stenographer, call at 76 Dundas street, and Mr. Coo will supply you with a first-class one. During the past week Mr. Coo placed Miss D'Arville as bookkeeper for S. F. Wood, stained glass works, and Mr. Connor temporarily with Columbia Handle Works. Students may join the classes any time. Now is the time to commence. Get in before the September rush.

The city of London is in the hands of her children. The citizens have abdicated in favor of boys and girls from far cities. The citizens are very happy over their freedom from responsibilities, and the visitors have taken up their role of rulers with easy grace and light heartedness. The entry was heralded with the blare of trumpets and the noise of drums. A citizens' committee met them on their arrival and offered homage. Thousands of people crowded the railway stations and the streets and lustily welcomed the monarchs of the day. The business streets were gay with bunting and flags. Union Jacks and the Stars and Stripes floated from innumerable flag staves, windows and cornices.

There are no men and women in London today. Nobody counts years. Boys and girls are they all, and gray hair is as good as locks of gold. The reception committee and the sub-committees had arranged everything for the reception admirably. This, everything but the weather, which in the stress of other matters was probably overlooked. A gentle summer rain began to fall about 9 o'clock and kept falling with provoking persistence until after the Toronto contingent had arrived at 11:25 a.m.

By 10 o'clock the members of the reception committee were assembled at the city hall. The Seventh Fusiliers Band was also there and enlivened the time of waiting with music.

"WE WALK."

Chairman McPhillips was kept advised by telegrams of the advance of the invaders. At 10:30 a message was received from Messrs. E. W. M. Flock and J. R. Minnick, jun., of Chicago, contingents at Chatham. It read: "Detroit train just left. All wear 'We Walk' badges. Chicago follows twenty minutes later."

Later a dispatch was also received from Frank Le Gros and John Carling, jun., who had gone to Woodstock to meet the Toronto delegation. It announced that the Toronto train had just left that point, and it was found that the Detroit and Toronto trains would arrive about the same time. The former by C. E. B. and the latter by G. T. R. The C. E. B. officials agreed to hold the Detroit train a short distance from the station until the reception committee should arrive from the other station.

Meanwhile Richmond street between Dundas street and G. T. R. station was thronged with expectant crowds, who waited and laughed and chatted cheerily in the rain. At 11:15 the reception committee formed in line at the city hall, with the mayor and Ald. McPhillips at the head and the Seventh Battalion Band leading the way. Wm. Wanless was marshal.

THE BADGES.

Everybody wore an Old Boys' badge of some sort. The secretary and the chairman of the reception committee were distinguished by blue silk badges, the other members of the committee wore badges of red silk, and the guests wore white silk. The badges were all stamped with the city's coat-of-arms, and inscribed, "London Old Boys' Reunion, 1899." They were fastened with a neat gold clasp stamped "London."

The train bearing the Toronto contingent arrived in the city at 11:25. It pulled into the station, the crowd, which was so dense that one could hardly move about, gave three hearty cheers, and the Seventh Battalion Band struck up "Auld Lang Syne." "Ker-chill flags and small flags were waved on all sides. A hearty handshaking followed. Many of the visitors, including the ladies, were carried off without ceremony by friends; others went to the hotels for dinner, while a detachment formed in line behind the band and the citizens' committee on Richmond street.

The procession then moved off for the C. P. R. station to welcome the Chicago and Detroit contingents. The Seventh Band was in the lead, and a large body of representatives of the citizens of the London Old Boys' committee. The band of the Forty-eighth Highlanders headed the Toronto contingent, and the Royal Trumpeters' Band followed in the rear. The line of march was direct up Richmond street to the C. P. R. station, as the Toronto contingent was somewhat late in arriving. The line of march was thronged with citizens.

AT THE PARK.

Arrived at the park the visitors and citizens assembled together around the band stand, from which hung intertwined the flags of the two countries. It was some minutes before the cheering with which the assembled crowd greeted the visitors as they marched up to the place of meeting, had subsided sufficiently to allow Ald. McPhillips, chairman of the reception committee, to be heard. He cordially welcomed the visitors in a brief but happy speech. Mayor Wilson followed in similar vein, and extended the freedom of the city to the guests. Ald. G. W. Ross spoke at some length with characteristic humor and good feeling. He was glad to see that the Old Boys of London were always to come home with a right to be proud of their native city. London was the fairest and most beautiful city on earth. He referred pleasantly to Nicholas Wilson, the veteran anchor, who was seated on the platform, and remarked laughingly that Mr. Wilson had doubtless dogged most of the visitors more than once. The Old Boys of London had received good educations. Some persons said the schools of today were not as good as those of the past. He said that the Old Boys of the last generation had certainly been well educated. London Old Boys made the best of citizens. They were fond of their homes and their children. They had the quality of goodness, which was worth just as much in the city of Toronto as in the city of London. London turned out doctors who could cure their patients, and lawyers who knew how to prepare a good bill of costs and a legal qualification for the bench. The speaker referred feelingly to the illness of Sir Frank Smith, which prevented him from being present. Continuing, he said there was nothing in the city of London had more reason to be proud of than the men and women she had sent forth to fight the battles of life. If the British and Canadian strain were taken out of the American national life, the best part of it would be lost. The British and Canadian element supplied the spirit of enterprise and the genius of liberty to the American nation. He inscribed: "Welcome, London Old Boys. Sweet Home. Our City is Yours."

THE FIRST ARRIVAL.

many of the old boys. He was the last rose of summer, a little faded, but with some life yet. (Cheers.) The term "Old Boys" had originated, he thought, at the celebration of his (Mr. Wilson's) 50th anniversary as a teacher, and was due to Mr. Thomas Pardon and Mr. Frank Love. London was a pioneer in educational reform. It was the first place to adopt the Saturday holiday, and the first in the province where free schools were instituted. He regretted that they were going back on the principle "Woodman, spare that tree." Mr. Wilson humorously remarked that the London girls never grew old. A Voice—You must be Irish. (Laughter.)

Mr. Wilson said his wife was. He came to London in 1842, and when two regiments of soldiers were encamped where the audience now stood. His wife came here ten years earlier, so that they were two of the oldest of the association. Mr. Wilson said that one day in 1851 he whipped 83 scholars.

Voice—Frank Love must have been there. (Laughter.)
Mr. Wilson—No, that was before Frank's time. On this occasion, he tried to find out who had committed a certain fault, and as no one would. (Continued on page 6.)

TO BRITISH DEAD

Proposal to Erect a Monument or Boston Commons.

Boston, Aug. 5.—The Victoria Club, of this city, whose membership includes all the leading representatives of British societies in Boston, propose to erect a monument to the memory of the British soldiers who fell at Bunker Hill.

Permission has been asked from the committee on cemeteries of the board of aldermen, and, if successful, the club will build them monument. The monument will be in the shape of an Irish cross of bronze, with a halo around it, mounted on pink granite with a gray granite base.

A FRIENDLY TIP.

"I'm going to Europe again next week," said Banks.

"That so?" said Stocks.
"Yes, I find I'll have to go over, though I hate the job. I would have gone last week only I have been putting it off."

"He never cares to wander from his own fireside, eh?" quoted Stocks.
"No, it is not that," said Banks. "In fact, he rather likes to wander occasionally. But I'm such a poor sailor. Every time I cross the Atlantic, my business takes me across four times a year, I put in a week of perfect misery."

"That rather takes the edge off the pleasures of an ocean voyage, doesn't it?" said Stocks.

"It certainly does," said Banks. "You're a good sailor, yourself, I understand?"

"I've only been seasick once in my life, and I've crossed the pond a score of times," said Stocks.

"You got used to it, I suppose," suggested Banks.

"Well, no," said Stocks slowly. "I don't think I got used to it exactly. But the first dose of seasickness was enough. I took precautions next time."

"How?" inquired Banks.

"Well, I reasoned it out. Seasickness is caused by gas in the stomach. The rocking of the boat churns the contents of the stomach and brings about fermentation. Hence the gas; and thence the nausea. I saw that if I could get my food digested before or in spite of fermentation I would be all right. So, knowing that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets were good for indigestion—"

"Yes, I know that too," interrupted Banks.

"I tried them for seasickness," continued Stocks.

"How did they work?" asked Banks.

"Well, I've never been seasick since," said Stocks. "I've carried Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets on every voyage I've made since."

"I must invest 50 cents in a box, this trip," said Banks.

When Travelling

Always take with you a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

The change of food and water to which those who travel are subject, often produces an attack of diarrhoea, which is as unpleasant and discomforting as it may be dangerous.

A bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in your grip is a guarantee of safety.

On the first indication of Cramps, Colic, Diarrhoea, or Dysentery, a few doses will promptly check the further advance of these diseases.

So, too, it is a specific for sea sickness, relieving the nausea, stopping the vomiting, settling the stomach and bracing up the weakened heart.

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is being more widely and shamelessly imitated this year than ever before by unscrupulous pharmaceutical concerns who hope to profit by the high reputation of this remedy. Your safety lies in seeing that the full name, Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is on every bottle you buy.
