THERE is not a more dangerous class of disorders than those which affect the breathing organs. Nullify this danger with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil—a pulmonary, of acknowledged efficacy. It cures soreness and lameness when applied externally, as well as swollen neck and crick in the back; and, as an inward specific, possesses most substantial results.

The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment, it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convey the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with indigestion.

The residence of Mrs. Charles Depper, 239 Hamilton road, was the scene of a pleasant gathering last evening, when a number of her son Willie's friends from the local school gathered. Good Fellowship Promoted by Feasting, Speech and Song—The Exchange Now a Flourishing Society—Those Present.

The first annual banquet of the Builders' Exchange, which was held in the City Hotel last night, will long be remembered by those present as a most enjoyable event. The fraternal spirit was in evidence on every side, and all the members did their utmost to make everyone present spend a couple of happy social hours.

When ample justice had been done to the splendid repast, good fellowship was further promoted by speech-making and song. The chair was occupied by the genial president of the exchange, Mr. William Jeffrey, who commented on the value of the exchange as a place of promoting good fellowship, and for the furthering of the builders' ends. The society, he said, had only been organized about a year, but had a large membership, which was constantly growing, and its financial standing was good.

PUBLIC LIBRARY BOARD FOR 1899

Elect Mr. Talbot Macbeth as Their Chairman.

Mr. Mark. Wants the Union Label on the Library Printing—Librarian Blackwell's Report for January.

The board of management of the public library for 1899 held their inaugural meeting last night. On motion of Mr. Robert Reid, seconded by Mr. Hubert Dignan, Mr. Talbot Macbeth was elected chairman for the year. There was no opposition.

Messrs. Egan, Reid, Jeffery and Macklin were chosen as a library committee, with Mr. Egan as chairman.

Messrs. Marks, Dignan, Judd, Mayor Wilson and Mr. Macbeth were elected to the finance committee, with Mr. Marks as chairman.

Librarian Blackwell's report for January was received and filed. The total circulation for the month was 8,231, of which 4,423 was adult fiction, 1,252 juvenile fiction, 1,435 miscellaneous works, and 1,121 magazines. The average daily circulation of books was 266.

and of magazines 47—a total of 343. The receipts amounted to $37.50. The fines averaged 78 cents per day. One hundred and six cards were issued during the month, making a total of 6,575 to date.

The annual report of the library, which has already been published in The Advertiser, was read, and laid over for consideration.

The Woman's Art Club applied for a two-years' lease of the room in the library which it has occupied for a year. The finance committee was authorized to renew the lease for one year on the same terms.

Printing and binding tenders for the year will be called for, to be in at the next meeting of the finance committee. Mr. Marks gave notice that he would move that the union label be placed on all the printing.

The members present were Messrs. James Egan, Henry Macklin, Hubert Dignan, A. O. Jeffery, J. C. Judd, Robt. Reid, Joseph T. Marks and Secretary Blackwell. Mr. Robert Reid moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Reid, the retiring chairman, before adjournment. Mr. Egan made a suitable reply.

PUBLIC LIBRARIES IN OLD LONDON

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I have before told you how the museum authorities try to interest the public in the contents of the noble buildings committed to their care, the British Museum, giving free lectures on Egyptian antiquities, or the Elgin marbles; the natural history department, on geology, and this winter, the South Kensington Museum is giving a splendid course on the evolution of art. This last is principally for art students, but anybody who wishes can attend, and many do, coming long distances to avail themselves of the privilege.

And now, those who have charge of the public libraries are trying what lectures will do to make people acquainted with a higher class of literature than they have been accustomed to read. The rich, of course, can have this in their own homes, but there are many who ought to take advantage of the privileges offered to them, who call them "dry." They cannot see, as a poet wrote a few years ago:

"That he should look with reverent eyes,
Sometimes on nature's open page;
Not solely are the wondrous skies
For school-men, and for sage.

"Earth's flower hues blush, heaven's starlight's burn,
Not only for the happy few;
To them the toiling ones should turn
For lofty pleasures, too."

The nearest library to me is the Fulham Branch Library, in the Wandsworth bridge road. I sometimes go there to read the papers and magazines. This is the first winter there has been a course of free lectures. They are a great success, not only in the character and size of the audience, but in promoting the objects in view. I was talking with one of the librarians the other day, and the told me that since the lectures began there has been a demand for solid reading, and books that have stood on the shelves for years without being opened have been asked for. Formerly it was light literature only that was popular.

As I know this same difficulty presents itself in all public libraries, I thought I would write and ask if you have tried free lectures in Canada. Yours respectfully, A. M. OLIVER.
