

WORK OF S. A. IN INDIA TOLD OF

Major Joseph Tyndall Addresses Large Audience in Imperial

Sir Douglas Hazen Recalls Early Days of Army in Saint John

Major Joseph Tyndall, of the Salvation Army, wearing the picture costume of the Army's workers in India, addressed a large audience in Imperial Theatre last night and in speaking of the extent and increasing power of the Army's missionary activities in that country where he labored for 10 years, dealt specially with the work of reformation of the criminal classes which has been undertaken at the request of the Government.

He made an appeal for support of the efforts of the Saint John corps in raising funds to build a village hall for Salvation Army work in India and a generous offering.

Chief Justice Sir Douglas Hazen presided at the meeting and special music included an anthem "O Divine Redeemer" by the choir of St. David's church with J. Bayard Currie at the organ and a vocal solo by Rev. J. M. Murchison, district secretary of the Bible Society. Major Tyndall will speak tonight in the Charlotte street citadel.

It was announced last evening that on Thursday of this week Lieutenant Commissioner and Mrs. Turner will address a meeting in the Brindley street corps hall when they are in the city on their way from California where they have been stationed for some time, en route to South America to take charge of the Salvation Army territory there. The commissioner is the first Canadian to receive such high rank in the Army and at one time was in charge of the Salvation Army work in the Maritime Provinces with headquarters in Saint John.

Mrs. T. A. Burton offered the opening prayer. Major Burton, commander in this district, expressed appreciation of the presence of Sir Douglas Hazen as chairman. Sir Douglas said wherever he existed the Salvation Army was a great agency for good deserving the support of all. He recalled the first Salvation Army meeting in Saint John he had attended more than 40 years ago, and of the inspiration it had been to those who gathered, many having come only in idle curiosity. He said he had contributed to the Salvation Army work for the soldiers in war time, and declared the Salvation Army to be one of the greatest agencies for good in the world today.

MAJOR'S ADDRESS.

Major Tyndall has been for 20 years a member of the Salvation Army and is now attached to the headquarters staff in Toronto. For 10 years he was working for the Army in India and during that time he visited Japan and China. He said he was proud to represent the Salvation Army in India.

Its work in India began in 1882, when Judge Tucker of the India civil service gave the position in order to become a Salvation Army worker and take the Army's message to the people of India. There were very many day schools and boarding schools, 10 training homes, eight hospitals, four rescue homes, three naval and sailor homes, a factory, three weaving establishments, as well as other industrial organizations for the reform of the criminal class, which was a very serious menace to India. The work among the criminals was undertaken at the request of the government.

Major Tyndall wore the native costume, which is the uniform of the Salvation Army in India, and he explained that the Army's workers in India endeavored to get close to the people by living as far as possible according to the customs of the country.

HELPING CRIMINALS.

With the criminal class the Army's work had been so successful that now it had supervised of 40 criminal settlements scattered about India and containing 10,000 souls. He described the vastness of India and its 700,000 scattered villages and the facilities which the country presented for the raids of the criminals in their bandit groups.

The Gospel message brought by the Army workers had reformed and transformed these criminals to good citizens, he said. Some of them had entered training homes and would become Salvation Army officers. In the Telugu country, where the Army had 800 criminals in one settlement, it was found hard to make the criminals work, since they had always lived by stealing, and they complained that all India had been theirs and their country had been taken from them. Even then he was gradually trained to useful service and now had a well-managed community.

The speaker described the obstacles of the Army's pioneer workers, who had gone to India without proper equipment. He said there was still great need of funds, and an effort was being made to raise the money to give the necessary equipment for extending the work.

Major Burton explained that No. 1 Saint John corps was hoping to raise $800 for a village hall in India, as it was planned to establish these halls in many villages in India as possible.

Hearty thanks were extended to those who assisted with the program last night.

100 STUDENTS HELD CAPTIVE BY BLAZE

Marooned in Hamilton Institute on Top of Nine-story Building

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—About 100 students in the Hamilton Institute, a business college at 18 to 19 Astor Place, were marooned on the upper stories of the nine-story building, when firemen fought and subdued a smoky and stubborn fire in the basement. After the fire had been put out the students came down the stairs to safety.

The Institute occupied the seventh, eighth and ninth floors of the building. It was early for many of the classes and so only 100 students and teachers were in the rooms. The firemen ran up the stairs to the school and warned the students. Owing to the fact that smoke had mushroomed up the stairs and made exit risky, the firemen advised the students to remain in the classrooms.

Deaths

Robert H. Lackey

COAL CREEK, Jan. 17.—Robert H. Lackey passed away at his home here after a few days' illness of pneumonia. He was one of the oldest residents of this place, reaching the great age of 86 years.

Mr. Lackey was a man of sterling character, honest and upright, always taking an active part in whatever pertained to the good and welfare of the community in which he lived.

In his early days he was connected with the lumber industry, his activities extending over a number of years. Besides his wife, who was Miss Margaret Ward, of Red Bank, he leaves to mourn three sons, Wilmet H. and Herbert F., at home, and Stanley W., of B. C., also two daughters, Mrs. Hugh Lecker, of Fredericton, and Mrs. M. E. Weaver, at home and one sister, Mrs. Sarah McVicar, of the Range. Rev. Archibald Sutherland, of Chip-

EVOLUTION IS SERMON TOPIC

Rev. J. S. Bonnell Begins a Series in St. Andrew's Kirk

Controversies due to Scientists Invading Where They Had Not Authority to Speak

In St. Andrew's Kirk last night Rev. J. S. Bonnell commenced a series of sermons on evolution. He referred to the wide publicity given last summer by United States newspapers to the trial of Scopes, a young school teacher of Tennessee, who was charged with teaching evolution. The trial was a farce from the outset, Mr. Bonnell declared, as there could only be one outcome. The teacher had broken the state law and the trial served no higher purpose than to afford a noted criminal lawyer an opportunity to propagate his atheistic views, and a United States politician an opportunity to display his profound ignorance on the subject of science.

A more important aspect of that trial, Mr. Bonnell said, was that it was intended to revive the old animosity and renew the age-old conflict between science and religion. It could be seen in history that old discord and hostility of the past had been due to a misunderstanding of the function of science and religion.

THROUGH THE YEARS.

Mr. Bonnell traced the conflict through the ages from the time of Copernicus, continuing through the days of Galileo, Sir Charles Lyell, Darwin, Huxley and other leaders in science. They had all taught the new scientific truth about the revolution of the earth daily round its axis and yearly about the sun and that all life on the planet was linked in a great progressive chain, but the theologians had branded these men as blasphemers and had claimed that Genesis proved the new science to be absurd and untrue. One of these, Dr. John Lightfoot of Cambridge University had claimed to have established from Genesis that man was created by the Trinity on Oct. 23, in the year 4004 B. C. at 9 o'clock in the morning. Mr. Bonnell in passing said it was only necessary to state that a tablet recently found in Mesopotamia had authentic reference to an advanced civilization which had existed in 5000 B. C.

SPEAKS OF DRUMMOND.

He declared that both religion and science owed a great debt to the young man Henry Drummond, who at the age of 33 by his brilliant attainments had caused his name and fame to go around the world. He was among the first to show that Genesis was never intended as a text book on science and that its function was only to teach an abiding religious truth.

The reverent scientist must answer the question, said Drummond, as to the time and duration of man's creation and it was on the other hand that scientists or theologians had invaded the realm where they were not entitled to speak with authority. He quoted from Prof. J. Arthur Thomson of Scotland and Dr. Francis Aveling of London, showing that these scientific leaders of today taught that both science and religion led to God.

In closing Mr. Bonnell asserted that the Bible had nothing to fear from the best credited scientists and would continue to hold its place as the supreme moral guide for humanity.

The next sermon in the series will deal with the evolutionists' account of creation.

LOWLY HERB YIELDS POTENT NEW DRUG

Ephedrine Will be Used For Colds in Head, Relief of Asthma, Etc.

Canadian Press Despatch.

TORONTO, Jan. 17.—A special despatch from Madison, Wis., to the Mail and Empire by Dr. A. H. Gee, of the University of Toronto, says:

A lowly herb whose virtues have been known to the Chinese for 5,000 years, has yielded a drug which shortly will be adopted by western medicine as a powerful agent with a variety of clinical uses.

Known as Ephedrine, its utility to physician and surgeon has been demonstrated at the University of Wisconsin by Dr. K. K. Chen. Treating colds in the head, relieving asthma, and for local anesthesia are three of the uses to which the rediscovered chemical has already been put, with marked success.

The most important power of the drug is its ability to cause a pronounced and sustained rise in the blood pressure. Its advantages are so great that it is expected to supplant, to a large extent, the drug adrenalin, which is won from the adrenal glands of animals and still widely used in the clinic and operating room.

Adrenalin causes a rise in blood pressure, but the effect is brief. Further,
