Only Common Justice to Treat All Citizens Alike

The following letter was received yesterday by the secretary of the citizens' express and freight campaign committee from Dr. J. J. Coyne, dentist, 623 St. Clair avenue west, a copy of which was forwarded to the Dominion Railway Board, Ottawa. It reads as follows: "As I enter a plea for your consideration in regard to unqualified free express and freight delivery in Toronto. At present thousands of citizens of Toronto are paying extra charges on freight and express because we happen to live in a district in Toronto outside the express delivery limits, and yet well within the city limits and heavy taxation area. It seems to me only common justice that such and every citizen should be treated alike in this respect. Hoping for your favorable consideration."

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The widely exploited sympathetic "walk-out" of trades unionists in greater New York in aid of the striking car men, which was supposed to have started yesterday, had not materialized tonight, according to the police. The labor leaders claimed, however, that upwards of 140,000 union men had actually quit their places, but refused to make public the names of any unions answering the call. The police declared they were unable to find any evidence of a general strike.

SCHWABEN REDOUBT ALLIES' NEXT GOAL

of the former shrine, where peasants working in their fields could see when looked up from their labors in the surrounding fields and villages. In all the weeks since July 1 the British made no further attempt at this hill. Their trenches were in the same place as before that day. The "No Man's Land" or dead space, remained where it was when the Germans first formed their defensive line. But while the grand attack on July 1 had succeeded, they had given Thiepval and Schwaben redbout a fair daily allowance of shellfire, though they had not attacked it in front, but approached it from the side as well as having it in a crushing vise. One German officer, who was captured, said he did not think the British good enough soldiers to attack in this way, which was just the way the British did attack after their lesson of July 1. "And we hope the Germans will continue to think us stupid," said a British staff officer. But beyond Thiepval was that last commanding high ground south of the Ancre. Bare and brown it looked this morning and distinct were the German trenches, which were going "to get it" at a given moment. Breaking the German Morale. Meanwhile along the line of battle came just the steady gunfire which has been maintained without intermission of late. This keeps the Germans always under strain, destroying their works as fast as they can dig. They never know when or where such things as happened this morning at Schwaben redbout may happen. And suddenly balls of smoke so thick that they soon became a cloud were laid over the German first line on the ridge and every one breaching, from an ugly flash, hissing, crashing, death, laid its gripping, clinging mantle over this trench, whose inmates could survive only by hugging their dugouts. Every shell seemed to fall between two imaginary lines of tape laid for the guidance of the gunners. When the rain of steel ceased, the British soldiers timing their arrival to its cessation were over the parapet and at the door of the dugouts. Then on to the next trench in the same fashion the waves of shellfire swept up the hillside as shields for the advancing waves of khaki. German shells screamed thru the British shell curtain in an effort to check the human waves. But unless their curtains were laid in the right place they were waste, with a certainty they were fairly safe with a curtain shell fire a hundred yards on either side. Tomorrow, those waves may break with sudden intensity at some other point along the battle line and another village or system of trenches may be taken. Three-quarters of Schwaben redbout is in British hands and five or six hundred prisoners were shelled out of their dugouts while the fighting continues at this writing. All along the line the British are gaining ground. GRENADIER PARADE. The 10th Royal Grenadiers paraded at the armories last night, and despite the rain 550 turned out. It was not possible to hold a march-out, but platoon and battalion drill was engaged in.

PICCADILLY CIRCUS FULL OF FEATURES

Novel Entertainment Provided in Transportation Building, Exhibition Park.

The Piccadilly Circus, held in the transportation building, Exhibition Park under the auspices of the Lady Rose Chapter, L.O.D.E., for the purpose of raising funds in aid of the home for returned disabled soldiers, was officially opened and began a three-day session last night. Despite the heavy rain which fell all evening a large crowd was present and enjoyed one of the most original and novel entertainments ever held in Toronto. Modelled after the plan of Piccadilly Circus in London, the building presented an attractive appearance, with colored lights and flags of the allies in profusion. In addition to the four famous theatres, The Alhambra, Coliseum, Empire, and Haymarket, there was a Japanese Tea Garden, which was elaborately decorated in Japanese style, containing a miniature lake, a beautiful walk and a theatre in which were presented Japanese plays. A collection of 5,000 tents were attractively arranged and were the homes of the fortune tellers. All forms of entertainment were provided, many of the features being entirely new. The midway speller was on hand with his megaphone and a discordant voice called the crowd to enter and "get the biggest dinner worth on the grounds." One feature attracted many and that was the sister of "Stella" who proved so popular at the Exhibition, and those who saw the sister last night, declared that she far surpasses her relative in beauty. Pretty girls sold flowers, gave chances on photographs, shawls, etc., and all joined in the festivities and contended with each other in contrite bidding to the worthy cause. Splendid programs were presented in the various theatres, and the contributors all are giving their services free, and included in the number in addition to local performers are some who have won distinction on the stage. The band of the 168th Battalion, having to Niagara and contributed many selections last night.
