FOUR BROTHERS ENLIST.
A St. John woman, Mrs. William Stockford, of West Side, enjoys the distinction of having four brothers enlisted for foreign service. They are now members of the 55th battalion and left today from Sussex, where they have been in partial training, for Valenciennes. The young men are Ray, Frank, Ally and Theodore Roy, belonging to the North Shore. Mrs. Stockford returned home yesterday from Sussex, after saying farewell to the quartette of volunteers, whose numerous friends will wish them success and Glenwoods, the proceeds of which will be used to procure baseballs to be sent to the St. John boys overseas.

The Man In The Street

Welcome to our city—Sol, old man!
And won't you please get busy and help dry up our streets?
We have some fine water fountains for horses about the city, when they're clean, but teamsters ask that they be cleaned in the evening and not early morning.
But can't our special detectives detect the parties who take away the cups from the fountains?
There Are a Few Toronto has changed the names of several of its streets because of their German origin. How many can you think of, of hand, with German names in St. John?
The surface of the country is being worn away at the rate of one inch every 740 years, as are told by a geological survey report. But even at that there are a good many inches to be worn away.
Edison is quoted as saying recently that his inspiration in his inventions has been his wife. And Edison is the inventor of the gramophone!
Or Almost Any Transfer Stop... News despatch says "Man in New York worked for Five Days with Back Broken." Perhaps it's true. Probably it won't cause much surprise to some fellows who know just how much neck can stand on wet or windy days about the foot of King street, frinstance.
Patriotic Round-Up "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford is to be played in pictures," says new word list. What a happy time J. Rufus would have had in Nova Scotia buying war horses! In Kentville, N. S., yesterday one witness told of a "bag" being sold for $185, which required two men to help it to its feet.
At the time, perhaps, the poor animal may have had the same stage fright from the bargain tag placed upon it.
"Smart society" in the states are not touring to Europe this season. Perhaps, in spite of many hard things said against them they may deserve the title after all.
But They Always Get It Out Circular says "the west will starve," unless men come from the east to help harvest its crops. But what's the benefit of all the unemployed we used to hear of out there? Surely they haven't all gone to war!

WITH C. M. R. ON S.S. HERSCHEL
Chaplain Kuhring Writes of Trip Across—Pays Tribute to Men—How They Spent Their Time
The following very interesting letter has been received from Capt (chaplain) Kuhring of the 6th Mounted Rifles, writing at sea, on board the steamer Herschel, on July 26:
I am writing to give the friends in St. John some idea of the life of the 6th C. M. R. on the voyage to England on the S.S. Herschel.
The voyage up to the present moment has been in fairly calm waters, and although the wind and waves have been landing this ship more roughly today, the men have got their "nauseas," and there has been little sea sickness aboard, and we expect to make England in two days.
The men of this regiment and the forty out of the 30th C. M. R. who accompany us are, without doubt, a superior lot of men. Physically, they are splendidly fit, and their intellectualism is marked by the title of the books I see in many of their hands as they lie about the deck reading and looking in the sunbath. There are a number of Arts and Divinity students in our midst, some from Lennoxville, Kings and Wycliffe Colleges.
My lot as chaplain has been a very happy one, as officers and men have given me a warm welcome, and their co-operation has enabled me to do much I must have otherwise left undone. We have had two official eleven a.m. services on the ship. The singing and responsive reading by 400 men was inspiring, and I personally enjoyed addressing this gathering. Each Sunday we gathered at seven o'clock and until dark sang the favorite hymns of the men as they were called for. Having on board no piano or band, necessitated my leading the singing with my violin, and I had the practice improving my execution.
In the same way, almost every evening at seven we gathered in the main hatch, which we named "assembly square," and sang choruses, patriotic sentimentals and otherwise. Two evenings we had a gramophone concert, in which we heard many celebrated bands, vocalists and entertainers from far distant lands. You will understand what value we place upon our gramophone when you remember it takes the place of hand and piano.
I applied to the "Khaki" club of Quebec and secured an instrument valued at $250.00, and from them and other friends about ninety records. I shall have these for use in barracks in England, where I expect we shall spend at least six weeks after arrival.
Bart of the 810 given me by Mrs. A. Adams, Chapter I. O. D. E., I spent in securing 3,000 sheets of paper, 1,000 envelopes. When I tell you that the two occasions on which I distributed these, once as we started on our voyage to let them pen letters home by the pilot, and again last Sunday, to be ready to mail letters on arrival in England, over 1,500 letters were written, you will understand the importance of having this writing material.
At the beginning of the voyage I distributed two large cases of magazines. These have been constantly changing hands so long as even a few leaves have held together.
Tonight, Monday, we had a minstrel show and concert. Of course the chaplain had to get the component parts together. That was easy, seeing I had such material as Belding of St. John, N. B., and the Rogers boys of Amherst, N. S., with their friends. The jokes

SUBMARINE WAS AWAITING THEM

Chased by Hesperian's Convoy—Three Spies, Altogether, Found on the Transport—An Interesting Diary
Mrs. W. J. Brown has received from her husband, Lieutenant Brown, of the 6th C. M. R., who was one of eleven officers of that regiment to sail on the steamer Hesperian, a very interesting diary of the voyage. He tells of the German spies arrested and of a rumor that a German submarine was waiting for the Hesperian but was driven off by destroyers. Writing on the morning of July 28 he says:
"I was up all night. I went off duty at midnight, and there was apparently no place to sleep so I stayed up. At daylight the men gathered up their goods and chattels, and went below. They had slept on deck. It was quite a sight to see 1,500 or 1,600 men stretched out on the decks, each man with his life belt under his head, or on. We sighted a couple of steamers and one sailing ship during the night, and this morning three steam trawlers came close to us. We passed the Scilly Islands about a half hour ago. We are right in the danger zone. Nobody is allowed on deck in uniform this morning.
"12 noon—We have sighted all sorts of craft but no war vessels. Nobody is allowed on deck, whether in military, or we wander about inside, up and down, aimlessly.
"2:30 p. m.—There are 10 small fishing boats on this side of the ship and one steamer. The bedroom steward has just told me the escort has arrived. I went out and looked. One destroyer is about 100 yards off on one side, and one is about on the other side, so I guess our troubles for this voyage are over.
"3:30 p. m.—Through some freak of nature the Hesperian is being overtaken by the torpedo boats. We don't know whether the submarine was sunk or not, as the British admiralty are not saying what they are doing to the submarines. It is all warlike here—the harbor full of training ships, four or five torpedo boats, submarines, two battleships and innumerable other small armed craft. Plymouth is certainly a most beautiful place viewed from the sea. I never dreamed of such beautiful parks and buildings right at the water's edge. Just got word our regiment, the 6th, got away at 7 o'clock; don't know where, probably Shorncliffe. We'll catch up to them tomorrow."
THREE SPIES ARRESTED ON STEAMER HESPERIAN.
Lieutenant Brown also refers to the spies discovered on board and arrested. Writing on Thursday, July 22, he said:
"3:45 p. m.—Have just returned from a meeting of the officers. We arrested a spy last night. He was a soldier and had a flashlight in the shape of a pistol for signalling, also other signalling devices in his possession. He was found among the ammunition workers making enquiries. Two other men are under suspicion, father and son. One is a munition worker called 'Pitchey' and his son is the only second class passenger. We are having them watched, and all the soldiers with foreign names are under scrutiny."
Continuing his diary of the voyage Friday morning Lieutenant Brown writes:
"We arrested two more suspected spies tonight and put them in the guard room. One was the only second class passenger and the other was his father, one of the munition workers. Tonight somebody was signalling from our signalling post, when it was supposed to be closed and nobody there. The spies will be tried in England."
WITH THE 24TH
Mrs. Thaddeus J. Scribner received a letter yesterday from her son William, who is a member of the 98th battalion, now stationed at Shorncliffe camp England. He speaks about the life in camp and the drilling they are having in order to make them hard and fit for service at the front. He said the buglers are being used as stretcher bearers and ammunition carriers, but he asked Major Dunfield to allow him to join the ranks.
The men are daily practicing shooting on the range, and sometimes are called up at two o'clock in the morning to start on a march. He is in the best of health and spirits and said he is enjoying the life of a soldier.
The roar of the big guns across the channel can be plainly heard on a still night. He said they do not mind that as they soon get accustomed to the sound of guns. The only drawback he finds to the drill is the lack of cigarettes. He is expecting some from home, but they had not arrived when he sent the letter.
He told of one detachment of soldiers leaving for the front to reinforce some battalion and one of the number returned and said there were only about fifty left fighting as the others had been wounded or taken prisoners.
He said they had received orders to prepare for a week's manoeuvring in some trenches they dug. They were to be sent into the trenches with rations to last forty eight hours. He wished to be remembered to all his friends. were clean and original, and among them many exceedingly good local hits. We asked for a collection for the fund for aged sailors and widows and obtained $20.22.
I am looked upon as a sort of intermediary, and the men come to me for all sort of things and advice. The ten days on the steamer has enabled me to get into close touch with men and officers, and has led me more clearly to see how distinct my call has been to this important work.
Tell the friends not to cease praying for us. Our work will be serious both in physical, moral and religious realms. Divine power alone can enable us to do our duty.
Yours faithfully,
